

CCUNC PAPER DRIVE NEARS END FUTURE SEEN WITH NO IN-BETWEEN

BY KATE BECHTLER

Swinging into the Summer at the same fast tempo set during the 1947-48 Season now ending, CCUNC continues to "Latch On to The Affirmative, Eliminate the Negative, Have No Time for Mr. In-Between."

The Charlotte College Center of 1947 heard many complaints about "What you don't have—." Today, CC's students and faculty can counter with "What don't we have!" Better than that, they can illustrate—and do.

The Sophomore program completed this year would be a source of pride to any junior college in the land. It would be difficult to find a more comprehensive range of courses than that just covered by classes in International Politics; Introduction to Philosophy; and Survey of Social Problems. No one could have presented such vital subject matter in a more effective manner than did the instructors of these respective courses.

Just around the corner, the fall quarter Summer Session will not suffer from comparison with the term now ending. Plans for the Summer School are receiving the care befitting such a momentous occasion as the first Summer School at CCUNC, and careful consideration is being given to the historical value of every gesture that goes into the make-up of the curriculum. As the News goes to press this bright May day, everybody knows that in September, 1948, the gates of the College Center will swing wide in welcome.

The moving finger continues to point, and it is with permissible pride that attention is directed to the "Campus Cutups of 1948"—that prolific production of pranks proved beyond a doubt the old saw about variety, and what it is. This show, begun under the able leadership of an experienced producer, underwent many setbacks, the major one being the loss of a director less than two weeks before the premiere. Actors somehow refuse to be stymied, however, and it is hard to believe that the show could possibly have been a greater success than it was.

Inspired anew with the coming of Spring, CC's Choral Club carols merrily along, and the Dramatic Group is returning to its workshop to build on the solid groundwork laid last Fall.

Spring Football practice has been successfully completed, and the Owls, who a year ago did not have a full time director, are ready and waiting to carry the pigskin through a victorious 1948 season for CC.

APPRECIATION

The CCUNC News wishes to thank Buddy Drummond and Jonsie Pyron for the help which they have given this paper's advertising department.

The College Center baseball team has turned in a fine record, and it looks forward to a good showing as the summer days pile up.

1948, we love you.

CHORAL GROUP GATHERS ON TUES., THURS.

The College Center Chorus, under the direction of Mr. John Holliday, meets each Tuesday and Thursday evening at 8:30 P. M. in the Teacher's Dining Room, which is located on the first floor of the Central High School building.

David Littlejohn, popular between-class soloist commented on the versatility of the CC choral group. Because of sporadic attendance, the ensemble may be a trio, quartet, or, on rare occasions, a Quintet. Sometimes there is just a chummy duet. Littlejohn states that such weak attendance is sad indeed, as the student body exceeds 250.

Students wishing to try out for the College Center Chorus are reminded that no previous experience or knowledge of music is necessary.

Present members of the chorus are Dick Boward, Carl Vipperman, David Rae, Bob Wylie, Loyd Overcash, and David Littlejohn.

The last two song fests of the spring Quarter will take place on Tuesday and Thursday of next week. Those eager to lend voice to folk-songs, spirituals, and ballads are asked to participate in these closing sessions.

It is hoped that the College Center choral work will continue throughout the Summer Quarter.

ALPHABET REGISTER

June 1 is the date set for the beginning of the registration period for the Summer Quarter. Students having attended the CCUNC Spring Quarter are asked to follow a planned schedule when registering. Students whose last names begin with the letters "A" through "F" will register Tuesday, June 1; "G" through "M's" will register Wednesday, June 2; "N" through "R's" will register Thursday, June 3; and "S" through "Z's," on Friday, June 4.

Saturday, June 5, has been designated as registration day for persons who have not previously attended the College Center.

SCHOOL PLANS OUTINGS FOR WARM DAYS

"There will be no curtailment in the school's program or activities during the Summer Quarter," Miss Bonnie E. Cone, CCUNC Director said today. Miss Cone saw no reason why the Summer Session should not be as successful as any the College Center has had. Courses covering the full eleven weeks period, will not be condensed or speeded up.

Program planners for the coming quarter are looking forward to a number of Summer outings. It is pointed out that several students have places on the river that would be ideal for picnics and swimming parties.

An expression of longing rapture filled Miss Cone's eyes when she expressed the hope that students would be interested in Watermelon slicings. The College Center Director is partial to watermelon.

EDUCATOR PAYS CCUNC SHORT VISIT

Dr. Jesse P. Bogue of Washington, executive secretary of the American Association of Junior Colleges, visited Charlotte on May 6 to discuss the possibility of establishing CCUNC as a permanent junior college. After speaking to the Kiwanis Club at its weekly luncheon meeting about the college, Dr. Bogue met with the Advisory Committee and Miss Cone. Some members of the School Board, the County Commissioners, officials of the University of North Carolina, and other persons interested in the College Center met with the group.

