

Student Activities Get Under Way

By JUDY GABLE

The Civitan Club at CC was established last year under the sponsorship of the Myers Park Civitan Club of Charlotte. Dr. Stewart Peery of the Myers Park Civitan is the director for the CC club.

The Collegiate Civitan Club provides social contact for young men while it promotes good citizenship and aims toward service to the college. All members of the club served with the Freshmen Advisory Committee during orientation.

Installation of officers was held last year at a banquet given by the Myers Park Civitan Club at the Stork Restaurant. Installed were John Cochran, president; Clinton Canady, vice-president; Reggie York, secretary; and Gordon Cormer, treasurer.

Bob Andrews, Larry Reynolds, and Harry Holden were elected as board of directors for this semester.

Writers' Club

The CC Writers' Club held its first meeting of the year on Sunday, Oct. 8, at the home of its faculty advisor, Miss Mary Fore.

To become eligible for membership a student must submit to the club a piece of his writing. Members are chosen by nomination and vote of the club.

The Parnassian, the annual literary magazine of the Writers' Club, is edited this year by Bob Andrews, also vice-president of the club. Any student may submit material for the Parnassian.

Officers this year, besides Andrews, are Leo Zoutewelle, president; Bill Ferguson, secretary-treasurer; and Carol Holden, business manager.

Chorus

The CC chorus meets every Friday at 2:30 p.m. and at 8:15 p.m. in liberal arts room 107. Harvey Woodruff is the director.

The Chorus combined with some alumni to sing at the Dedication of Charlotte College's new campus last Sunday.

Although a substantial number of students have joined the chorus, there is a need for more students who enjoy singing.

Mail Wanted For Prince

The following letter was received by The Charlotte Observer and released to The Collegian:

Sir:

I shall be very grateful if my name and address can be printed in your newspaper, pen pal column. I shall like to have pals all over the world of any sex. My hobbies are photography and poultry keeping. Thank you.

the student lounge Friday morning.

Students also are asked to state the reason for choosing the names that they suggest, if they suggest a new mascot.

Students also are asked to express their opinions regarding the CC colors. Students who wish to stick with maroon and gray are simply to drop their statements into the suggestion box. Students who wish a color change may suggest their preference.

Blazers Are Ordered For Students

Twenty-seven Charlotte College blazers will decorate the campus by Christmas. The dark blue sport jackets were recently ordered by students during a sale sponsored by the Student Council. The blazers are due to arrive in December.

The vest pocket of the blazer will feature the white, gold, and red crest of Charlotte College. A plain pocket will be included and an extra set of buttons, is also featured. Prices range from $22.45 to $25.45 for girls, and $30.45 to $35.45 for the boys' model.

Miss Mildred English, director of student personnel, said she was very pleased with the blazer sales, considering the short notice given the project. She also expressed her wish for the project to become a tradition in the college and said the sale of the blazers may be repeated early next year.

First Flag Is Dedicated At College

Judge Henderson, his wife and son, were the first official guests of the "new" Charlotte College.

