The Rockefeller Of Mexico Forced To Work For Living

Alberto Terrazas, Whose Fortune Amounted to Forty Millions, Leaves For California To Take Up a Small Farm—Ruined by Revolution.

Sees No Hope of Peace—O'Shaughnessy Says All is Quiet in Mexico City—Huerta Refuses Request For an Armistice.

El Paso, Texas, Feb. 6.—His immense income tied up by three years of revolution, Alberto Terrazas, of the family whose name in Mexico is a synonym for great wealth, has been compelled to seek a means of livelihood.

This information, as astounding in Mexico and along the border as a similar news of a Rockefeller or a Vanderbilt would be in the United States, became known here today with his departure for Pasadena, Cal.

Terrazas expects to buy or lease a small farm where he can make a modest living. He is one of those who sees no prospect of peace in his native land, and until tranquility is restored the income of the vast Terrazas family fortune, estimated at $25,000,000 to $40,000,000 in gold, will be tied up. Even in the event of peace it may be lost, for the rebels have declared it confiscated.

"I do not mind going to work; it may be a good thing," he said to friends and then smiled at his own remarks for his prodigality with money has been a story, chapters of which have been written on two continents.

The Terrazas fortune was founded by Don Luis Terrazas, now an octogenarian refugee in this city, in land grants from Presidents Juarez and Porfirio Diaz. These holdings have been augmented constantly until now, as train schedules are in Mexico, it would take a passenger train three days to travel the boundaries of this domain. It stretches from Juarez 375 miles south to Jimenez and west 400 miles to Casas Grandes. It includes hundreds of mines, factories and fertile farms. All this was the property of the senior Terrazas and his three sons, Juan, now in the city of Mexico; Luis, Jr., held at Chihuahua as a hostage by the rebels, and Alberto—until the rebels declared the whole estate confiscated.

Beginning with the revolt of Francisco Madero more than three years ago the soldiers of northern Mexico on either side of that and the succeeding revolutions have practically lived on the Terrazas' fortune. Immense sums were contributed by the family to favorite causes or were extorted by the enemy.

A recent instance was the million dollar ransom demanded for the release of Luis, Jr. He was incarcerated at Chihuahua but declined to contribute until he was taken out, beaten with the flat of a sword and a rap placed around his neck. In this predicament he contributed $500,000, all the ready money at his command. He was then permitted to join his family. The additional ransom now demanded is $250,000 but it is believed that General Villa prefers to hold him as a hostage to deter other members of the family from financing a new revolt in the north to harass the rebel rear on its march to Terreon.

How much money the elder Terrazas has on this side of the border is not known but his intimates say it is comparatively little. He, like his sons, always had an anchor to windward in the way of investments in the United States but heavy expenses have greatly diminished them. After that, it is said, would not accept aid from his father's reduced store, preferring to fight his battle with his own hands. When he and wife, and their children boarded the train the only servant in the party was an old nurse.

CASTILLO'S BANDITS DID SERIOUS DAMAGE

Juarez, Mexico, Feb. 6.—Seven American railroad men are believed to be prisoners; the great Cumbre railroad tunnel through the continental divide is in ruins, and the Mexican Northwestern passenger train which left here Wednesday morning is a charred wreck at the mouth of the tunnel, as the result of depredation of Maxime Castillo's bandits.

This information was received here today at headquarters of the railroad. The Cumbre tunnel is the largest of the road, 2,700 feet long.

The names of the prisoners reported here are: M. J. Gilmartin, superintendent of the road.
