VOLUME VII.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., FRIDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 5, 1892

NUMBER 1063

Seigle's FEB. 5 1892.

EMBROIDERIES, LACES, WHITE GOODS, BLACK GOODS.

In the midst of winter we are in Spring. Two stocks together. One rising in and one going out. All winter stocks are greatly reduced in price in order to clear them out. We have a few Long Cape. These most stylish of Ladies wraps. They are the proper thing and now are to go at a price that would not even pay for material but alone the making in Black and Gray do come. In price they are procurable very low. If of us. The Embroidery stock of the Old North State is now centered here under our roof. We say it plainly that never have we shown so large, so handsome as complete a line of Embroideries as right now. The White Goods and Black ones too are all in for the Spring trade. Our White Goods, Black Goods, Embroideries and Laces far ahead of any in the State. Your judgement will say that our statement is correct after a careful look through our stock. Bargain Hamburgs still going. Good cloth, fine work, elegant patterns 4 1/2 yards in a strip, 4 1/2 a strip. Chiffons at 25-cs. stifle the gang of merchants as well as the buyers.

OUR SHOES HAVE A WALK-OVER.

For downright, positive cheapness you will find it not difficult, but impossible to match the shoes we are selling. Our artist's private opinion is that they have a walk-over. Well, he might easily be much further from the truth. Don't take our word for it, investigate the matter for yourself. A small margin on a continuous customer knocks out a big margin on a single sale every time. That is why we are selling our shoes at a figure which no other dealer has ever dared to quote, and that is why prudent purchasers are prompt purchasers.

To Meet in Raleigh.
About the first of March a meeting of prominent officers of the State Guard will be held in Raleigh to arrange for exchange to the three battalions system. This gives three battalions, each of four companies, to a regiment. Each battalion will have a major. The change will lead to an increase of the strength of the State Guard.

Local Bipples.
—Miss Ella Cannon of Mt. Holly is in the city.
—Judge W. A. Hoke of Lincolnton, spent a day in Charlotte.

—The disease that editors most frequently suffer with is the mail complaint.

—Col. E. Barkley superintendent of the Richmond & Danville division is in the city.

—Some of the young gentlemen of the city have rented the auditorium and will open a skating rink tonight.

—There are several weddings booked for the early spring, in which Charlotte people will figure conspicuously.

—Misses Minnie and Grace Cochran have gone to Concord, to attend the leap year reception at that place to night.

—Mr. Vinton Liddell has purchased the site upon which the Liddell shops were formerly located, on Kas. Trade street.

—The Friday night study of the M. C. A. at 8 o'clock tonight. Men cordially invited.

—A ball will be given by the young men of the city, at Prof. Allison's, dancing hall tonight. Music will be furnished by the Italians.

—Mr. W. B. Alexander has bought the residence of Mr. E. T. Casler, on Morehead street, near the graded school. The consideration was $2,500.

—Johnston & Elliott, marble workers of Charlotte, have very generously offered to donate the tablet which the ladies are to erect to the memory of the late Dr. A. W. Miller.

—The rumor that has been afloat since the resignation of Chief Justice Merrimon of the Supreme court, as to his accepting the position of President of the National bank of Raleigh is denied by that gentleman.

—The handsome new residence of Mr. David Anderson, on North Graham street, will be completed this week. It is one of the handsomest and most complete houses yet built in Charlotte. The architectural plan is that of a typical New England house.

—Rev. J. F. Moser, a native of Cabarrus county, who has been serving the Lutheran church at Monroe, for sometime past, has been called to the pastorate of the Lutheran church at Mt. Holly. He has accepted the call and will preach his first sermon to his new charge next Sunday.

—A little negro named Mary Ross was arraigned before Esquire Maxwell this morning, charged with the theft of a lamp from Hattie Smith, also colored. Mary had a couple of counterfeit silver dollars on her person. She was not tried for counterfeiting, but was sent to jail in default of a bond of $50 for her appearance for trial before Judge Mearns, for larceny.

