INDIGESTION. "I have been subject to Rheumatism and indigestion for a number of years and tried one doctor's treatment after another for stomach trouble until I was firmly convinced that doctor's medicine could not reach my case. It did not even relieve me. Whenever I would eat solid food my stomach could not retain it, and I was constantly having vomiting spells after eating. My system became weakened down and nervous. I was at the time county treasurer, and became so shaky from it that I could scarcely do the necessary writing. Finding I must change my treatment, I determined to try Mrs. Joe. Person's Remedy. I bought three bottles of the Remedy and by the time I took them I knew I was better. Then I continued and took it regularly over a year. Those vomiting spells would return for some time but I stuck to the Remedy. Before I started on the Remedy I was subject to severe attacks of Rheumatism and my legs and knees would swell so I could hardly turn in bed. I think first and last I have taken a hundred bottles of the Remedy. It has made a perfect cure of my indigestion and Rheumatism. It is the finest medicine I have ever found for breaking up colds. I have recommended it largely on my plantation to my tenants and to my friends everywhere. It is a remedy that never disappoints, and I cannot say too much in its praise. I would not take thousands of dollars for what it did for me." BERRY A. PARKS. Aaron, N. C., May 11, 1907.

Wanted to Go To Sing-Sing

"Good Morning Gentlemen, I'm Going To Break Some Window Lights," Said Stranger To Postmaster Spence.

Postmaster J. B. Spence and his assistant, Mr. Bradford, had a novel experience with a stranger this morning shortly after 9 o'clock.

"Good morning, gentlemen, good morning," he said with courtesy. "I believe I'll knock out some window lights around here so I can get to go to Sing Sing."

"That'll be a good way to get there," replied the postmaster.

"Now don't get alarmed; don't get excited, there's nobody going to get hurt around here!"

With this the stranger wheeled around and left the office. Spence and Bradford staring at him in astonishment.

To-day's Markets

J. S. Bache & Co.'s Cotton Letter. New York, March 6.—The cotton market continued excessively dull today with no news and an uneventful speculation.

Hayward & Clark's Cotton Letter. New Orleans, La., March 6.—The feature in Liverpool is the weakness in near options, which declined about 3 points more than called for by our market.

Spot sales are large, 10,000 bales at 6 lower. According to reliable information there is very little new business in Liverpool daily sales.

Our market this morning, was weak around the opening with first trades at a decline of about 8 points, but it steadied subsequently on some buying of July at the discount under May

That market rallied also, which gave rise to the idea that another professional reaction might be contemplated and brought some covering by seatbers.

Furthermore this is the first Friday of the month and a revision in grade differentials is spoken of.

The discount on lower grades is likely to be increased as this kind of cotton has been accumulating and is being pressed for sale at concessions.

This revision would improve the future contract and might attract some protective buying. However, this is merely a little side question. In the main the fate of the market depends on whether new demand, new business for spot cotton will come soon or not. This dullness in the actual stuff has now been lasting for a long time and is beginning to tell.
