A Funny Thing Happened While You Were Away

JNCC has embarked upon a construction project more extensive and complex than any seen since the early years of the school's development. Shown here are two segments of the project; the new multi-level parking deck behind the Cone University Center (above), and the classroom-office building located between Reese Administration Building and the Rowe Creative Arts Building. Also scheduled for construction are new apartment-style dormitories and a new bookstore facility. (Carolina Journal photos by Donna Stafford)
