Metz Swatted A Home Run

The Hornets Win from Wake Forest in a Pretty Game — Score 2 to 0—Several Grandstand Plays.

Yesterday's game the Hornets and the Wake Forest college team, was a pretty exhibition of ball playing as indicated by the score, two to nothing. The visitors played a good game, making only two errors, both in the sixth, while only one badly handled ball was accredited to the Hornets. The players on both teams played with snap and vigor and the game was finished in exactly one hour and thirty minutes after the call of the umpire to "play ball."

Several grandstand, or spectacular plays, were made, but not until the sixth inning did the Hornets manage to send a man all the way around. It happened this way: Snedden allowed four bad ones to go by and for his good judgment was given free ticket down to first. Newton went out second to first but Snedden somehow reached second. Bateman struck out. With two down and only one runner on the bases it looked like there would be nothing doing, but Metz reached first on an error. Snedden went to third on another error and before the ball was recovered sailed across the home plate. Hinton went out from short to first, leaving two runners on bases.

The second score was made in the eighth inning, a home-run by Metz, in left field. The visitors played a good clean, snappy game. The tabulated score follows:

It is a mistake to call Grape-Nuts simply a "breakfast food."

It is more. All the nourishing elements of wheat and barley, so prepared as to be promptly absorbed by the system for rebuilding brain and nerve cells, and for storing up energy—the capacity to think and act—that's Grape-Nuts.

The flavour of this world famed food adds to its value by promoting the appetite.

AMUSEMENTS

THRILLING SEA ENCOUNTER.

Marvelous Reproduction of Ocean Battle of Monitor and Merrimac.

The thrilling sea encounter, between the Monitor and the Virginia, originally and more generally known as the Merrimac, which took place in 1862 off Hampton Roads, will be reproduced in every detail at the Academy of Music tonight and Thursday afternoon and at night. This naval engagement between the two iron-clad monsters of the ocean, each representing the best type of the sea forces of the Union and Confederate armies, was one of the decisive battles of the world and aside from marking an epoch in the war between the states and in Virginia, was the beginning of an era, which revolutionized naval warfare throughout every civilized country.

The reproduction of the famous battle is a perfection of skill, ingenuity and modern scientific discoveries along the line of electrical, mechanical and scenic effects, which have been the marvel of everyone, who has witnessed the attraction. The reproduction was gotten up after thousands of dollars of expense and was the most liberally patronized and most highly praised attraction on the Warpath at the Jamestown Exposition. It is not a moving picture performance, but a grand and extravagant scenic production, so realistic, that the spectators imagine that they are living in an age nearly fifty years ago and are standing on the banks of Hampton Roads, the sinking of the Cumberland and the subsequent burning of the federal battleship, the Congress, events which preceded the memorable fight, are clearly depicted amid the flashes of lightning, the din of the big guns, and the raging storm, which was then in progress.

Every movement of the opposing fleet is shown upon the stage, while an experienced lecturer explains them in detail. This remarkable performance should be seen by every woman, man and child in Charlotte. It is entertaining and exciting as well as educational and instructive. School children especially should attend and by so doing they will have impressed upon their minds stirring events in Confederate history, far more permanently and forcibly than by the study of any text book.
