-journal focus-

"When a president vetos urgently needed health, education, welfare measures, claiming a lack of funds, the time is here for a dramatic show of unanimity against this wasteful war."

page 2

VOLUME SIX

The Carolina Journal

SEPTEMBER 30, 1970

-editorial---

"...let's restore the Ivory Tower and the classical ed-ucation that has been the bedrock of our civilization.".

page 2

NUMBER 2

What did the VW say to the Valiant?

see page 2

photo by mike smith

Visitation bill passes

by charlie peek

Discussion was fast and furious at the first meeting of the legislature of this academic year on Wednesday, Sept. 23. Subjects ranging from Dormitory policy to Disruption policy were brought before the assembly.

Legislature was notified of Barbara Brenizer's resignation and plans were laid to elect another representative at a Senior Class meeting.

Sophomore representative Stan Patterson then introduced a resolution expressing displeasure over the visitation policy in the Sanford Hall and recommending that some modifications be made. Stating that having to call upstairs for a particular girl tended to further polarize the commuting students and the dorm students, Patterson suggested that UNCC students be asked only to show their I.D. cards at the desk to be allowed upstairs. Non-registered students would continue to follow the old policy. This would control unwanted visitors, invulnerable to school authority. Patterson also got a vote of confidence from Ed Wayson who contended that the present policy does not facilitate casual dating. The resolution was passed and sent to the administration for consideration.

Alan Hickok delivered a message from the Board of Trustees on the procedure of their hearing on the present Disruption Policy on Oct. 24. Chancellor Colvard has asked that nominations be made for student representatives to attend the hearings panel.

Three nominations are to be made by each class president along with his representatives, except for the freshman class. In addition, five people from the student body at large would be selected along with the other nine. The question of whether these nominees should be present at the next meeting was raised. Most members felt that they should be Present for questions and identification. Sophomore La Vera Farnsworth promptly suggested that the five selected at large should be required to attend. Upon Ed Wayson's request, the matter of procedure was referred to the Ways and Means Committee.

Student Legislature Bill no. 70-71-2 was rewritten by Mr. Hickok. This Ammendment provides for a reorganization of some standing student govern-ment executive committees. Under the proposal, the Finance Committee would be responsible for reviewing appropriations bills, the Judicial Committee would review the judicial bills, and the Rules Committee would undertake the responsibility of reviewing all other bills before presenting them to the floor. In the meantime, the (continued on page 3)

Frosh Poll Date Set

Balloting for freshmen will begin on Wednesday, Oct. 21 at 11:30. Polls will close on Wednesday at 3:00 p.m. On Thursday and Friday of the same week the polls will be open from 9:00 a.m.

until 3:00 p.m. in the cafeteria lobby.
In addition, dorm students can vote in the residence hall cafeteria from 11:15 a.m. to 1:15 p.m. on the same days. A separate computer list of dorm students will be shuttled between the two cafeterias to prevent anyone from voting more than once.

Freshman elections, to choose a president, vice president, and three representatives for the legislature, will be held Oct. 21, 22, and 23 both in the cafeteria lobby and in the residence hall

Nominations for these offices will be accepted Oct. 12 and 13 from 9:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m. in the main lobby of the University Center. Campaigning will continue from Oct. 19 through Oct. 23. Campaign speeches are scheduled to be held in the Parquet Room on Oct. 19 at

UNCC boasts growth Oct. 9

by peggy caldwell

We are growing--as wide as the vast one thousand acres where two hundred seventy-one administrators of knowledge strive daily to help broaden our four thousand anemic minds; as tall as that illustrious tower of tunes that forever watches over us and, once in a while, tells us the time; as quickly as the pea patch that almost conquered the residence halls.

The transformation of our institution from "Charlotte High School" to a booming University City is occurring before our eyes. We are very much aware of this development, we are growing with our school-and we are proud of it.

