> John Dodge, who was arraigned at the December term of court charged with the murder of Lizzie Patterson, through his counsel, submitted to the harge of manslaughter. Judge Neal passed sentence on him.

> When asked this afternoon when he rould pass sentence on Dodge, Judge Neal stated that he would not decide or a day or two yet. The crime for which Dodge will suf-er was committed the night of Noember 3rd. Dodge's statement of how the tragely took place is as follows: He was standing in the Patterson woman's house cleaning his pistol. He had wiped off the barrel and was ruboing the handle, near the trigger, when gun fired, Lizzie Patterson passed in front of an open door and the bullet struck her about three inches below

As soon as Dodge learned that Lizzi Patterson had been stricken, he ran out of the house and hid underneath a cabin, nearly a half mile from the scene of the shooting. He was found y Officer Pitts, crouched under the house with his head underneath one of the floor "sleepers."

When the officer called for Dodge to ome out he came and with him he brought three pint bottles containing When asked what he was loing with so much whiskey on his person. Dodge did not give a satisfactory answer, so the officer went with key. Dodge never attempted to explain what he was doing with the whiskey or where he got it. The inference was that he stood in with one of the pages has him to the house where he staid and he stood in with one of the negro bar-keepers and that he had been running a "blind toger." Before death the Patterson woman nade a statement. She did not say the hooting was accidental but did say that Dodge was cleaning his pistol and that she had ,repeatedly asked him not to "fool" with the pistol while in her house. The woman did not attempt to incriminate Dodge. Only said that it was against her expressed wish that Dodge handled the gun in her house.

Cases Heard At the Recorder's Court This Morning.

John Pangle who christened the new patrol wagon, was before the Recorder this morning on the same old charge that of being drunk and down. Officer Jetton found Pangle on West Trade street yesterday afternoon in a thoroughly soaked condition. He was taken in out of the "wet" and was given a hearing this morning.

To Pangle's discredit, there were two old charges that have been hanging fire for some time. On November 5 last, he was found in a "paralyzed" state and was given a free berth. On December 20th, the same was the case, But Pangle has been doing better of late and today was the first time since December 20th, that the police have run up on him in a "mellowed" condition. Pangle promised the Recorder that he would do better and on account of this promise he was placed under a $1,000 bond, with Mr. J. D. McCall as surety. This large "straw bond" was for the purpose of "keeping sober." John Smith, a white man who lives at the Gingham mill and according to his own statement, had worked only two weeks in four months, was before the court charged with being drunk. He was let off with the costs.

Plummer Jackson, a colored damsel who has figured considerably in the Recorder's court, was up this morning, charged with being drunk and disorderly. She was fined $2 and the costs. The case of larceny lodged against James Skipper by Reese Champion was not proven. Skipper was convicted of trespass and made to pay the costs in the case.
