Class Elections To Begin Here Today

By Barbara Jean Smith

Nominations for class officers were held last week. There are only four contested offices and no nominations were filed for Senior Judge. The nominations are:

Miss Smith

Sophomore President, Garry Williams; Vice President, Gordon Lawrence; Representatives (3), Dorothy Faye Conley; James O. Cuthbertson, Laura F. Jacobs, and Edward O. Wayson; Judge, Thurman Willis, Jr., and Steve F. Hewitt.

Nominations for the Junior Class are: Junior President, Rusty Sittin; Vice President, David M. Cristenbury, and Sonia Mizell; Representatives, Barbara Brenizer, Carol Ann Poston, and Dianne Vaughan; Judge, Peter D. Donahue, and Robert Steven Kendrick.

Nominations For Senior Class are: Senior President, Charlie A. Brown and Joseph Stephen Davidson; Vice President, Jerry Hammond; Representatives, Olga Polyzos, Ronald W. Rogers, and Robert A. Welch.

The Nominations for the Consolidated University Student Council are Paula Jean Gallant, and Kathryn M. Ward.

Voting will be held today through Friday. No nominations for Publications Board representative from the student body at large were filed, so that election has been postponed.

Many people on campus, disappointed at the voting turn-out for the S.G.A. offices, are hoping more students will be interested in voting for their class offices. One student on campus voiced the opinion of many when he said, "It's getting so, that the only thing anyone wants to do is complain and hold 'Bitch-Ins', but when it comes to doing something, like voting for the candidates of their choice, all they want to do is sit on their asses!"

David Hoy Predicts a Major Clash Between Cuba and U.S. Before July 15

By Sherry Drake

David Hoy, "Mr. ESP," who appeared in the Parquet Room last Wednesday, made three predictions for the future: The United States and Cuba will have an upheaval around July 15; the next major plane crash will be in Europe, probably over Switzerland; and a major gold strike will be discovered in Alaska within the next 90 days. Mr. Hoy's predictions in the past have been 85% correct,—time will tell about the predictions made on our campus.

During the talk he gave a brief history of ESP, beginning with Dr. Rhine of Duke who is known as "the Father of ESP." According to Hoy, ESP is divided into three distinct facets: telepathy or mind-to-mind communication, precognition or anticipating and predicting the future, and psychokinesis or the movement of physical objects by the mind without use of physical means.

The NEW YORK TIMES has said that ESP will be one of the major means of communication by the year 2020, but Hoy disagrees with this. He thinks it will be much sooner than that, for he sees ESP not just as a particular gift that only a few people possess, but as a faculty which we all have and can develop. Nor does he see anything of the occult, of palmistry, or astrology in ESP. And, he considers preschool children the best subjects, because their minds have not yet been structured into logical channels.

Mr. Hoy knows many of the active, well-known people in ESP and told stories about several of them. After appearing on a television show with Jeanne Dixon, they were talking back stage. She was telling everyone that her predictions came straight from God, Hoy turned to her and said, "That's fine, but when you miss, you sure are giving him a bad name." He thinks Bishop Pike is a nice man, but one with a terrible hang-up because of his son's suicide. In other words he doesn't believe that the good Bishop is in communication with his son.

After his talk, Hoy gave a very convincing demonstration. Up until this time many members of the audience had remained very skeptical. He asked someone to come up and blindfold him. Scarlett Lackey was volunteered, she blindfolded him with five she was carrying. One of the boys had a piece of American money—Ioy even told him the serial number.

After the performance, because it was truly a polished performance, even the hard core skeptics had begun to wonder.

pieces of wide surgical tape placed over two half dollars. After the money was taped securely in place, she placed nine folds of black cloth over the tape and money.

Hoy asked for five people to come from the audience on a volunteer basis, and for these five people to bring with them an object for him to identify.

Five people lined up. The first, a boy, walked up, touched him on the arm as he had been directed, and waved a small white object between Hoy's hands. Hoy first asked if the object were made of paper, if it were a card? The boy replied, "Yes." Hoy then asked if it had to do with school. The answer to that question was negative. Hoy asked if it were a card with writing, the answer to that, too was yes. Then he rapid succession: "It has names and numbers. There is a name in the upper left hand corner, the numbers are... and he said them quickly. The last number that he said was wrong, but it had recently been changed. The next to come up was a girl. She had with her a plastic contact lens case. It took him approximately twenty seconds to tell her what

Anna Marly to Perform Tonight

French performer Anna Marly will present a concert at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte at 8 P.M. tonight, in the Parquet Room of the University Union. Her appearance is sponsored by the Charlotte Chapter of the Alliance Francaise.

Miss Marly is a combination of a composer-author-singer and guitarist. She is recognized in Europe as a prominent song writer and performer and a connoisseur of French, Russian and Latin American popular singing art.

She sings in French, English, Italian, Spanish, Portuguese, Greek and Russian, accompanying herself on the guitar.

Her study has included singing with Professor de Daragan of the "Conservatoire de Paris" composition with Serge Prokofieff, music with Prince M. Mavrogordato and the art of the ballet with Julie Sedowa of the Imperial Theater of Russia.

During the war she wrote more than 20 songs for the Underground and her "Chant de la Liberation" became the official anthem of the Resistance and is included today in French textbooks.

Miss Marly has sung for many well known personalities including King Peter of Yugoslavia, Don Juan of Spain, Winston Churchill, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, and Field Marshall Montgomery.

She is the author of a book, "Chantex mes Souvenirs," of a film script, "The Way Home" and of 300 songs. The public is invited.

Sherry Drake Will Edit '69-'70 JOURNAL

In a recent Student Publications Board meeting the Board approved Miss Sherry Drake as the only candidate for editorship of Volume V of THE CAROLINA JOURNAL. The qualifications for this position, all of which were met by Miss Drake, areas follows:

1. previous experience on the newspaper staff throughout the semester immediately prior to the election.
2. a cumulative 2.0 quality point average (to be maintained during the tenure of office).
3. either junior or senior standing
4. absence of other burdensome obligations, specifically another major campus office.

A former feature editor in high school, Miss Drake has served as copy editor for THE JOURNAL this year and as campus life editor for the ROGUES 'N RASCALS. She has also been the Student Legislature representative to the Pub Board and has served as treasurer of that Board. As editor Miss Drake plans several changes in the format of THE JOURNAL, including a series of stories from students at other local institutions and seminars held by staff members of THE CHARLOTTE OBSERVER to improve the journalistic ability of the JOURNAL staff, which she intends to divide into sports staff, news staff, and features staff. She intends to renew the publication's contract with Mullen Publications. Mr. Rod White, a rising senior business administration major will be the business manager next year.

Miss Gayle Watts was elected to serve as the Publications Board's representative to the Student

Miss Drake

Activities Committee. Miss Watts is an elected representative from the student body at large who will serve the second year of her term next year. Another representative at large will be elected for a two year term in the upcoming student elections. All candidates must have a cumulative q.p. of at least 2.0 and be a rising junior.

In other business of the April fourteenth meeting the Board decided to delay election of an editor of the yearbook until next fall. Two candidates were discussed, but both were found deficient in one qualification or another. The election is to be held in August or early September.

Miss Eileen Auerbach brought up the possibility of the Board's paying the owed ad commissions for the literary magazine from the Board's standing account. No motion was made.

The editors of the respective publications were requested to attend a luncheon scheduled for the day before yesterday at which a committee was to select a winner of the Legette Blythe Award discussed the entries and made a final decision.

Plans for the handling of next year's financial accounts for the Board were discussed in detail, and the meeting was adjourned.
