Kay Troutman Crowned Christmas Dance Queen

By ELLISON CLARY
Journal Staff Writer

Lovely Kay Troutman was crowned UNC-C's first Christmas Queen at the annual Christmas Dance Saturday night, Dec. 11. The dance, which began at 9 p.m. and ended three hours later, was held in the Atkins Library Auditorium.

As the evening approached its midpoint, the highly anticipated crowning was launched. Tension mounted as emcee Martin Richek made his opening pleasantries and announced the names of the princesses of the court.

While the lovely coeds were being recognized, the question in everyone's mind was, "Who will be Queen?" Suddenly the secret was known as the coveted title fell to stunning Kay Troutman.

Billy Butterfield and his band provided dance music for students and faculty members at the dance.

The musicians mixed their lyrical offerings well, playing everything from "White Christmas" to "A Taste of Honey" and a pleasing jazz version of "You Are My Sunshine." A request for a waltz, though it was rumored that it came from a member of the band, was honored.

Forty-Niners' Conference Record 2-0

By LARRY KEITH

After the UNC-Charlotte Forty-Niners ripped into St. Andrews for an 89-73 win Friday night, the first of the year in six starts, Jerry Anthony shrieked, "Oh! It feels so-o-o-o good."

Victory was sweet, especially since they had only tasted bitter defeat having lost their first five games, all of which were non-conference. Two games were lost in Florida; a third to Belmont Abbey, 102-61, a fourth to Guilford, 99-41; and the fifth to Augusta, 85-57.

Saturday night, the Forty-Niners found themselves a 72-64 victor over the College of Charleston for their second DIAC win in two nights, the 2-0 mark being good for first place. And Anthony had something to say about that too: "Oh! It feels so-o-o-o good."

All this gives you an idea of what the 6-2 jumping back

Miss Troutman, a dark-haired freshman and a successful participant in several beauty contests, appeared breath-takingly beautiful in a white semi-formal. The pride of Salisbury and a representative of UNC-C in the "Miss Consolidated University" contest earlier this year, she wore her crown proudly while seated on an elegantly decorated throne.

Her court consisted of Glenda Trull, eye-pleasing senior beauty; glamorous junior representative Sandra Haney; sparkling Paula Howie, representing the sophomores; and Jan Ballard, lovely freshman princess.

The Queen and the members of her court were elected by the student body via secret ballot last week.

Bordon Approved For Justiceship

By MIKE WILSON
Journal Staff Writer

The appointment of Mitchell Borden as a Justice on the Student Court highlighted the December 6 meeting of the Student Legislature. Gus Psomadakis presented Borden to the Legislature, and after a brief introductory speech by Mr. Borden, the appointment was passed unanimously.

Later, Borden talked about his appointment. One of Borden's immediate endeavors is to try to have a suitable Judicial Act.

"With a valid Judicial Act," Borden said, "we could approach the administration with the idea of gaining authority to try honor offenses in the Student Court." Borden was indirectly instrumental in the Amendment to the Honor Code which was passed by the student body earlier this fall.

Sam Scott, chairman of the Judicial Committee moved that the Constitution of the University of North Carolina at Charlotte Young Democratic Club be passed to grant that organization a permanent charter. This constitution, along with the constitutions of the Business Club and the University Party, was passed unanimously. A temporary charter for the American Chemical Society was also granted.

Later, under the heading of unfinished business, he introduced the Amendment to the Judicial Act. Bill Billups proposed an amendment to the amendment on the grounds that the original amendment was unconstitutional. This proposal passed 24-2. Tim Britton then moved that because the members of the Legislature were not familiar enough with the original Judicial Act, the amendment be tabled till the next meeting. The motion was passed.

New business was brought up, and the Legislature passed a motion by Sam Scott that copies of the official Student Legislature meetings be posted on three bulletin boards and placed on the desk at the College Union within one week of the meetings.

The Legislature then gave its support to Mike Thomas who had proposed to Dr. Cone that several rooms be open late at night for study.

George Elam moved that Dave Turner, Robert England, Bill Billups, and Lewis Barber be approved to join the Academic Affairs Committee. This was approved.

David Baucom invited opinions on a project by the Senior Class to raise money to present a gift to the University. He suggested that the Senior Class sell gold stars for the students to put above their UNC-C automobile decals.

A freshman would have one star, a sophomore two stars, a junior three stars, and a senior four stars.

Summer Jobs With Government Available

A recent interview with Miss Mildred English, director of student affairs, revealed many job opportunities for both graduating seniors and students wishing summer and part time employment.

All college seniors living in the Charlotte area are invited to "College Employment Opportunities Day" for an open house with local business representatives at the Merchandise Mart December 29, between 10 a.m. and 8 p.m.

The affair, sponsored by the Charlotte Observer, the Charlotte News, and the Chamber of Commerce, will feature booths indicating employment opportunities for college graduates in many firms.

Miss English also stated that any student desiring government employment this summer must apply to take the Civil Service examination by January 3, 1966. Applications may be obtained from any post office for the test to be given in late January or early February.

If you happen to be looking for part time employment right now, the Job Placement Service can help you. All you have to do is make an appointment for an interview with Miss English.

This interview will give Miss English some idea of your abilities and capabilities and she will try to place you in a job suited to your talents. Often work is found for an individual which is related to his major field.

Miss June Faulk Kelly of Charlotte has been named permanent accompanist for the Chorus. Miss Kelly will accompany the combined UNC-C and Cleveland County Choruses for the Wednesday, Dec. 15, performance of Handels "Messiah" to be held in the Library Auditorium at 11:30 a.m.
