Our Shoes Cap the Climax

Have you seen our $3 shoe? Have you heard of it? Do you know anything about it? The less you know about some shoes, the more fortunate you are; the more you know about this shoe, the more favorably you'll be impressed with it. It has an imperfection to be apologized for; It stands in the front rank of foot-wear for neatness, durability and shapeliness; You can easily pay more money for a shoe that isn't worth half as much; not for any amount of money can you get a shoe that is worth more.

SENATE CONGRESS

The Three Questions Vigorously Argued in the House-Senate Joint Session.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 7.

SENATE.—Mr. Morgan offered a resolution instructing the committee on Privileges and Elections to take into consideration and to report with all convenient despatch upon the resolutions, also offered by him, calling for the election of United States senators. It was laid over till to-morrow. Mr. Morgan then moved to reconsider the vote whereby Mr. Dubois was declared entitled to retain his seat. He said Mr. Dubois and the contestants, Mr. Claggett, were indifferent to him both personally and politically and that his sole purpose was that the southern Senators, all of whom were excluded from the chamber, when the act of 1866 was passed, should have a right to say something as to the proper construction of that act under the constitution. After the colloquy between Morgan and Leiter, the motion was laid aside temporarily, as was also the motion by Mr. Morgan to reconsider the vote by which Claggett's claim was rejected. The resolutions heretofore offered by Mr. Call in respect to the railroad companies in Florida, influencing Senatorial election of 1890, and to opening to the settlement of the rail road land reservations in that state was taken up and Mr. Call addressed the Senate upon them.

Notwithstanding the earnest efforts of Col. H. H. Whipple, in behalf of the Democrats to secure a larger attendance of Democratic members to vote upon the resolutions setting aside three days for the consideration of the silver bill, when the Speaker called the House to order at noon he was accustomed with a long array of empty seats. Colored Hill however was confident that it would be many minutes before the House would be well filled with the supporters of silver and their opponents and stated that the absentees would be about equally divided between the two sides of the question. Before the reading of the journal Mr. Langford of Mississippi called a resolution and the clerk proceeded to read it upon its adoption Mr. Claggett demanded the previous question.

Mr. Tracy of New York called attention to the fact that the journal had not been read. The Speaker declared that it was in order for the gentleman from Mississippi to call the previous question. After the reading of the resolution was concluded Mr. Langford asked "Has the Chair ruled that this report of the committee on Rail roads can be considered before the bill can be considered?"

Speaker—The chair has that is the provision of the rules.

Mr. Dubois—The same provision of the rules would confer the same privilege on the committee to read the bill as the gentleman is mistaken there are expressed limitations against the conference reports.

Dubois—Then the chair decides the same privilege on the committee to read the bill as the gentleman is mistaken there are expressed limitations against the conference reports.

Speaker—It does not confer the same privilege on the committee to read the bill as the gentleman is mistaken there are expressed limitations against the conference reports.

Dubois—Then the chair decides the same privilege on the committee to read the bill as the gentleman is mistaken there are expressed limitations against the conference reports.

Speaker—The chair decides the same privilege on the committee to read the bill as the gentleman is mistaken there are expressed limitations against the conference reports.

Mr. Tracy—I appeal from the decision of the chair.

Mr. Tracy and his colleagues, Mr. Fitch of New York, vigorously protested against the ruling of the Speaker, which was defended by Mr. Bland, of Missouri, and a very warm colloquy ensued between Mr. Tracy and the Speaker as to the right of the former gentleman to the floor. A warm controversy arose after the conclusion of the remarks by Mr. Bland. In those remarks he called a conference he had had with Mr. Cockran of New York, and Mr. Andrew of Massachusetts, in which these gentlemen had stated that if consideration of the resolution was postponed until to day, there would be no filibustering on the part of the anti-silver men, and he charged those anti-silver men with bad faith. To this charge Mr. Cockran made a fiery denial. He had had a conversation with the gentleman from Missouri and at the conclusion, Mr. Bland had declined to agree that the resolution be taken up to day. It was only after he had had a talk with the members of the committee on Rules that Mr. Bland had consented to it. Not one word about filibustering had been said in the conversation with Mr. Bland. By a vote of 94 yeas to 37 nays the decision of the Speaker was sustained.
