

BAD ACCIDENT TO TWO EMPLOYEES ON SEABOARD A. LINE

Two Probably Fatal Accidents Occurred Near Raleigh Yesterday. Engineer Clayton Caught Between Cars And A Brakeman Ground Under Wheels.

Charter Granted to A Concern With Authorized Capitalization of $50,000, But Only $50 Is Paid In. Sheriff W. S. Pearson, of Harnett Dead.

Special to The News. Raleigh, Oct. 6.—Two probably fatal accidents occurred in the Seaboard Air Line near Raleigh yesterday afternoon, both men being in Rex Hospital here with little if any hope for recovery. Engineer J. B. Clayton, of local freight No. 6, was caught between two cars at Cameron, forty miles south of Raleigh, his collar bone, his right shoulder, seven ribs and his nose being broken. There may also be internal injuries. A draw head had pulled out and the cars socked together with a heavy chain and Clayton thought there must be too much slack, and, leaving the engine in charge of the fireman, went to investigate. He stepped between the cars, which rolled together, catching him between the shoulders.

A special train went from Raleigh to bring the injured man here and this train passed another freight train about ten miles from Raleigh, and on arriving at Cameron the physician received instructions by telegraph to stop at Apex and take on another man who was injured on the train they passed. This was Sidney Young, brakeman, son of Dr. Young, of Four Oaks, this county. He had run ahead of the engine at Apex to open a switch and stumbled so that he fell under the engine, the wheels passing over his left leg full length and also grinding his hip almost to pulp. Physicians say there is no hope for his recovery. Engineer Clayton has a fighting chance for recovery.

DEATH IN LAPEAKE.

Chapel Hill—Jumps From Steamer and Remains on Cause.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 6.—N. C. Long, of Chapel Hill, N. C., who is well known in Norfolk and throughout the South, committed suicide some time during Tuesday night by jumping overboard from the steamer Georgia while en route to Norfolk from Baltimore.

Shortly before the steamer arrived here the chambermaids found Mr. Long's baggage in stateroom No. 61. They also found three letters in the bunk, one addressed to the captain of the steamer and another addressed to Thomas H. Long, who is to-night made known the fact that his brother had committed suicide.

The note in the stateroom said: "Years Full of Trouble. My Dear Minks: My past year's life has been so full of trouble that I have had another attack of nerves. I simply can't stand it longer, so say good night, with heaps of love to all. Your affectionate brother, N. C. Long. (Please bury me where my body is found. Don't take me to Chappell Hill.)"

The second note said: "On Board Boat Baltimore to Norfolk. My Dear Tom: I can't stand it longer I go to-night. Your affectionate brother, N. C. Long."

As soon as the steamer reached Norfolk an investigation was immediately begun, which did not end until late this afternoon, when Mr. Long became convinced that his brother really did end his life.

N. C. Long, the suicide, had been in ill health for many months. He spent the past summer at Virginia Beach, hoping to regain his lost strength, and made many friends while here.

He was formerly a travelling salesman of A. G. Spalding & Bros., and left for Baltimore last Saturday night in company with a friend, but what happened in Baltimore, if anything, to cause him to end his life no one can say.

The missing man is a brother of Prof. A. W. Long, who occupies the chair of English at Princeton University. Mr. Long is of the belief that unsuccessful speculation caused his brother to kill himself, and does not attribute ill health alone as the cause.

The missing man had spent some time in Florida in an effort to regain strength, and twice resigned positions in the employ of the Spalding Bros. because of ill health. When he left here last week he told his brother that he was going to Philadelphia on a little business trip, and the note found on the steamer was the first news received from him since he left.

YAQUIS SLAY AMERICANS.

Indians Leaving a Trail of Blood Through State of Sonora—Defenseless Travelers Killed.

