By Associated Press. New York, March 30 .- A Black Hand bomb was exploded early today almost beneath the coat tails of a New York policeban. The bluecoat, making his regularly night rounds, was standing at the doorway of a tenement house on First avenue and the bomb was in the cellerway of the building not a rod from his fee. He was uninjured although the front of the building was damaged and doors and windows blown in. The bomb, apparently deposited in the cellarway early in the night with a time fuse, was aimed at the wine shop of Anthony Valenza on the ground floor.
