"St Plunkard."
Tonight Farmer Lewis' roaring farce-comedy, "St Plunkard," will be the attraction at the opera house. In the third act will be seen a regular working threshing machine in full operation, an original idea of Mr. J. C. Lewis, who is proprietor of, and assumes the title role in this great Yankee comedy. The entire act represents threshing day on St's farm, in which are introduced pleasing musical specialties by Mr. Lewis, Miss Lettie Wright, Mr. M. Milligan and others, and is closed by St and his numerous farm hands, threshing fifteen to twenty sheaves of grain in full view of the audience, the attempted abduction of "Dora" and the fate of Moses Wilton in the machine.

COLUMN RENTED.
This column is rented for the purpose of informing the public of the nature of the controversy with regard to the licensing of liquor in this city. Whether it is a question of spirits or no spirits, character or no character, or whether it is simply a question of irresponsible men over riding the law in the name of morality.
