Five Men and Two Women in Toils—Deputy County Treasurer Arrested—Robbers Nearly Succeed in Getting the Money.

Waterman Bound and Gagged and Nitro-Glycerine Used in Effort to Get to $100,000 Placed in Safe in Afternoon.

Associated Press. Des Moines, Iowa, April 1.—Five men and two women were arrested to-day in an effort to apprehend four men who shortly before midnight bound and gagged deputy county treasurer, J. W. Miller, and tried to dynamite the safe in the county treasurer's office in which $100,000 had been placed in the afternoon. The attempt at robbery of the vault proved a failure. One more charge of nitro-glycerine would have given the men an entrance but they were frightened away after the first explosion, which partially wrecked the door. What is claimed by the police is a confession from Al Rhodes, one of the men arrested, Deputy County Treasurer James O'Callaghan was arrested. Along with Rhodes and O'Callaghan the police are holding Mark Lynch and his wife, besides Mrs. Rhodes, Clayton Taylor and an unidentified man.

OXFORD WON FROM CAMBRIDGE IN REGATTA

By Associated Press. Putney, Eng., April 1.—Weight, strength and experience conquered form and dash when Oxford University today beat Cambridge in the sixty-eighth inter-varsity boat race over the historic Putney-to-Mort Lake course of 4 1/4 miles in the record time of 15 minutes 19 seconds. Oxford had been the favorite throughout the racing and fulfilled the expectations of the followers. Cambridge was unable to get abreast of her rival at any stage of the contest although the light blues got away quicker and spurred gallantly several times. At the half mile the Oxford crews lead varied from two to three and a half lengths. At Harrods, Oxford led by three quarters of a length and their advantage was increased to two lengths at Hammersmith Bridge, and a half length had been added when the dark blues passed Chiswick church. Both crews were now pulling hard. Oxford steadily forging ahead until at Barnes Bridge three lengths had been opened between the shells. Half way down the course the Cambridge stroke, R. W. A. Arbuthnot seemed to tire but the crew fought on, holding the winners to a lead of three lengths at the finish. The smoothness of the water contributed greatly to the fast time and a strong tide helped considerably. Putney, Eng., April 1.—Oxford won from Cambridge in the annual eight oared race over the Putney course today. The dark blues were heavier and were the favorites though Cambridge had the advantage of weather and position. Oxford led from the start and won by 3 lengths in 18 minutes 29 seconds, a record for the race. The previous record was 18 minutes 47 seconds, made by Oxford in 1893 and duplicated by Cambridge in 1904. This was Oxford's thirty-seventh victory, Cambridge having won thirty contests. In 1877 the race was a dead heat. Last year Oxford won a lead of three lengths finished in 20 minutes and 14 seconds. The year before Oxford won by three and a half lengths in 19 minutes and 50 seconds. According to the English practice the time of the defeated crew was not taken. Excursion steamers flying the light and dark colors were crowded with spectators and the largest array of motor boats ever seen on the course followed the shells. There was a great turnout of old oarsmen. The Prince of Wales and Prince Albert in cadet uniforms followed the race in a motor boat. They were cheered along the line. Experts like R. C. Lehmann and Guy Nickalls, considered both crews below the average.

Alleged Leader of All The Camorristi In Bad Light Under Cross - Examination

Associated Press. Palermo, Italy, April 1.—Under cross-examination today Enrico Alia appeared to lesser advantage than he did under direct interrogation yesterday, when his vehement denials that he was either "the head or the tail of the Camorra" or had guilty knowledge of the deaths of Genaro Corbelli and his wife fairly stamped the audience. He fended skillfully when it was not convincing. "If you were innocent," asked President Bianchi, "why did you flee from us? You did not take your flight immediately after the crime, you were accused in fact you defied your release you fled when Abatemazza's revelations began, and in so doing you showed that you felt that the informer spoke the truth. I fled because for the second time I was experiencing an attack of intestinal trouble and I feared that it would be aggravated by confinement if I were held in prison for some years preceding my trial. Of my ultimate vindication I had no doubt." "And what of the Camorra today?" pursued the president. "That assertion," retorted the president, "is explainable when it is recalled that a rule of the society obliges Camorristi to deny to the authorities their affiliations with the Camorra. His repudiation of their position not implying cowardice in the eyes of the Camorra."

