The execution of these four men is but another step in one of the blackest crimes ever committed in the crime. crowded annals of New York city. What final disposition will be made in the case of ex-Lieutenant Charles Becker remains to be seen. It was apon the evidence of these men largely that Becker was convicted and these men had perjured themselves by an eariler statement. With a new trial likely, it is not improbable that Becker will go clear. He has influential friends. These men had few friends and little money.