El Paso, Texas, Oct. 6.—Since the failure of the peace conference between the Yaqui Indians and Mexican officials the Yaquis have become more desperate than ever and the trail of blood which they are leaving in Sonora is horrible. From every section of the Yarrucountry come daily reports of murders, both of the Americans and Mexicans, and robberies are committed in almost every instance.

In some instances, however, defenseless travelers were killed in cold blood for no apparent cause.

It seems that in vengeance for fancied wrongs of the Mexicans the Indians are killing everybody with whom they come in contact.

A report brought by prospectors tells of the capture of a freight party of eight men near Poza and the murdering of seven of the number, one alone escaping to tell the fate of his comrades. The freight train consisted of eight heavily loaded wagons of mine provisions, and makes a great addition to the Yaqui commissary.

The Sonora newspapers stoutly criticize the negligence of officials of the state, and declare troops are entirely inadequate to suppress the murderous red men.

PUTTING IT STRAIGHT.

New York Bank Official Calls a Spade a Spade—Denounces the Practices of the Present Day.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 6.—In an address to the American Bankers' Association here yesterday, J. Edward Simmons, president of the Fourth National Bank of New York discussed what he called "New and strange principles of morality" some length. He began by paying tribute to the National prosperity and Maryland's contributions to this prosperity and effort for peace made by President Roosevelt. Roosevelt was eulogized because he has "given new impetus to international trade uplifting from the commerce and finance of the world the horrible incubus of war."

Further he said: "In these days of unprecedented prosperity and disgusting extravagance new and strange principles of morality seem to have overridden the sturdy views of honesty that governed our fathers and men, who pose as salt of the earth and who condemn without reserve those who steal fifty dollars, or forge a check for $100, or accept a bribe, but will themselves make millions by lying, by making misrepresentations, by fraud and by bribery. In private life, they are stainless, but in the interests of corporations, gas trust, gas companies, railroad companies, on insurance companies they will have recourse to every villain dammed in the catalogue. They will go further, they will debauch legislators to enact laws to crush competitors in business and exact from fellow citizens a tribute daily under the name of duty."

The Reverend Doctor D. P. Fullerton, who represents the Cumberland Church on this committee, said yesterday that some agitators in his branch of the church were still protesting against the union but that this will have no effect upon the ultimate outcome.

Union, he said, is already agreed upon, and the only thing necessary now is to arrange the final details. Doctor Fullerton said that he expects no serious objection to the movement.

CORPSES IN PAWN.

An English Vicar Begins Fight Against an Undertaker's Practice.

London, Oct. 6.—Rev. H. Pitt, the vicar of St. Mary's, Southwark, has started an education against the practice of undertakers holding corpses in pawn. He was moved to do this because of being compelled to seek magisterial advice owing to the fact that a woman's body has remained unburied for ten days because of a dispute.

"It seems almost incredible," observed Mr. Pitt, "that a body should be seized and held as security for expenses entailed by the deceased's relatives in connection with the funeral that had not then taken place. Nevertheless the following case, which recently came under my notice is not, I am afraid, of uncommon nature."

"A man died and the agent of the office in which he was insured informed a neighboring undertaker of the fact—a business which insurance agents carry on for commissions paid to them by the undertakers. It so happened, however, that the policy had lapsed, and the man's widow was entitled to receive only a quarter benefit, amounting to about $12.

"This fact proved no bar to business. The undertaker supplied the coffin, but once the corpse had been placed in the coffin the undertaker refused to attend the funeral until he had received the full amount. Finally after trouble with the neighbors, who complained to the undertaker as a 'favor' removed the body to his stable. Thus the corpse was in pawn a number of days. Eventually the widow borrowed the necessary amount at ruinous interest."

Webster Divorce Case is Non-Suited

Counsel for Mr Webster Never Resisted the Plea For A Non Suit As Made by the Counsel For Mrs Webster. Another Suit, it is Said Will be Brought

In the superior court this morning the case of L. N. Webster against Carrie B. Webster, was non suited, because of the fact that the plaintiff had not filed his complaint.