PICTURE OF LOST BOY Mr. and Mrs. William J. Murray, of East Orange, N. J., and their adopted boy, David Murray, who has disappeared. No trace of the missing boy can be found by the police or private detectives. The boy has been for some time the object of a court wrangle between his foster parents and the management of St. Mary's Orphanage of Providence, R. I. The question of who shall have custody of him is still before the New Jersey courts of equity, to which appeal was taken by the Murrays after the court of Chancery had directed Mr. Murray to return the child to the orphanage. At the orphanage the boy was known as Kenneth Williams, but Mrs. Murray renamed him David Murray according to Mrs. Murray, his disappearance is the result of the second attempt to kidnap him which has been carried out successfully through long planning and watchfulness on the part of some agency, representatives of which have been haunting the neighborhood of her home.

ITALIAN PEOPLE WOULD PUT STOP TO LAWLESSNESS

By Associated Press. Chicago, Ill., April 1.—The confession of one "Black Hand" man and the announcement of another threat against James E. Stewart, a postoffice inspector, and spurred on by the long list of recent "Black Hand" crimes, the Italian people themselves threaten to put a stop to the lawlessness. Reflections of the many Chicago Italians are seen in an article which appeared today in L'Italia, an Italian newspaper. "An epoch of blood, of cruel slaughtering, of ferocious vendettas, is what the Chicago Italian colony is going through just now. Until a short time ago crimes committed were in almost all cases due to passion. "Naturally frequent and atrocious crimes seriously are impressing the American people as well as the people of other nations in our disfavor and they are liable at any time to lose patience and resort to acts of violence. The massacres at New Orleans and Tampa are not forgotten in Chicago. "It is necessary that the Italians themselves for their own self-respect and for their own protection organize themselves to liberate the colony here from the criminals staining its name."

WRITES ABOUT TRIP TO THE PANAMA CANAL

News Bureau, Congress Hall. (H. E. C. BRYANT.) Washington, April 1.—"With a congressional party we left New York March 7 on the steamer 'Colon,' to inspect the Panama canal," said Representative Gudger to day. "In passing Cape Hatteras we faced a terrific storm that lasted eighteen hours. The waves frequently dashed tons of water on the top of the ship deck and the great danger was recognized by all on board. After the storm had passed all united in admiration of the power and capacity of our ship. In all danger there is some consoling incident; in this one it was the grandeur of the rolling, dashing waves, fifty feet high. With this exception the trip was made without accident or incident. "The purpose of the trip was to investigate in a personal way the construction of the isthmian canal, which was first begun by the President and abandoned as a failure after the expenditure of $250,000,000. If they had proceeded with the work to completion at that date, a conservative estimate would place the cost to the French at $1,500,000,000, while the cost to this government will be less than $500,000,000, including the purchase price. "The opening of this great highway will be of great benefit to all sections of our country and no section will receive more advantage than the Southern states, especially the great valley of the Mississippi, today, the richest territory in all the world. The opening of this new gateway to the Pacific will give a tremendous impetus to our present industries. Our raw cotton will be demanded by the Oriental consumer and our coal fields will find a wider market than ever before. "The canal will not be a paying investment per se, but viewed as a naval strategic point it will be a great protection. We can, in a few days, assemble all of our great battleships on either ocean. "The requirements of travel and commerce demanded more direct highways for transportation and the world looked to the United States as the nation possessing the ability and energy, to make possible the connection of the two great oceans. "Without venturing into the realm of fancy it may be truthfully stated that no agency within the bounds of present possibility, could add more to the strength of this great nation than the opening of this canal and the acquisition of the canal zone. Viewed from every standpoint it is undoubtedly the greatest naval enterprise of modern times, and I feel confident that this tremendous undertaking will add glory to our republic. No scandal will follow in the wake of this gigantic work: upon the contrary, economy, energy, and far-sightedness will be recognized by all nations. "That day that dawned on the completion of this marvelous undertaking will mark the key to the Pacific and the gateway to the universe. "Standing on Gold Hill at Culebra cut you can hear the splashing waves of the Atlantic ocean beat on the shores of Colon and watch the placid, beautiful Pacific only a few miles away. To be a citizen of this great country is indeed a great privilege and every American should be proud of the bars and stars that float over the greatest country on earth. "At Culebra cut we find one hundred steam shovels of the most effective type at work. One hundred and twenty-five trains are daily engaged in carrying the dirt and rock away. It is the greatest engineering feat undertaken in the history of the world and its success involves greater problems and better results than any undertaking ever planned by man. "The canal will be completed in 1913. The supervision of this work is in the hands of Chief Engineer Col. Goethals, and he is entitled to great credit for the able methods pursued in all departments of this great work. "Mr. Gudger is very enthusiastic over the canal.