Dr. Bogue, speaking to the Kiwanians, said that since 1902 when the first junior college was established in Juliette, Ill., the movement has spread rapidly. Today there are 652 junior colleges operating in America. According to Dr. Bogue there were 455,000 students enrolled in junior colleges last year. The 1946 enrollment has nearly doubled because of the demand for a college education from returning veterans.

Dr. Bogue gave four reasons for the great increase of junior colleges:

1. A demand for increased education at all levels. (In 1900 there were 1,000,000 students in high schools; and in 1947, there were 7,000,000.
2. An increase in the age at which persons start work.
3. An increase in the leisure time of the public.
4. An increase in technological development.

In talking with several of the students of the College Center, Dr.

PROCEEDS GO TO BASEBALL TEAM

With a May 31 deadline to meet, Bill Correll and George Stockbridge, chairmen of the CCUNC paper drive, pushed their campaign forward in hopes of exceeding a goal of 80,000 pounds of wastepaper collected.

INSTRUCTORS RETURN FOR SUMMER TERM

The College Center Office revealed last May 22 that a number of Spring Quarter instructors would probably be back for the summer term. Teachers most likely to return are: Rosannah G. Blair and Jane Hinson, Librarians; Mary Denny, English; Frank Eller and Lucille Puette, Chemistry; Albert D. Harmon, engineering, Drawing; Maribelle Hines and Frank Harwood, Economics and Commerce 51 and 71; Dr. Roy E. Hoke, Psychology-Sociology; Frances B. Hoyle, Spanish; Eleanor Jenkins, Myrtis J. Mackey, and Flora Mae Watson, Mathematics; Mark F. Tinkham, Physics; Edyth F. Wingham, Political Science—French.

Miss Bonnie E. Cone stated that several teaching positions remain to be filled; however, the size of summer faculty will be contingent upon the number of students enrolled for that period.

ENROLLMENT MAY REACH 200 MARK

An enrollment of at least 200 students for the CCUNC Summer Session was seen as a probability by College Center Officials today. By May 22, 188 preliminary applications were on file in the Director's Office.

In passing a minimum enrollment of 150 as stipulated by Charles E. McIntosh, Assistant Director in Charge of North Carolina College Centers, the Summer's potential student body approached the proportion of those enjoyed by the College Center during previous quarters. The College Center's first quarter—Fall of 1946—had an enrollment of 278; Winter Quarter 1947, 287; Spring Quarter 1947, 255; Fall Quarter 1947, 304; Winter Quarter 1948, 286; and Spring Quarter 1948, 260.

For the past two months, applications have poured into the CC Office from former students of Chapel Hill, Wheaton, Citadel, State College, Davidson, Belmont Abbey, Mars Hill, Queens, Pfeiffer, and The University of the South. Many students from Central High School and outlying schools in Mecklenburg County are expected to enter the Center this summer.

Bogue expressed his pleasure at the work being done in Charlotte, and said that he saw no reason why Charlotte should not adopt the Center as a permanent junior college.

Bill Mills, student veteran, helped the drive to start at a fast pace by making a personal contribution of 1000 pounds of paper. Several other students and friends of the College Center have made large donations. One man notified Miss Bonnie E. Cone, CC Director, that he had a garage jammed full of wastepaper, and was awaiting the arrival of CCUNC collecting trucks.

English teacher Mary Denny, enthusiastic supporter of the project, confides that CC students have been indirectly responsible for the contribution she will make. Miss Denny, too busy reading themes to give much attention to other activities, will round up a large stack of magazines, which she has not had time to read. Miss Cone, immediately tagged for a special collection of 150 pounds of defunct office memos and red tape, has already started to clean house.

The Paper Drive Committee hopes to boom collections by asking the city's leading department stores to give all of their wastepaper for one day to the school. Such individual sources are expected to play an important part in helping the school to amass a tremendous quantity of paper.

Each student is requested to bring in 50 pounds of paper, and each instructor is looked to for 100 pounds. This issue of The CCUNC News is also seen potential reservoir.

Proceeds obtained through the drive should reach $500 if 80,000 pounds of paper is collected. The greater part of this fund will be given to the CCUNC baseball team. Henceforth, the players have been paying their own travel expenses when keeping out-of-town dates. The rest of the profits will be used to promote other school activity.

FINAL EXAMS WILL BEGIN ON JUNE 1

Final examinations will begin on June 1 and run through June 4, the College Center Office discloses.

Examinations for the four o'clock classes will take place on June 1, 4 to 6 P. M.; five o'clock classes, on June 2, 5 to 7 P. M.; six o'clock classes, on June 3, 6 to 8 P. M.; and seven o'clock classes, on June 4, 7 to 9 P. M.

The Office will make an effort to have final grades completed on June 7 or 8.

Miss Cone has asked that students not telephone the office in order to learn their grades, because such interruption may slow down the mailing of grades.
