

OASIS TEMPLE ANNUAL MEETING

All the Shriners in North Carolina—Oasis Temple—are to cross the sands and meet here December 8. This is the annual getting together of the fez wearers and history will repeat itself in the having of a memorable day and night. Oasis Temple is composed of some of the best Tar Heels going. They don't matter whence they come or whether they go, they are brothers and stick to each other. The meeting here on the 8th will be largely attended.

Sons Of Jove Give Luncheon

Thirty jolly Jovians attended the regular semi-monthly luncheon at the Selwyn last night at 7:30. These affairs are becoming quite popular and mark the occasion for electrical men of the city to touch elbows in a social way not otherwise afforded. Impromptu talks and good table stores full of short circuits and free of overloads, but however, sometimes accompanied by considerable hysteresis provided an evening well calculated to please Jovians. This was them out palatable of meals too, and after it has all over the crowd adjourned to the basement where four lively contests were waged to determine superiority in a series of games. The honors were a tie and are due to be played off at the next luncheon which occurs on the third Saturday of this month. Another Jovian Rejuvenation is planned to occur about December 20.

Beggars Collect for Fake Orphanage

For the third time in a few months two Syrian beggars have been in Charlotte claiming as the others did to be collecting money for orphanages and schools in their own country which do not exist. After being shown the evidence on file in the office of the Associated Charities they most readily offered to leave the city. They came back to the office several times to beg the secretary to give up to them the slip of paper on which he had written their names, the name of their bishop, etc. If these men are seen about town, they should be immediately reported to the Associated Charities.

A New Citizen --A New Shop

Mr. W. F. Hinkle has purchased a lot on the corner of Pine street and the Rozzell Ferry road from the Interstate Improvement company for the sum of $25,000. Mr. Hinkle has recently moved to this city from Martin county where he has been farming for the past nine years. He is an experienced wagon and buggy builder. He will open a repair shop here.

"The Beaugerard" Opens To-morrow

"The Beaugerard," the new boarding house just completed on North Church street by Mr. B. J. Summerow, will be opened tomorrow. Mr. Summerow remodeled and added to his former residence, making of it a large and handsome mansion. "The Beaugerard" is named for Mr. Summerow, who was named for General Beaugerard, of the Confederate army.

RICHARD BARRY RE-INSTATED IN PLAYERS' CLUB

New York, Dec. 2.—Richard Barry, the magazine writer, who was granted a writ reinstating him into membership in the Players' Club on Friday last by the appellate division of the supreme court, stated today that he is willing to let the matter rest in its present status. "I have not been fighting to get back into the club house, although I am entitled to enter there today," Mr. Barry said. "I took this matter into court to secure what I regarded as my legal rights and the appellate court has restored these rights. "I have never had any personal feeling against any of the members of the club. However, I did not feel that I could afford to remain inactive under the stigma that is attached to expulsion from a club. In view of the circumstances that caused the club to act I thought it best to have the law settle the matter. I feel sure that the court of appeals will, in case of further appeal, confirm the prevailing opinion in the appellate division." Mr. Barry excelled from the Players' Club by vote of the directors because he wrote in a magazine article, "Very few persons on the stage know how to think; in fact, few of them know how to feel, though they make some sort of bluff at it."

HEINEMANN CONCERT TO-MORROW NIGHT

A brilliant social and notable musical event will be the Heinemann concert at the Academy tomorrow night.

Heinemann was heard in concert here last winter. That he is the greatest voice artist ever heard here is a musical fact that no one who knows art will controvert. The program he will render tomorrow night will be as delightful as that of last season. He comes on this return visit on the personal guarantee of his talented pupil, Mrs. Minnie Wriston Smith, North Carolina's great contralto. Heinemann has the three essentials of vocal art, finely cultured voice, wide versatility in emotional and temperamental interpretation, and the basic principle of art, artistic sincerity. His interpretations are intensely subjective and deal with emotional moods and pictures which the artist feels rather than simulates or approximates. Heinemann always sings; he does not rant or tear his voice to tatters. His voice is rich and warm and he uses it with great skill. It has much flexibility and the varied effects of his dramatic, declamatory singing are remarkable. This is Heinemann's last visit to Charlotte, as he is leaving America at the end of the season. Those who fall to hear him will miss a rare treat. His voice is melody itself. His tones are rich and deep. His method—if a natural singer and a natural delivery of the singing voice has a method—is perfect. That Charlotte appreciates an artist such as Heinemann is shown by the large advance sale of seats. Mrs. Smith's pupils at the Presbyterian College, will attend in a body; also the student body. The program which the great artist will render follows:

- Program.
 - a Ich liebe Dich. —L. Van Beethoven.
 - b In questa tomba
 - c Der Kuss.
- a Wie bist du meine Konigin. —Johannes Brahms.
- b Schwesterlein.
- c Vergebliches Standchen.

- 3. a Robespierre. —Hans Hermann.
- b Salomo.
- c Der alte Herr.
- d Drei Wanderer.

Stieff piano used.

GOVERNOR POSS GOY ON SUBJECT OF CANDIDACY.

Washington, Dec. 2.—Governor Eugene N. Poss, of Massachusetts, who is believed to be candidate for president, certainly was coy when he arrived in Washington today to witness the opening of congress. He paid his respects to Speaker Champ Clark, Floor Leader Underwood and other leading democrats of both chambers. "What are the democratic prospects in the New England States?" he was asked at the capital. "I can't discuss that, young man," he replied. "Will Massachusetts repeat next year?" "Most certainly. You saw what we did this year. Past performances give a good basis for future events." "Would you support Champ Clark for the democratic presidential nomination?" was asked. "This is wonderful weather in Washington—is it always like this?" dodged the governor. The interviewer turned to avoid a passing automobile and the governor boarded a street car.

Talks on Trust Business

Strictly speaking our duties to our clients are performed when we handle the funds and estates placed in our charge in a businesslike way, in each case carrying out the terms of the instrument creating the trust. But if we should stop there we would feel that we had fallen far short of filling that sphere of usefulness that it is the privilege of a trust company to fill. The nature of the work we are called upon to do in our trust department presents many opportunities of rendering services not demanded or required by the strict duties of the business. It brings us into intimate personal relationship with many of our clients, who frequently seek our advice not alone in the management of their estates, the execution of their wills, and other fiduciary matters, but upon outside questions of a purely private nature on which they feel the need of friendly advice and suggestion. These incidental services we gladly give, not from a purely altruistic motive, to be sure, but because we know that our business grows in proportion to the number of friends we make, and it's the added services, over and above the strict requirements of business, that make friends.

Young Men!

One of our leading citizens has said that the obligations of a young man is what makes him. Now what makes the leading citizen? This does not mean that you buy your new suit on the installment plan. Oh, no. But alludes to profitable investments. The man who has no aim in life has no obligations, consequently never amounts to very much. So be one of the future leading citizens. Obligate yourself—think of your obligations, figure to meet them AND MEET THEM.

We are just developing a very attractive piece of property just 1 1/2 mile of the square on Interurban line. See us, make obligations with us and be a future leading citizen. That's what it takes to make them. We obligate ourselves to make terms to suit you.