However, the penalty was inflicted openly and without trouble. THE CANALEJAS CABINET HAS NOW RESIGNED

By Associated Press. Madrid, April 1.—The cabinet of Premier Canalejas resigned today. The Canalejas cabinet was formed on January 9, 1910, and reorganized on January 1 last. Canalejas in forcing religious reforms encountered the bitter opposition of the Catholics and his course resulted in a practical suspension of diplomatic relations between the government and the Vatican. The premier has, however, been credited with the support of King Alfonso. His bill of associations, aimed to regulate the societies, which he refused to submit first to the Holy See, was approved unanimously by the cabinet last Tuesday. It was to be introduced April 6. Just a Few Details About Ordinances In This Good Town

At noon today only one club had filed with Desk Sergeant Scullion or City Clerk Wearn a list of names of people who pointed or resigned from the organization during the month of March. An ordinance of the city specifies that club managers must file these records on the first of the month, and because one club failed to comply with this ordinance some weeks ago Assistant City Attorney DeLaney issued a warrant against it. Recorder Smith contacted the order of the arrest warrant by saying that if one club were guilty all were guilty and upon the recorder's order summonses were issued against every club in the city. All were convicted, judgment being suspended in each instance upon payment of costs. Five young men, some of whom (testified) drank whiskey in the Farmers & Mechanics Club, were last week convicted in the recorder's court after a prosecution by Mr. DeLaney and they swore they were members of the club. One young man, Leroy Jridgen, said he had been a member of the club for months. His name has never appeared on file as yet. It may be on the list that is turned in today. Until Saturday has ended no one will know this. He told on the witness stand about the same testimony that a stranger told, some weeks ago and out of whose testimony grew allegations against all of the clubs by Mr. DeLaney. Section "F" of the ordinance under which clubs have to file a list of new members and members who withdraw reads as follows: "The secretary, president and general manager of each social club in which the locker system is maintained, shall file with the desk sergeant of the city, on the first day of each month after July 1, 1910, list of the members of all persons pointing said club during the preceding month, and all persons withdrawing their membership from such club during the preceding month, and all changes in officers and employees of said club during the preceding month, and at the time of making each list shall be required to state those members who have lockers, and those who have none, and for those who keep beer, whether in crate or otherwise a license of $2 each shall be required." Under this section summonses were issued against one club against whom there was nothing but the statement of a non-resident who had said on the witness stand he purchased whiskey in it. Five people, none of whose names have yet been filed, so they say in the city hall, said they were drinking in one club and yet no summons was issued against this organization. Since the passage of the ordinance, a section of which is quoted above, the legislature has enacted a law which may, or may not, change the entire locker system in the clubs. The law says that no club shall allow its members to commingle intoxicants. It was ratified upon the 6th of March. If Mr. DeLaney was consistent when he prosecuted clubs some weeks ago, is he consistent when he overlooks an admitted violation now? Mr. Pridden contemplates, so he says, instigation of proceedings against the club whose manager has just resigned, and in which his son bought whiskey. These are facts from record. City Clerk Wearn said today, that he was entirely willing to furnish any citizen with a list that any club manager might send him. He thought the matters of public record and was very courteous in furnishing any information possible within his hands. A Later Report. Leroy Pridden, Walter Woodward, D. E. Cox, Fayette Cox, C. E. Ridenhour and A. M. Farrell were convicted in the recorder's court last Monday upon allegations that they engaged in an affray upon the steps leading out of the Farmers and Mechanics Club. Four were fined $100 each and two were told to pay $50 each. The Farmers and Mechanics Club this morning filed, according to a city ordinance, a list of its new members for the month of March. The list is as follows: L. E. Pridden, L. C. Turner, A. M. Farrell, F. E. Woodward, D. E. Cox and R. A. Hatley. There are six, but initials and pronunciation in two instances are somewhat conflicting. Leroy Pridden's father says the his son was taken to the club more than a year ago and that his son has been buying whiskey there which he wanted to affirm. Mr. Ridenhour's name does not appear with the list furnished, nor has it ever appeared, so far as can be ascertained. If prosecutions are to begin the will likely start next Monday, providing Assistant City Attorney DeLaney wants to begin operation. Announcement Date For B. Y. P. U. Columbia, S. C., April 1.—Rev. J.
