It was nearly 11 o'clock when the case was called and the work of securing a jury was begun. It was at this point that Senator Quay first made his appearance and took his place with his counsel. He appeared to be in excellent health and his bearing was calm and self-possessed as of one who felt that he was master of the situation. When an attempt was made by the commonwealth to stand aside John W. Smith, a democrat, Mr. Daughermanner, alleging that it was the purpose of the prosecution to select partisan jury, and he called upon the court to prevent it.

Judge Wickman replied that the court could not assume that any democratic juror would violate his oath.
The word of selecting the jury is still in progress.