News readers will recall that the above case was an action for divorce. The summons in the case were issued several months ago and it was understood that the trial of the cause would take place at this term of the court.

Mr. T. C. Guthrie, of counsel for Mr. Webster stated this morning that he would not make any effort to prevent a non-suit; that the plaintiff based his plea for divorce on certain acts the defendant committed within the past six months. Mr. Plummer Steward of counsel for the defendant insisted that the case be non suited and that the court allowed to be done.

In the case of J. B. Rudisill, vs. the Life Insurance Company of Virginia a judgment of $27,94 was awarded the plaintiff.

In the case of W. H. Oglesby & Co. vs. the Southern railway, a judgment for $60 was awarded the plaintiff.

In the case of the Standard Ice & Fuel Company, the Charlotte Hardware Co., and the Tate-Brown Co. vs. Satter Gillespie, the clerk of the court was ordered to settle with the creditors.

At the afternoon session of the court the case of Jarvis Lyles, administrator, vs. the Brannon Carbonating Co., was taken up. This is a suit for $5000 damages on account of the killing of Charlie Lyles, by the bursting of a soda water tank. The plaintiff is represented by Stewart and McRae, and the defendant company by Burwell and Custer and Mr. Thomas C. Guthrie.

SOLD WIFE AT $2 A POUND.

Unusual Contract Entered Into by Edwin Tucker Sustained by the Court.

New York, Oct. 6.—Justice Dickey, in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, virtually ratified the sale of a wife, according to the contention of counsel in a suit brought by a husband.

The price which the husband acknowledged having taken for a release of all his claims amounts to a trifle over $2 a pound for the pretty woman who was the subject of the deal is a petite brunette less than five feet tall in her dainty French heeled shoes and weighing about ninety-five pounds.

The disclosure of the deal caused the sudden termination of a suit for $75,000, as Justice Dickey threw out of court the action by which Edwin R. Tucker sought to recover for the alleged loss of his wife through the abjurement of Eugene B. Dudley, an aged and wealthy bachelor.

Lawyer Charles J. McDermott, counsel for Dudley, sprang the joker he had kept under cover. While cross-examining Tucker he elicited his $200 and signed an agreement that for the consideration named he relinquished all claims upon his wife's affections and to any awards that might grow out of the suit she had brought for separation and alimony.

It was an innocent little clause in the agreement that caused trouble for Mr. Tucker. The phrase reading "from this and any other suits, past or future" was construed by Justice Dickey as consulting the man who wanted the aged Mr. Dudley to pay him $75,000 for his alleged supplanting him in the affections of the little woman.

At the end of the proceedings Mrs. Tucker took the arm of the tall, patriarchal defendant.

THE KIDNAPPED BOY RETURNED HOME ITALIAN PARENTS

Tony Marendino Abandoned B The Kidnappers And Sent Back Home, But There Is No Clue Whatever to The Parties Who Held Him.

Child So Overcome With Fear Of The Kidnappers That It Has Been Impossible to Get Him To Tell A Straight Story Of His Captivity.

Associated Press.

New York, Oct. 6.—Abandonment of Tony Marendino by persons who had kidnapped and held him for ransom and the return of the little Italian boy to his parents, which occurred last night, has given the police no clue to the kidnapers.

So impressed with fear of persons who had stolen him was the little fellow that he either could or would give no other description of his captivity than a mass of confusing contradictions, out of which the police could extract nothing that would point to the identity of his captors. He had even been so schooled by them that he called them "papa and mamma," but declared upon closer questioning that they were not his real parents.

The boy said that in the house where he was kept a prisoner in Upper Manhattan there was a woman and another boy also kept prisoners by the man and woman who had held him captive, and that they were trying to escape, and he only said his captors had threatened to kill him if he made a noise and had beaten him with a stick, but that he had plenty to eat and a good place to sleep.