But with the enormity and rapidity of our expansion, we really have not yet taken time to be proud, to show off our campus, to dedicate our buildings. Our opportunity to boast approaches: Recognition Day and Open House will be held on Friday, October 9, and all of Mecklenburg County is invited to the celebration.

Mr. Ken Sanford, UNCC's Director of Information, serves as chairman of the committee which is preparing for the special day. The menu includes, for everyone, a visual and aural taste of UNCC and all the trimmings.

The biggest, most exciting happening of the day will be the Dedication Ceremony at 4:00 p.m., in the gymnasium. After a trumpet fanfare, Chancellor D.W. Colvard will preside as we dedicate Sanford and Moore Halls, Garinger and Denny Buildings, and Broadrick Boulevard, the street which goes around by the lake to the Administration Building.

Vice Chancellor Hugh McEniry will read a tribute to former governor Terry Sanford, who will not be able to attend the festivities. Attending the ceremony will be former governor Dan Moore, to whom a tribute will be paid by William Friday, President of the Consolidated University.

After a statement on "The Rewards of Public Service" by former governor Luther Hodges, Vice Chancellor Bonnie Cone will read a tribute to Miss Mary Denny, the first full-time professor at Charlotte College. Dr. William C. Self, Superintendent of Charlotte-Mecklenburg Schools, will pay tribute to Dr. Elmer Garinger, a former school superintendent who was closely associated with the development of Charlotte College.

Mr. Charles Crutchfield, First Vice-President of the Charlotte Chamber of Commerce, will pay tribute to Mr. George Broadrick, a former highway commissioner. Many road improvements were made around UNCC during Broadrick's administration.

First on the program for the day is a luncheon for the "Friends of the University," an organization of people who support the library and other University projects.

On the agenda for Friday evening are a reception, dinner, and dance for faculty members, administrators, and Patrons of Excellence, those persons who have contributed $10,000 or more to UNCC. At the North Carolina National Bank Awards Dinner, Dr. Addison H. Reese, Chairman of the Board of NCNB, will make the annual presentation of awards to this year's Teacher(s) of Excellence.

Beginning at 2:30 p.m., all campus buildings and grounds will be open to the public. UNCC students will serve as hosts and hostesses for the Open House. This will be the first time that the community will see the residence halls; certain rooms in Sanford and Moore Halls will be open for public visitation.

Recognition Day will provide the opportunity for many visitors to the campus to hear the Belk Carillon Tower for the first time. Dr. William Mathis, Chairman of the Division of Humanities, will present carillon concerts on Friday afternoon at 3:45, 5:15, and 6:45.

Dr. Colvard urges all students to invite their families to Recognition Day and to tour the campus with them. Trustees, local legislators, city and county officials, and other prominent friends of UNCC have been asked to attend. A cordial invitation is extended also to UNCC alumni, citizens of the community, and all other interested persons.

The week of October 5 will be a clean-up week for UNCC. All students are urged to cooperate with the maintenance employees to help make the campus look

Service held for McCasland

Memorial fund to be set up

Marlin Carroll McCasland, a former UNCC art major and president of the university's Art Society, died in an automobile accident Saturday evening, September 19, when his car veered off the road and struck a utility pole.

The unusual mishap occurred on Providence Road about 6:20 p.m. The car jumped the curb, walked the guy wire, struck the utility pole about 12 feet from the ground and flipped over. The cause of the accident has not been determined. McCasland was pronounced dead on arrival at Memorial Hospital.

Art instructor, Mr. R. Eric Anderson, said that Marlin, a fine student, had been very involved in his art and in the art department. In its second year of existence, the Art Society, owes much of its establishment to McCasland, who pioneered it.

The art department sponsored a memorial service on Sept. 23 in which Steve Hummer, a UNCC student presided. Other participants in the presentation were Cindy Blair, Loy H. Witherspoon, associate professor of religion; R. Eric Anderson, Bonnie Cone, Vice-Chancellor of Student Affairs, friends and others.

Tentative plans are underway to establish an emergency loan fund in memory of Marlin's death.