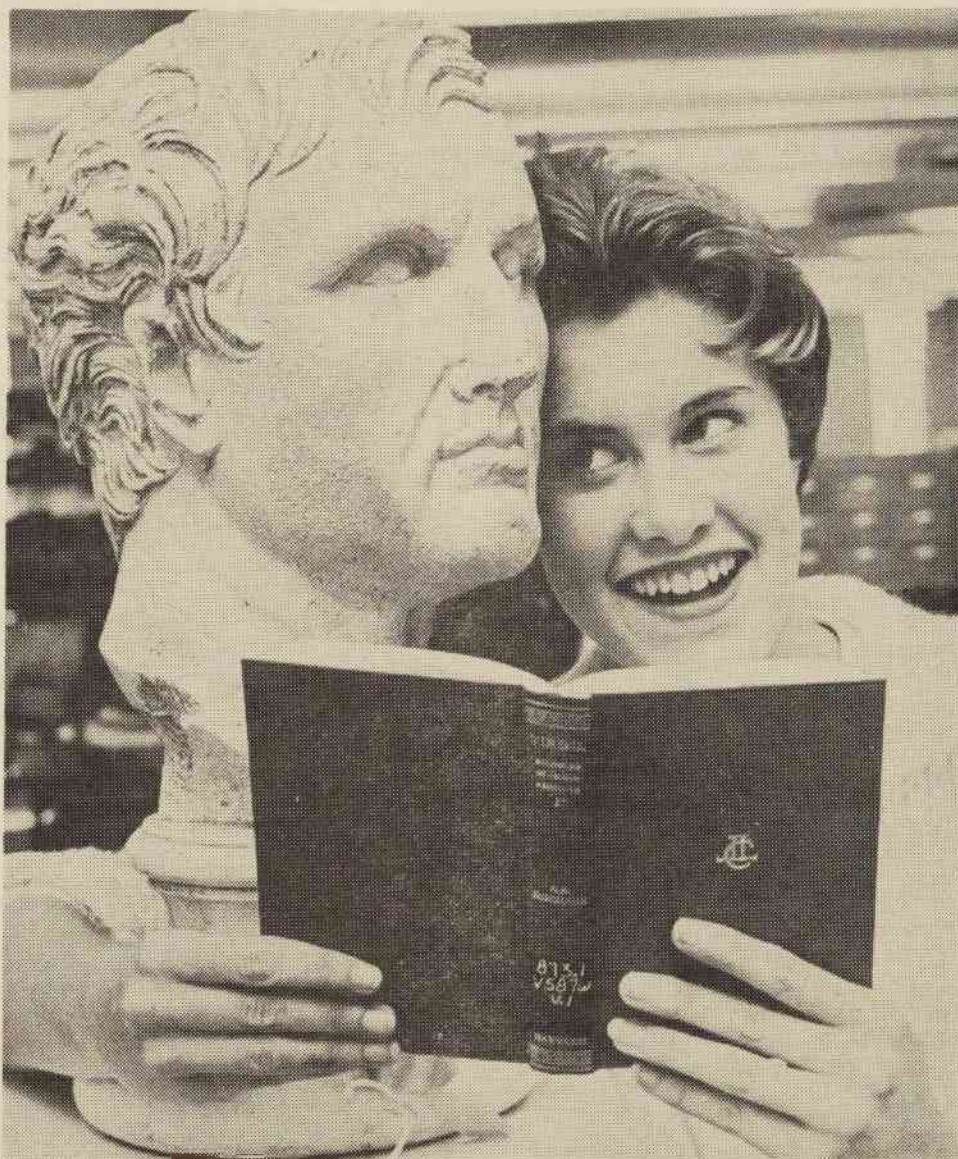

Dr. Bonnie E. Cone, president of the college, introduced Judge and Mrs. Henderson and their son, Charles, the guest speaker.

Before she introduced them, Dr. Cone said in her welcome, "We (Charlotte College) have community friends who have stuck close in our infancy and who will continue to stick with us."

In her closing remarks after Mr. Henderson's address, Dr. Cone said, "It is with pleasure that we accept this flag. Each day as we see this flag flying, may it remind us of our dedication to our country and our God."

Parks De Armon Hunter, education minister of First Methodist Church, gave the benediction.

Members of Myers Park High School band played the National Anthem while Bob Andrews and Robert Moore, CC students, raised "The Star Spangled Banner" to wave above the buildings situated on the historic soil of CC's new campus.

Gifts Add Beauty To College Campus

By GENE HORNE

With the addition of shrubbery, the landscaping, the planting of grass, Charlotte College is rapidly becoming more beautiful.

Several generous gifts received by the college supplement the appearance of the campus and aid academically.

Some of these gifts are:

A bust of Virgil, mounted in the library. This fine sculpture (the original in marble) is said to be the head of Virgil (70 B.C.-19 B.C.), Roman epic poet. It was given to the college by Dorothy and Leon Gutmann of Gutmann Galleries.

A five-by-nine-inch philodendron by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Michalls, 4425 Ogilukian Road. Dr. Herbert Hecklenbleikner, botanist, calls it "the prettiest philodendron in the city."

The Altrusa Club donated some citrus plants.

Two color television sets were received from the Jefferson Standard Broadcasting Company. They are to be used in electrical technology laboratories.

Dr. Paul Moser gave the college a two-wheel trailer for use on the grounds.

A Burroughs Bookkeeping Machine was given to us by C. W. Gilchrist of Charlotte Chemical Laboratories.

Sixteen Japanese holly plants were donated for the planters in front of the Science-Engineering building by Edgar Terrell, Sr.

A chalk painting of the new buildings, displayed in the Science building, was done by Ronald Greene, a sophomore, and donated to the school.
