PECULIAR CASES BEFORE RECORDER

Mr. Maxwell Sees Acquaintance Dash Unannounced Through his Bedroom. Female Blind Tiger in Serious Trouble, Bound Over Under $400 Bonds.

A female "blind tiger" somewhat deaf, but still able to make the rounds, sat quietly on the prisoner's bench at the Recorder's Court this morning, waiting for the slow-turning wheels of justice to roll around to her case.

Aggie Atkins is the name of the last "blind tiger" that has been brought to justice through the efforts of the officers who arrested one Jo Thompson yesterday afternoon for being drunk. Jo became loquacious and told all about the liquor that made him drunk, and where he got it also, and the officers had little difficulty in locating the lair of the "blind tiger" where she carries on her nefarious business of dispensing liquor against the laws of the State and county.

Aggie was brought to police headquarters where she was kept over night. She declared this morning that the pint of liquor which she said he bought from her, was only a bottle that he had left at her house; that Jo had been in South Carolina where he saw some other folks, and was bringing their love to her, etc. Jo admitted all of this, and said he had dropped around yesterday at the home of the "female blind tiger" to deliver the message of love from her father and sister in South Carolina.

When Jo also told the court that the defendant had sold him another drink of liquor later for 10 cents, another warrant lying near, was taken up by the court and with a few strokes of the pen the women was under a $200 bond for selling the drink and another of like sum for selling the pint. She was carried to jail to await the next term of court.

Cynthia Banks, whose hubby had begun to ignore her, and according to her statement, was trotting around with other women, appeared in the court with green-eyed jealousy shining from her features, and told of a great decision she had reached, how she would jump on and beat the very next nigger woman that dared be seen with her spouse.

But Cynthia got the wrong woman yesterday, and her mistake cost her $20. Cynthia spied her old man yesterday and with him was a woman, whom Cynthia could not quite identify, but as Cynthia was mad, she flew into the affray with blood in her eyes, caught the old woman who was called "mother" to "mother" to either Cynthia or her wandering hubby, beat the old woman's head against the rocks on the street, and twisted her thumb out of joint.

It was a fierce contest while it lasted, and the old woman was right seriously bruised and battered.

Then Cynthia discovered that she had beat the wrong woman—that the old woman whom she had jumped on so viciously, was not the one that she was looking after to punish for going with her hubby. But Cynthia merely passed over the matter with a "well, I guess she's de wrong woman," but the court regarded the affair in a more serious mood and placed a fine on the scragging Cynthia that will make her more disposed to be peaceable hereafter, and not jump on people at random, and beat them up barbarously.

The old woman who was so badly beaten up is named Betsy Johnson.

Five boys ranging in age from 12 to 15 were before the Recorder this morning charged with throwing rocks at the Seaboard force last night and creating a disturbance generally.

The members of the night force at the S. A. L. passenger depot stated that they heard a crowd of boys running madly into the waiting room, evidently for a drink of water, and they started down to see what was wrong when the boys flew out at the door again and retreated up the hill leading south of the depot building. Then rocks began to fly and some of the night men at the depot were forced to escape themselves behind soda water crates, and other defenses to protect themselves from the flying rocks.

In the crowd of boys were Cash Robinson, Howard Ziegler, Frank Thomas, Ernest Grady, and Archie Watson, the last two being discharged. Cash Robinson told the court that all of the boys were throwing rocks, but admitted that it was a little dark where they were. There was not sufficient evidence against Watson and Grady to convict, but Robinson was fined $3 as he appeared to have been the "bell wether" of the flock as the court said.

Ziegler and Thomas were fined $2 each for their part in the disturbance.

When Mr. Huntley, a store keeper of this city, and a man of unquestioned character, came dashing through the living room at the home of S. W. Kirkpatrick, janitor at the county court house last night, Mr. Maxwell was completely taken off his feet by the surprise and ordered Mr. Huntley to get out quick.

The unexpected and peculiar event was the result of a long string of circumstances going before. Mr. Huntley had lost some money, and while at the park last night heard that the boy who got the money was somewhere about Mr. Kirkpatrick's home, and finding Mr. Kirkpatrick's son at the park, the two came into town and went straight home to seek the boy.

Mr. Kirkpatrick's son went inside, after warning Mr. Huntley to be quiet, as was testified, because there was sickness in the home, Mr. Huntley while waiting near the door, saw the boy whom he wanted coming out with Mr. Kirkpatrick's son. Then Mr.

DEATH OF MR. C. R. KLEGG.

Was Principal of the Weddington Academy in Providence Township.

The death of Mr. Charles R. Klegg, principal of the Weddington Academy in Providence, occurred this morning shortly after 3:30 o'clock at his home near the school. Mr. Klegg had been ill about two weeks with fever but nothing serious was thought of his condition as his illness was apparently of mild nature. Death was unexpected and came as a great shock to the community and his family.

Besides a widow, who was Miss Lula Squires, Mr. Klegg, is survived by two children and several brothers, two of whom are ministers, Rev. M. B. Klegg of King's Mountain and Rev. James Klegg of Rock Springs, and his mother.