The Daily Staff. One method—how?

The people of this section of the State, particularly of Charlotte, Concord and Wadesboro, remember the case of the Atlanta preacher named Dale, who it is charged is not Dale, at all, but J. O. H. Nuttall and a bigamist to boot. A little over two years ago Rev. Walter Dale was the loved pastor of the Seventh Baptist church, in Atlanta which stands on a little rise in the eastern part of the city. He lived happily with the wife of his bosom, and stood high in the councils of his church.

Smooth, easy, ready of speech he was popular, and became a leader. One day a man met this devoted minister on the Broad street bridge. He looked at him strangely. "Surely that man is J. O. H. Nuttall," thought the man, gazing after the figure of the minister. "There can be no doubt of it—that's Nuttall, the Charlotte printer." Then the story got out. A hundred tongues repeated it, and it became public gossip. Rev. Walter Dale was passing under a false name, was no minister, and more than that he was a bigamist. For he had a wife in Wadesboro N. C., whose name was known as J. H. Nuttall, besides his Atlanta wife. The story of the exposure, the indictments for bigamy, both in North Carolina and in Rockmart, Ga., where he had married last, his dismissal from the church and his general downfall has been printed in full already. He was tried in Rockmart, and, although stoutly maintaining his innocence, was sentenced to 5 years in the penitentiary.

Judge Jim Anderson, of Atlanta applied for a new trial, and while that was pending Dale got out on bond. He was placed in jail nearly a year ago, and has been there since, awaiting the action of the supreme court. That action was taken yesterday and Dale was granted a new trial. The sensational features will be reviewed again in the courts. Since he has been in jail wife No. 2 has lost faith in him and sued for divorce. That suit is now pending.

In Society's Domain.

Col. A. B. Andrews, arrived in his private car today at noon.

A "High Tea" will be the social event this evening at the residence of Dr. Joe Graham on North Tryon street given by Mrs. Dr. Graham and Miss Beale Graham.

Mr. H. H. Orr is to take the part of Sir Joseph Porter in "Pinafore" which is soon to be presented by an amateur company in West Point, Virginia.

The Weather.

Following is a synopsis of weather prevailing at 8 a. m., to-day: The cyclone area which was central at Dodge City, Kansas, yesterday has moved rapidly eastward and has developed much light precipitation along its course. It is central at Nashville, Tenn., this morning, and has produced warmer weather and rain east, west and south. Continued light rains and warmer weather will likely continue today. A high barometer is located in the northwest where generally warmer weather obtains.

BE RELEASED TO QUARTERS.

Beverly Hoffman, a son of Dr. Hoffman, returned home to resume his duties and consultations.

The New York man received this morning relates the following experiences of a Charlotte boy in New York.

Beverly J. Hoffman has been a bookkeeper and collector for Mainhardt & Lowe, real estate dealers at 26 West 125th street, for about a year. He is 22 years old, and lives at 344 West 131st street. He was sent to the bank yesterday to deposit $750. He had been gone long enough to make Mr. Mainhardt begin to wonder what was detaining him when a note was handed him from the missing bookkeeper.

Mr. Mainhardt clapped on his hat and hurried over to the West 125th street police station.

"Our bookkeeper has absconded with $750," he exclaimed excitedly. "How do you know?" Sergeant Wilson inquired.

"I just received a note from him telling me so," Mr. Mainhardt said and explained that Hoffman had written that he had retained $250 of the money he had been sent to deposit, and that he had been retaining money belonging to the firm until the amount would reach about $1,000 as near as he could estimate.

Sergeant Wilson sent Detective Charlton out in search of Hoffman. While Charlton was looking for Hoffman Hoffman walked into the office as coolly as if nothing unusual had happened. He had taken an afternoon off and seemed to have enjoyed himself. Mr. Mainhardt concealed his surprise, engaged Hoffman in conversation, and sent a messenger for Charlton who soon responded, and arrested the accused.

