GAYLY FLOWERED SILKS FOR SPRING.

In the shops are new, quaintly designed foulards, china and Shanghai silks.

It would seem as though the fashions of the days of 1830 or 1860 were about to dawn again, for these silks repeat the designs favored for calico and bustering materials, both of which were fashionable during the periods quoted.

Fine flower designs closely printed are dominant at present. The backgrounds are indistinct, but the color effect is most decided, even though a multiple of colors are embodied in each general color scheme.

There are quaint blues rather reminiscent of the Chinese blue color of old porcelains: lovely, indescribable browns within whose varied shades nestle little squares and circles and small flat flower shapes, each one introduced in contrasting colors, but preserving a most artistic color harmony as a whole.

In one color and white effects, particularly in the blue and white, almost all the designs are geometrical and uniform in arrangement.

It is only where flower forms are used that a kaleidoscopic alliance of color results.

Shanhaig silks are heavy enough to drape well, but the foulards are in very certain style position.

The rivals for popular favor will be craped wools and silks. These may be printed in colorful designs or may only be produced in solid color effects.

For cotton the prospects is exceedingly pleasing.

White materials will occupy a great deal of attention. Gowns made of white materials, particularly the sheer cottons and linens, will be replete with most exquisite trimmings features and be emphasized by elaborate embroideries, much tucking and a great deal of lace and embroidery insertion and flouncing.

"What makes an Englishman wear a monocle?"

"Well," replied Plate Pete, "I have been told that diplomacy is something like a poker game. I once taught an Englishman to play poker, and believe me, son, there's nothing like a monocle to prevent a man's facial expression from slipping."—Washington Star.

PETE COMPTON KNEW WHEN TO KEEP QUIET.

Pete Compton, formerly an outfielder with the St. Louis Browns, is one of those good-natured Texans who takes life easy, but is dangerous when he gets riled. A remark Pete made to Umpire Jack Egan in a game at Detroit last year is recalled. Pete had been warming the bench at the time, and was doing the coaching in an attempt to earn his salary.

A play came up at the plate. Pete failed to agree with the decision, and came up from third to so express himself, although he was in no position to see just what had happened at the plate. Had not the runner missed the plate four or five inches he would have been safe, as he was touched late, but Pete did not know this.

Egan listened to Pete's ravings for a while, then informed him that unless he hastened back to the coaching lines at first, his check would be minus a hundred when pay day rolled around. Egan was kidding, but the idea of losing $100 in real money brought Pete back to earth. Looking Egan squarely in the eye, he answered:

"In Texas they kill people for doing less than that."

"Remember you are now in Michigan," replied Egan, "but I don't think I need fear your gun if you shoot as well as you see plays."

Pete resumed coaching and the fine of $100 was called off.

DEATHS

MRS. E. S. BRAWLEY.

Special to The News.

Statesville, March 4.—Mrs. Elizabeth Sumter Brawley, died Monday afternoon at 3:25 o'clock at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Frye, on west Front street, death resulting from pneumonia. Surviving are the following named children: Mrs. T. E. Frye, of Statesville; Mrs. Setzer, of Maiden; Messrs. Wm. S Brawley, who lives at the old home place in Shiloh; C. S. Brawley, of Chapin, S. C.; E. M. Brawley, of Hickory; F. W. Brawley, of Gastonia; A. M. Brawley, of Cleveland, and R. V. Brawley, of Statesville, and two sisters, Mrs. J. M. Templeton, of Mt. Mourne and Mrs. Clarissa Henry, of Gastonia.

Mr. Tillman Henson.

Chester, S. C., March 4.—Mr. Tillman Henson, a prominent Chester county planter, passed away at his home Sunday morning at the age of 76 years, in the Rossville community. The funeral services were conducted at his home yesterday morning at 12 o'clock and the interment was made in the Mt. Prospect M. E. graveyard.

Mr. A. A. Colvert.

Special to The News.

Statesville, March 4.—Mr. Augustus A. Colvert, who was rendered unconscious by a stroke of paralysis three weeks ago, died yesterday without regaining consciousness. The funeral service will be held this afternoon in Broad Street Methodist church. His wife, who was Miss Mamie Hale, survives him. Surviving also are two sisters, Mrs. Charles R. Jones of Charlotte and Mrs. C. W. Stimpson of Statesville, and one brother. Mr. J. E. Colvert of Statesville.

Mr. George W. Brown.

Special to The News.

Statesville, March 4.—Mr. George W. Brown died Monday evening at his home at Long Island, Catawba county, 12 miles from Statesville. The funeral service service was held yesterday at Concord church, near Long Island. The remains will be taken to Macon, Ga., for burial.

CONCORD ITEMS

Special to The News.

Concord, March 4.—The first section of northbound freight train No. 72 was wrecked yesterday morning at 2:35 o'clock when two freight cars jumped the track near the Franklin Cotton Mill. No one was injured. The wreck delayed all the Southern's trains about five hours.

Next Friday night, March 6, will be a red letter time for the Pythians of Concord and their friends. It will be open house and the good people of the city who are interested in the great work of the order of Knights of Pythias. A very interesting program will be rendered, the climax of which will be an address by Capt. J. G. Baird, grand vice chancellor of Charlotte, upon the subject of "Ideal Pythianism."

Corl-Wadsworth Company has added a modern ambulance to its livery equipment. The ambulance will be used chiefly for the Concord hospital but will be at the disposal of any physician or individual of the city or county at any time.

The board of county commissioners held their regular monthly meeting at the court house Monday. Numerous routine matters were considered by the board, after which road matters were taken up and the jury for April term of court was drawn. The most important of the road matters was the order instructing the superintendent of roads to begin work on the National Highway near Harrisburg.

Sheriff Honeycutt left this morning for Winston-Salem for Ed Sprinkle, who is held there on a warrant from this county charging him with bigamy.

TWO SLIGHT WRECKS ON SALISBURY-ASHEVILLE DIVISION OF SOU. R. R.

Special to The News.

Statesville, March 4.—There were two freight wrecks on the Salisbury and Asheville division of the Southern Monday. In the early morning there was a rear-end collision at Swannanoa, in the mountains, resulting in the destruction of a caboose, and traffic was blocked for several hours. Later in the day a car of an east bound freight was derailed a few miles east of Statesville, blocking the track at that point for several hours. A derrick had to be called from Spencer to remove the car from the track. No one was hurt in either wreck.

NEGRO CHILD BURNED TO DEATH ON HEARTH.

Special to The News.

Chester, S. C., March 4.—A child of Sam Rainey, a negro, was burned to death late yesterday evening on Cemetery street on the outskirts of the city. The child's mother had gone out into the yard to do some washing, and left the child sitting by the fire, as she had often done many times before. After a little while she came back and the little one had walked into the fire and was resting amid the burning wood in a perfectly baked condition. It is thought that the minute the child stepped into the fire its clothes were ignited and it inhaled the flames causing instant death.
