

COLLEGIATE LIFE

Vol. 1 - No. 4

CHARLOTTE COLLEGE, CHARLOTTE, N. C.

March 28, 1950

NEWS BRIEFS

The square dance held March 10 was successful although not as successful as the first one. The same group under new direction played for it.

The Entertainment Committee is planning a May Day dance with a May queen and a small court. The date hasn't been set yet.

The baseball team is at last underway. Some 21 boys have signed up to play. The uniforms have arrived and practice has started. The first game is scheduled for April 6.

Choir attendance lately has been slack. The members are urged to come. Miss Rosemary Shingleton welcomes all.

The new advertising manager of the annual is Jo Mahalic. Frances Gullidge, the former manager, had to resign because of insufficient time to do the work.

Commencement plans are now being made. According to the last count, approximately 17 people will graduate. Grady Miller is chairman of the Cap and Gown Committee and Barbara Murphy is chairman of the Program Committee.

The swimming team has folded. Poor attendance was one of the reasons given.

Several of Charlotte College's former students made the honor roll at Carolina last quarter. They were Oscar N. Burgess, Jr., James William Connor, Marcus G. Henderson, and Axel W. Hoke.

Sorority And Fraternity News

The Keymen have elected new officers for this semester. They are David Cash, president; Bill Prim, vice-president; and George Douglas, secretary-treasurer. The fraternity is planning a formal dance for its members.

The Sorority has at last selected the Regina Sorority. Regina is the Latin word for "queen". The new officers are: Carole Hinson, president; Frances Gullidge, vice-president; Mary Camp, secretary; and Deane Richardson, treasurer. Small gray and maroon hats have been ordered for the members.

Tentative plans have been made for a dance to be sponsored by the sorority and the fraternity. Tickets will be sold to raise money for the baseball team.

Geology Class Chalks Up Another Field Trip

Well, they've been on another! Where to? Lake Waccamaw, a very scenic spot near Wilmington. Nine students and Dr. Hechenbleikner spent a busy week-end hunting fossils, going boating, and taking in the bowing alleys and night spots of Wilmington.

They left Charlotte Saturday morning, spent the day and night at Lake Waccamaw, and left early Sunday morning for Ft. Fisher and Kure's beach. Sunday night they were back in Charlotte after a very eventful week-end.

27 MAKE DEAN'S LIST

Superlatives

Three Students On "A" List

The dean's list for the winter quarter included the names of twenty-seven Charlotte College students who carried the full load of at least fifteen quarter hours of work and maintained an average of "A" or "B". Three students included in the "A" list are Carolyn Louise Reichard, William E. Senn, Jr., and Robert Paul Ward, Jr.

Merchandising Students Offered New Course

Another one of the new courses which are being offered at C. C. this Spring quarter is business law. This is one of the courses in the curriculum designed to train merchandising students. Other courses offered in the new quarter for this group of students are business mathematics and marketing.

William Webb, with an A.B. degree from Washington and Lee in 1942, and an LL.B. degree from Harvard University in 1948, is the instructor of the class in business law. Mr. Webb, who has recently passed the written examination for the North Carolina bar, is now associated with general counsel's office of Belk Department stores. His more than three years of service during the war were spent in AAF Board headquarters. Although a native of Cincinnati, Mr. Webb's marriage to a niece of Mrs. Andrew Blair has brought him to Charlotte.

The course in business law includes a survey of the law of contractors and the law of sales. Also, brief attention is paid to the legal aspects of various types of business organizations. It is a course which will be of significance to persons whose business activities involve dealing with present or future purchases of merchandise or services. The purpose of this course is not to teach law in the academic sense, but to furnish an elementary guide to the legal aspects of everyday commercial transactions.

The class in business law, limited to 35 students, now has less than a dozen vacancies in it.

The Alumnus Of The Month

Joe Bookout

Joe Bookout is a name that will probably be put in the dictionary someday as a synonym for "brains." Joe, a Phi Beta Kappa member, was very active all the way through school. In high school he won the J. C. Ott's Award and Scholarship given by Central High School for outstanding leadership and citizenship and the Lions' Club Award and Scholarship for "outstanding work done in the physical sciences."

After finishing high school he entered N. C. State college to work toward a B. S. degree in chemical engineering; however, the following year he changed schools and entered Charlotte College where he stayed for two terms. Although Joe's record in chemistry was above average, he was dissatisfied and uninterested in his work. Consequently, he de-

Sigma Pi Alpha Fraternity Will Initiate C. C. Students

Charlotte language students of Elvett College will be initiated into the Sigma Pi Alpha national honorary fraternity April 15 at Mitchell College in Statesville, North Carolina.

Deane Richardson, Nancy Jo Elliott, Ray Kisiah, and Wayne Hooks will go from the Spanish 21 class. Mary Camp, Barbara Murphy, Doris Faulk, and Lewis Camp will go from the French 21 class. Carole Hinson, Bill Senn and Gene Henderson will go from the French 2 class.

Dr. Pierre Macy, Charlotte College's French professor, will be the after dinner speaker at this occasion.

Joe Bookout decided to drop engineering and take up economics. He completed his work at the university December 16, 1949 with, by the way, a 94.7 average and will receive his diploma June 5, 1950.

Now that Joe has finished school he is working for the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company and is planning to be married soon. The lucky girl is Evelyn Michaels.

Charlotte College is proud to have Joe Bookout as a member of her alumni.

Woodworking Class Offered At C.C.

A second class in woodworking is being taught at Charlotte College this quarter. This non-college credit course, open to men and women, began March 21, and the class meets Tuesday nights from 7 to 10 o'clock. This course will last for 12 weeks. Enrollment, limited to 20 students, is partially filled.

Claude A. Bell of the industrial arts department of Central High school is the instructor for the course. Mr. Bell received his Bachelor's degree from Western Kentucky State college and his Master's degree from the University of Missouri.

Instruction is given in machine and hand woodworking. The power tools available for the class are lathes, planers, jointer, circular band, and jig, saws (drill press with router bits and mortising attachments, and sanding equipment).

The course is presented to provide basic hand and machine instruction for beginning students and power tools and advanced information for the advanced woodworker.

The first class in woodworking offered at Charlotte college was given during the winter quarter, which closed on the night of March 17. It was accompanied by capacity enrollment of 21 students.
