

Spivak's Third Recital Well-Attended, Well-Received

Musician-in-residence Raul Spivak presented the third program in a series of three recitals entitled, "Perspectives In Music Through The Keyboard, Baroque to Contemporary," on February 4, to a full house.

The recitals have been well-received by the community since the beginning of the program, and student attendance has steadily increased.

The third recital, which consisted of works from the Post-Romanticism and Impressionism periods, featured selections by Brahms, Debussy, Ravel, Scriabin, Rachmaninoff, and Mousorgsky. Mr. Spivak prefaces each piece with some comments on its style, content, form, etc. These remarks have been extremely well-received by the audiences because some knowledge of the selection to be played has proven to heighten listening enjoyment.

The next recital in the series will be Twentieth Century Composers and Nationalism in Music on April 7, Sunday, in the University Union.

The French Club is offering complimentary tickets for the production of "Le Tartuffe" by the Treteau de Paris tonight at 8:00 p.m. at Ovens Auditorium.

Two volunteers are needed back-stage at 2:30 p.m. to help with the preparation of costumes, and two people are needed at 7:15 p.m. to sell souvenir albums in the lobby before the performance,

Anyone interested in this opportunity should leave his name, address, and telephone number at the French Department.

Zen Master Gives Public Lectures At Duke

The renowned Zen Master (Roshi) and Abbott of the Nanzenji monastery of Kyoto, Japan, Zenkai Shibayama, will give two public lectures at Duke University on Tuesday, February 20, and Friday, February 23, at 4:00 p.m.

A music ensemble class is being formed by Mr. Raul Spivak on campus. Students who play any instrument and who are interested in becoming a part of the class should leave their name, phone number, and list of free times in the Music Office.

in Room 130 of the Sociology-Psychology Building on the Duke Campus.

The Roshi will be accompanied by Miss Sumiko Kudo who will serve as his able assistant and interpreter. Miss Kudo is herself an accomplished student of Zen.

This is the Roshi's second visit to Duke and the students of the area are fortunate to have this opportunity of hearing this outstanding Zen master.

Dr. Loy H. Witherspoon, UNC-C Chaplain and Chairman of the Department of Philosophy and Religion, says that there are funds to pay mileage for a car if students and/or faculty want to avail themselves of this opportunity.

The celebrated Rinzai Zen master will lecture on "Training in Zen" on Tuesday. His topic for Friday is "The Ideal Man in Zen." Faculty and students interested in attending one or both of the lectures are invited to get in touch with Dr. Witherspoon.
