Our Shoes Cap the Climax

Have you seen our $3 show? Have you heard of it? Do you know anything about it? The less you know about some shoes, the more fortunate you are; the more you know about this shoe, the more favorably you'll be impressed with it. It hasn't an imperfection to be apologized for; It stands in the front rank of foot-wear for neatness, durability and shapeliness; You can easily pay more money for a shoe that isn't worth half as much; not for any amount of money can you get a shoe that is worth more.

Let's Have a Ball Club.

Throughout the entire south the base ball fever is raging, clubs and leagues have been formed in many of the Southern States. Heretofore Charlotte has not been lagging, but this season it seems difficult to excite the interest of the former lovers of the national game. The News believes that there is no advertisement so cheap or none so lasting as that attained through the medium of a first class base ball club. Evidences of this assertion are to be seen on all hands. Nothing that Winston has ever done in the way of advertising can compete with the "send off" that her excellent base ball club gave her last season. We have the material right here in Charlotte with which to organize a splendid club and The News will be glad to help any move that is contemplated for this end. The 4th it is understood will do their part, as they are always ready and nothing should stand in the way of Charlotte having a first-class club this season.

CONGRESSIONAL MATTERS.

What our Representatives are Doing in Washington

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 11.—Senate Mr. Stewart introduced a joint resolution proposing a constitutional amendment that after 1897 no person who has had the office of president for a term of four years or any part thereof shall be eligible to that office within four years after the expiration of such term. Mr. Stewart said that he had been considering whether the committee should properly have jurisdiction of the subject and that he had come to conclusion that it ought to be referred to the committee on Civil Service Reform and retrenchment. He thought that an extension of the presidential term was objectionable because that would make the state too great and might sometime lead to a revolution. The great advantage of the amendment would be the removal of all temptation on the part of the president to use the appointing power for reelection. The joint resolution was referred to the committee on Civil Service Reform.

A bill was offered by Mr. Daniel, assenting to the privileges and grants given by the states of South Carolina and Virginia to the French Cable Company.

House—On suggestion of McMillin of Tenn., two hours to morrow were set apart for consideration of private bills and then the House went into committee of the whole.

Blount of Georgia, in chair on free wood bills, and was addressed by Stevens of Massachusetts.

A Prohibition Petition.

This being Presidential year petitions are more numerous than bales of cotton or bushels of corn.

The latest one that has fallen on the people of this section is one that will do much harm if it should get many places. The petition is a scheme concocted in the office of the Voice, the National Prohibition organ published in New York, and it reads as follows:

"We the undersigned, being profoundly impressed with the aggressive power of the liquor traffic and the overwhelming evils, political, industrial and moral growing out of it, believe that a strong influence would be exerted upon public sentiment and a long step taken toward the eradication of those evils if the enemies of the liquor traffic would present as united a front as the liquor dealers present when their business is attacked. We therefore agree to vote, at the Presidential election in 1892 for the candidates of the prohibition party for President and Vice-President, provided the signatures of one million voters be secured to this agreement."

The News learns that several pastors of the different churches in Mecklenburg county have received many of signers, and that many of them are working like trojans to secure a creditable list to send into the head offices.

EXTENDED NEWS.

A House Explosion in a Mine Near Brussels.

BRUSSELS, March 11.—An accident occurred today in a colliery near Brussels, which it is feared will result in a great loss of life. Three hundred miners were employed in a coal pit when there was a terrific explosion of fire damp, and the pit mouth was rendered unavailable and up to the present time the fate of the imprisoned workmen is unknown. Efforts are being made to rescue any of the men who may have survived the explosion. The three hundred miners who were trapped in the mine are still alive.

The effect of the explosion was terrific. The cage and ventilation were shattered, the destruction of the ventilation ad an element of great danger to the situation. Men if any survived the shock of the explosion are apt to meet their death from choke damp, as with the destruction of the ventilation it is impossible to rid the mine of gas. A large number of the miners married and their families are at the pit's mouth frantic with grief. The worst is feared, and the mine officers and gendarmes have the greatest difficulty in preserving space sufficient for rescuing the party that has been organized to work in. volunteers are plenty and almost superhuman efforts are being made to clear the shaft.

fer not to say much of the unfortunate affair at Florence. Mr. Will Barringer says that the letter which caused the trouble was not written by his brother, but one who had left

Florence and the father of the girl

fastened the blame on him brother
