Linkers get underway

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte golf team will participate in ten dual and triangular meets during the 1971 season, according to the schedule released by UNCC athletic director Dr. Harvey F. Murphy.

The 49ers face a tough task, playing eight of their matches on the road, while having the home course advantage only twice. The two home matches are scheduled late in the season and will be held on the new Forest Pawtucket Golf Course.

"We don't have much depth," said 49er golf coach Floyd Kerr, "and will be counting on four boys to carry the load for us."

A bright spot for UNCC is the addition of Terry Mauney to the squad. Mauney finished second in the 1970 Charlotte City Amateur and placed seventh in the North Carolina Amateur tourney last year.

Other golfers expected to help carry the load for the 49ers are returning veteran Danny Randall, freshman Chuck Little and sophomore Steve Kiser.

RECRUITING IS NEXT

With the 49er basketball season complete Coach Bill Fosters efforts have turned to recruiting. After compiling a remarkable 15-8 record this season Foster will be looking for a big man to aid the rebounding of the somewhat small 49er roundballers.

Foster who says he was pleased but certainly not satisfied with season is looking at a number of good high school prospects. One of those prospects who is almost certain to become a 49er next season is a Union-Furnace Ohio boy named Dave Poling.

At 6-5 Poling would be a welcomed addition to the 49er yearlings both on and off the court. Poling who is a scholar as well as a top notch basketball player, would fit well into the 49er picture. And Poling isn't all that Foster has his eye on either, don't forget Charlotte Mecklenburg has produced some fine players this season and Foster isn't the type to over look his own backyard.

When next season does come around again the 49ers will face a much tougher schedule with the likes of Oklahoma, Mississippi, State and Tulane on tap there won't be much room for error.

DAVIDSON CHOKES AGAIN

After watching the Southern Conference Tournament last week end here are two observations. First many Charlottean's forgot that Davidson college is the world's greatest choking basketball team. After a 9-1 Southern conference mark and seated first in the tournament the Wildcats managed to remind the Charlotte fans that they still were the greatest chokers as they took the gas last Friday from the next power in the Southern league Furman.

Seated fifth in the tournament the Paladins under the direction of Joe Williams left no doubt who would be wearing the crown as they gave Davidson all they wanted in upsetting Terry Hollands Wildcats.

THE GREAT SILENCER

Joe Frazier proved that Cassius Clay would have been better off in the Army last Monday night.

Frazier who said he would win or else did just that as he hung a unrepresented silence on the Louisville Lip in the world greatest two man performance that Hollywood has ever produced. Look out for a rematch.

TENNIS IS COMING

Joe Kingery will coach the revamped 49er tennis effort as the UNCC Netters ease back into the event with ten or so matches. Don't look for much success but if I know Kingery they will win a few.
