HAMBURG EMBROIDERIES.

This lot of Hamburgs is by far the greatest bargain ever shown in this city. Five thousand yards of them. All direct from the embroidery mart of the world—Saint Gaul, Switzerland. These are all good widths and very handsome patterns, there being twenty different kinds and each as handsome as the other. The work is good and is done on very nice cloth. These goods would ordinarily sell for 30c per yard but by this sale we are in position to sell them at 40c for a strip of 44 yds. That's just half their value being at the rate of 10c per yard. We do not offer them at 10c a yard but 4c a strip of 44 yards. This is to avoid remnant. At this price they are the cheapest embroideries ever offered to the public. They are selling rapidly and many of our retail merchants in neighboring towns are investing in them, and no wonder, for they are lower than we ever could buy them ordinarily. In this connection we would also state that we have just received a thousand dollars worth of new Nainsook embroideries and tiny edges and finesses. Mail orders have prompt attention.

A Well Pleased Audience.

The entertainment by Herbert Stanley Benton at the Young Men's Christian Association last night was a good one, and pleased the audience well. Mr. Benton has a good delivery, a sense of humor and knows what he is talking about, and consequently had no trouble in carrying his hearers with him: the views of tropical scenes and the volcanoes were especially fine; by an arrangement by which the Association gets half the proceeds Mr. Benton will give an entirely different lecture on "Adventures in the Sandwich Islands" at that place tonight. General admission 50c, holders of Star Course tickets 25c, children 25c. This will be a thoroughly enjoyable entertainment.

LA. SHIPP.

LA. William E. Shipp, of the 10th Cavalry, U. S. A., has been at the request of the Governor, assigned to duty in North Carolina, with headquarters at Raleigh. He will aid in the inspection of the troops and in their tactical instruction, guard duty, &c., and his services will be of a great value. Such officers are now on duty in most of the States, and ought to be in all. LA. Shipp is a native of this State, a son of the late Judge Wm. Shipp, and has been stationed at Ft. Grant, Arizona. He is a very agreeable gentleman, with great pride in the service. The State Guard will be prompt in its appreciation of his work here. Most of his time will be spent at the various company and regimental posts.

Cotton.

There is a pretty large lot of cotton on the platform now, the number of bales being estimated at 3,500. The compress is working to it full capacity and the cotton is being moved at a lively rate by the railroads. Seventy bales were brought in by wagons to-day.

Local Ripples.

—Mr. A. A. Gates, of Greenville, S. C., proprietor of the Charlotte Steam Laundry, is in the city.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Powell arrived home from Goldsboro, this morning.

—The next attraction at the opera house is a good one, Ray L. Royce's "Tom's Vacation." It will be here a week from tomorrow night.

—Mr. M. L. Pride, who carried Mt. Holly on his shoulders for sometime, is now located at Hamlet, where he is doing a real estate, hotel and newspaper business.

—People couldn't help talking about it—the beautiful weather that prevailed today. When our climate does get on its good behavior, it is the prettiest in the world.

—The gravel train hands of the Richmond & Danville company are at work today laying a new flooring in the train yard at the Trade street passenger station.

—Little Nugget Company gave a tip top entertainment to a fairly good sized audience last night. It is the same company that was here in January, 1891, but the play did not suffer by repetition. The company left this morning for Spartanburg.

A TIMELY LECTURE.

It was given to a crowdier by a Business Man Who Didn't Miss his Words.

A News reporter heard a pretty good thing to-day. A group of men had got together on a street corner and were talking about things in general, when one of the party watched his chance and chipped in with the inevitable whine about hard times. One would have thought from the way he talked that the whole business of the country would be wound up in its entirety within 24 hours. There was a calm eyed individual in the crowd who heard him out and then said: "Talk like that gives you away. You are either a loafer or one whose delight it is to howl calamity. You evidently have not the faintest conception of the business status of Charlotte, and if you will apply yourself to the task, you will very quickly realize the emptiness of all your ideas about the situation."

The speaker was a business man, and the way he talked attracted the attention of the party. Continuing he said: "If you are not too lazy, walk about Charlotte. You will find new buildings going up on every street, and old buildings being remodeled. You will see two large iron shops, four cotton factories, one knitting mill, two of the largest oil mills in the South, and a dozen or more machine shops working along prosperously; you will see carpenters and bricklayers busy at work; stores doing well, street cars humming and in short an air of general prosperity prevailing. Then visit the Building & Loan Associations on Saturday afternoon. At each agency you will see a string of people filing by the cashier's desk for two solid hours, pouring in a stream of money as their earnings and investments. There's no hard times there. Charlotte is all right and everybody would fall better if this insane talk about hard times was stopped."

The growler borrowed a chew of tobacco and had nothing more to say.

Money Plentyful.

Bradstreet's report money easy at Chicago, with grain and provision men the only borrowers of importance. Country banks are carrying better balances than for some time and deposits have increased. Money is very easy at Kansas City, and banks are carrying from 40 to 50 per cent of their deposits. Commercial paper is scarce and the demand is active. There is little more inquiry for funds at St. Louis, though rates are easy. Bankers at Cincinnati have more capital than they can use.

Sam at the Opera.

Sam, the Albino who helps Warren Roark truck cotton bales about the platform, was at the opera house last night. With commendable foresight, the usher showed him to the most remote seat in the house. Sam laughed three times during the play, and each time a big wad of plastering came down from the ceiling just above him. He was isolated, though, and as the falling plaster didn't hit anybody else's head except his, no one was hurt. The show people wanted to take Sam along with them, but he couldn't be prevailed upon to leave "dat ar cot'n platform."

For a choice tender juicy steak go to H. C. Irwin's meat market, Trade street. Western meat.

Weather Prophet and Umbrella Mender.

The town is full of umbrella menders. Gentlemanly fellows they are, too, and they come in quite handy at times. One of them professes to be a weather prophet and uses that to effect. "You had better have that old umbrella fixed," he will say, "for it is going to rain within 10 hours." And he generally gets a job.

A Brown Stone Yard.

Charlotte's cotton inspector can not exactly boast of a brown stone front, but he has a brown stone yard. He bought up the brown stone chips left by the stone cutters employed on the new Second Presbyterian church and with these chips he has fixed up the front yard at his dwelling in a very unique and attractive style.

Interesting News About Mr. McLees.

Rev. Mr. McLees, who was for two years pastor of the Graham street Presbyterian church of Charlotte, but who went from here to Orangeburg, S. C. to be married in that place next Tuesday. After the marriage Mr. McLees and his bride will come to Charlotte, and will be the guests for a few days, of Mr. John B. Ross. They will then leave for New York from which place they will sail for a tour through the Holy Land.

Transformation of Granite Row.

The old "granite row," a block of old time Charlotte buildings, opposite the Central hotel, is fast disappearing. The three-story section occupied by Gray Tools for ten or twelve years past, is now being worked over into a handsome pressed brick front, and will hereafter be occupied by M. P. Pogram, the haberdasher. The appearance of the old block is now indeed city like, but there is one or two slices of it yet not beyond redemption.

Breaks Jail.

The sheriff of Cabarrus county didn't have to serve as big a breakfast to the inmates of the jail at Concord, this morning as usual, for the inmates were scarce. Three prisoners, Leroy Gray, Jim Todd and John Kiser broke jail. They cut through the iron grating to their cell, then lowered themselves to the ground below. Gray and Todd are the Rowan cotton thieves. St. Blair, the man who is charged with writing threatening letters to Mr. Long, of Clear Creek township, this count, declined to leave the jail with the other prisoners.
