Notes Work for the Listers.

The tax listers will have considerable extra work to perform this year.

Register of deeds, J. W. Cobb is busily engaged in sending the blanks for the returns to all the list takers in Mecklenburg, so that they can begin work on June 1. In addition to the listing of taxes, the list takers will be required by law to compile agricultural statistics, blanks for that purpose being provided. A failure to attend to this will subject the list taker to indictment. The list taker will have to make returns from his precinct of the number of bales of cotton raised, the acreage planted, total product value, etc., and the number of bushels of wheat, corn, oats, rye, peas, potatoes, tons of hay and clover, bushels apples, peaches, pears, quarts strawberries and raspberries, pounds dried blackberries, number gallons grape wine made, number of heads of cabbage and quantity of beans. They must give a census of stock name of breed of cattle and number of common cattle, name of breed of horses and number of common horses, number pounds of butter, etc. They must also tell the actual cost of raising a horse to three years old, actual cost of raising 100 pounds of pork, how many pounds of bacon a farmer raises and how many pounds he purchased. They must tell also, how many pounds each of far, how many bushels of corn and how many tons of hay a farmer raises and how many of each he buys.

Through the Farms.

A drive through any section of Mecklenburg will show that compared with last year, there is really a scarcity of cotton fields. Wheat, oats and corn are to be seen on all sides but only here and there do we see the familiar rows of little waxy like cotton plants popping up out of the ground. Where a cotton field is seen, though, one with a knowledge of farm parlance, pronounces that it is a good "stand." Cotton really has a very excellent start. In some fields it has been chopped out and the plants are growing finely. In some fields, corn is just above the ground, while in others it is knee high. Wheat and oats never looked better at this time of the year and all signs point to a splendid harvest. The hay and clover crop will exceed anything yet known in this line Mecklenburg.

A Hint to Gardeners.

Mr. John Meier, who lives on West Fifth street, came in to renew his subscription to The News this morning and to talk potato bug. The potato vines in his garden are two and three feet high, green and untouched, while there is devastation in the garden all around him. Mr. Meier is up in bug-dog and when asked to explain how he managed to escape their ravages he said: "It is easy enough, but the time to act is when you put your potatoes in the ground. When you plant your potatoes put plenty of wood ashes in the ground along with them. The acids developed from the ashes, kill the bugs and fertilize the ground at the same time. It is the only safe and sure way to prevent a visitation of the potato bug." Gardeners should cut this out for future reference.

Smith & Watts say that with all probability they will continue to furnish their customers and The News readers with their complete service of market reports as heretofore, without interruption.

THE GRAVEHEAD MONUMENT.

The Contract for the Monument to be Completed as Rapidly as Possible.

The grave of Alexander Craighead, Mecklenburg patriot, will be located in an old and abandoned graveyard, near Sugar Creek church, will within the next two months be marked by a handsome granite monument. The contract for the monument has been awarded to J. H. A. & Co., of Charlotte, and they will have it completed within two months' time. The monument will be of Mooreville granite and will be mounted on a base of granite. It will be 10 feet high. The design is now being prepared. The monument cost $1000. The design is described and after a short study of the question, it has been finally decided best to place the monument over his grave, and there it will be placed. The graveyard is a few hundred yards from Sugar Creek church, and 3 miles from Charlotte. It is approached from the city by a beautiful grade railroad, and a road, but to reach the site, a cart or mule is necessary. The way, a short distance, is by Sugar Creek church, and travels for a few hundred yards through a grove of woods and open fields. The grave yard contains about half a acre of ground, and the earliest settlers of this country are buried there. The oldest tombstone to be found is one recording a death in 1700. The monument is a granite block, and is seen from the public road. One of the two historic, excellent trees which so long marked the grave, still stands. When the monument takes its place, it will be cut up and made into various articles, as souvenirs, one of which will be given for the Synod of North Carolina.

But for the untiring energy and devotion of Mr. J. C. Burroughs, the grave of this patriot would yet remain unmarked, save by the old sassafras tree. Last year Mr. Burroughs undertook the task of raising a subscription for a monument to his memory, and he pursued it diligently. The result of his work will shortly appear in a very handsome monument which will perpetuate the memory of Alexander Craighead for all time to come.

Local Weather Report.

The following is a synopsis of the weather prevailing at 5 a. m. today. The conditions of the weather reacts nearly the same as recorded yesterday. A high barometer remains nearly stationary over this section, being central at Augusta, and which dominates the weather of this section, producing clear and pleasant weather throughout most of the country. A low barometer still hangs over the upper lake region, with nearly stationary pressure, which is producing rain to the south of it. Temperatures continue to slowly rise over the entire country, and in general conditions remain very favorable for a spell of continued clear and settled weather.

Some Treatment of a Sick Day Visitor.

J. H. A. & Co. announced in The News yesterday with a tale of woe a yardling. It was all about the 2nd May celebration. As he had recently had the distinguished honor of making from a crane and climbing out of a coffin some minutes before the time set for planting time. He thinks he should have been shown more attention and courtesy as a distinguished guest. He complains that after putting himself to great trouble and expense to be present at the celebration, he was not even met by a committee to lead him to the graveside, and that the graves were not marked. He complains that the graves were not marked, and that the graves were not marked. He complains that the graves were not marked, and that the graves were not marked.

A Beautiful Street.

Have you been out North Church street lately? If not, then you know nothing of one of the prettiest sights in our harbor. From Ninth to Fourteenth street, it is practically a new town, and a perfectly beautiful one, at that, too. The street has been widened, is perfectly graded, finely curbed and thoroughly macadamized. It is lined on both sides by the latest styles of architecture, and it looks like a suburban boulevard, such as are common about the large cities in the north. It is really a beautiful section, a finely paved street lined by handsome residences, where three years ago all was old field.

Special Touch Delivery.

The News sometimes ago made up its mind to quit losing flesh in worrying over railroad schedules, but to take them as they come. The dust, though, that has been kicked up along the line of the A. T. & O. road since the recent change of schedule, cannot fail to attract our sympathy. But it is all right at last. Postmaster Brady has arranged to send The News in special pouches to Huntersville, Davidson College, Mooresville and Statesville on the freight train leaving here at 5:20 p. m. The Derita package will be delivered at that place by hand, from the same train.

Thieves in a Grocery Store.

The grocery store of Mr. John A. Bixby, on West Third street, was broken into last night, and was robbed of a considerable quantity of goods. The goods were taken in dozen lots, a dozen bottles of pickles, a dozen cans of peaches, etc., evidently with the intention of stocking a small grocery store at some other stand and at Mr. Bixby's expense.