Hoffman made no excuse for his conduct, and on searching him at the police station $250 was found in his possession. Sergeant Wilson asked him how he came to take the money.

"I had as much right to it as the firm had," he said, but refused to explain his meaning. He refers all questions to his lawyer, who says Hoffman drew a salary of $12 a week but was to have commissions on leases and sales, and that those commissions were not paid.

Beverly is a son of Dr. W. H. Hoffman and has many friends here. The News learns that the matter has been adjusted to the entire satisfaction of all parties concerned. Beverly simply resorted to a rather questionable means of securing his pay, and though he got it, the News would not advise him to try that plan again.

Sam Jones in Raleigh.

A good-sized and appreciative audience, says the Raleigh Chronicle, greeted Sam Jones at Metropolitan hall last evening and for two hours were highly delighted with a brace lecture, "Manhood and Money." He scores the social evils of the day mercilessly and hits straight from the shoulder. His illustrations are clear cut; some of them not so elegant, but, as he says, "they illustrate all the same," and for that reason.

One moment the audience would be convulsed with laughter at a point of expression and the next listening with solemn earnestness to strong truths expressed in forcible language. The lecturer moves his audience at every change of his varying features. They laugh or weep at his pleasure. The magic of his voice and gesture sways the crowd just as he desires. Whatever you may think of him he is most assuredly entertaining in the highest degree.

Russell Sage Jr. Dead.

New York, Feb. 5.—Russell Sage Jr., the millionaire of the millionaires of the East, died this morning at 11 o'clock at the Windsor Hotel.

Special to The News.
A special to The News from Greensboro says that the condition of wheat, A. M. Seales is but little changed from yesterday. He took some non-shipment tonight though there is no permanent improvement.

The Whiskey Trust.
A Washington special says that the government is looking for a restraining order against the whiskey trust now pending trial. The district attorney at Boston has been authorized to employ special counsel in the trial of the case.

Charlotte Business Daily Post.
Mr. Thomas Rankin, the shoe trimmer who is well known throughout a large territory of the South, arrived home last night in a badly broken up condition. His right shoulder was dislocated, the wrist broken, and one of his ribs was broken. He sustained these injuries in a runaway accident at Camden, N. C., last Monday. Mr. Rankin was being driven to the depot in a hack when the horses ran away. The hack was overturned, Mr. Rankin was thrown out and one of his heavy sample trunks fell on his shoulder.

A Call Not So Warm.
Those who were so fortunate as to count themselves among the way crowd that assembled at Blowing Rock last summer will no doubt appreciate the following card which was handed a News reporter this morning.

CRANDRENT'S SOCIETY.
BLOWING ROCK, N. C., Aug. 10, '92.

"You are earnestly requested to be present and answer to the roll, call and join in the chorus of our two favorite songs, 'Comrades' and 'Cock Robin,' which will be sung to the tune of 'Auld Lang Syne.' To this call the following names assuming the title of officers appear: J. P. Fox, president; W. J. Yates, vice president; M. P. Pagram, Jr., secretary; R. H. Holland, treasurer; Henry Nicholas, janitor.

John Wilson's Meeting To-Night.
Major John W. Wilson called to day to request The News to say that his convention of the true Republicans of Mecklenburg county will be held at the court house to night. The major has provided for all possible contingencies. A section of benches will be roped off for such of the white people as may desire to attend. "I am to be interrupted," said the Colonel, by A. L. Alexander, and I'm going to make two speeches at once." Just how he is to perform this feat, he could not exactly explain, but he requested The News man to be there and see for himself.

"As to interruptions," continued Colonel Wilson, "there is to be none of it. I have provided against that and has appointed a sergeant at arms for to see that I am not postured. He has power to inject any one who presumes to disturb the meeting." Colonel Wilson gives a cordial invitation to the public to attend.
