

"THE PRESIDENT IS CLAY AND COMMON CLAY AT THAT!"

And this was what Senator Bailey of Texas said while discussing with Mr. Carter the manner of Man President Roosevelt is, A Hot Criticism.

Continuing he said "Let us have no more talk about the Iron Man." Said Mr. Roosevelt was only "Brave on Occasions."

By Associated Press.

Washington, May 12.—The Senate took up the Railroad Rate bill and immediately entered upon the consideration of the remaining Allison amendments relating to the jurisdiction of the Federal courts over the orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Mr. Carter defended the President against the attacks made on him, saying "No one familiar with the President would charge him with cowardice, for his record for courage is certainly unexcelled."

He charged Mr. Raynor and Mr. Bailey with having, in all their congressional careers, done nothing to secure railroad legislation.

Replying, Senator Bailey repeated his charge of inconsistency on part of President. "I love a brave man and a fighter," he said, "and the President is brave on some occasions." But he declared he was without endurance and always allowed the leaders of his party to swerve him from his purpose. "Let us have no more talk about the Iron Man. He is only clay and very common clay at that," he added, and said if the President had been the heroic figure he is represented to be, he would have called the Republican Senators and members together and told them if the right kind of a bill was not passed, it would be vetoed.

SAN FRANCISCO CITY HALL AFTER THE EARTHQUAKE.

The city hall of San Francisco was one of the most expensive in the world, the cost having approximated $7,000,000. A few seconds of earthquake left it shapeless and practically worthless. The dome, which had been one of the conspicuous spots of the city, was stripped of masonry, only the steel framework withstanding the shock. Fire afterward completed the destruction. It required twenty-five years to construct the city hall, but it is safe to say that it will be rebuilt in a much shorter time.

Chandler, had been sent for by the President, and informed that he desired through him to get into communication with Senator Tillman as the Senator was in charge of the Railroad Rate bill, and Senator Bailey for the purpose of ascertaining whether there could be such united action in the Senate upon the Hepburn bill as would make sure a majority in its favor and against the injurious amendments.

Mr. Tillman said he had no suspicion of change of front on the part of the administration until May the 4, when the President had his interview with the assembled newspaper men. He admitted he had hesitated about entering upon any negotiation with the President because of his "just indignation for a past wrong," but he concluded to pocket his pride in interest of a great cause.
