You Must Register Your Car

Council Approves Traffic Proposal

The student council is erecting roadblocks against free-wheeling drivers at Charlotte College.

Beginning with the second semester, all cars will have to be registered.

And drivers must obey parking regulations.

The decision to put some rules into effect was reached at the October meeting of the student council. The council also established a traffic committee to publicize and enforce the rules.

Proposed rules are:

1. Student-parking in the rear of the Science-Engineering Building constitutes a violation.

(2) Parking in the bus lane by anyone will constitute a violation.

(3) Parking along the drive will constitute a violation.

(4) All cars will have to be registered at a time to be announced.

"Parking in the bus lane and faculty's parking area behind the Science-Engineering Building has posed the main problem," said Dr. Herbert Hechenbleikner, advisor to the traffic committee.

Registered cars will have a decal posted on the windshield.

Violations will result in fines. The probable fine schedule: $1 for the first violation. A similar amount for the next couple violations.

Traffic Committee Chairman Clinton Canaday said, "The fine may be stiffer. Students persisting in violating the rules—three or more times—probably will not be permitted to bring their cars on campus."

He added:

"The faculty has agreed to stand behind the committee by withholding the grades of a violator, if such an action becomes necessary.

"And, if necessary, suspension from school will be considered."

In a recent interview, Dr. Hechenbleikner said, "The situation has improved since the student council's decision. The committee hopes it will continue to improve so that fines will not be necessary."

Ronald Greene Donates Picture

Ronald Greene has donated a color chalk drawing of the Charlotte College campus to Dr. Bonnie E. Cone, president.

Ronnie is a nineteen year old sophomore who is also a star center on the basketball team. He has been drawing most of his life, but just recently began experimenting with chalk. He has had some art training in high school.

Christmas Dance Queen To Be Named Saturday

CONNIE MARLEY

MARY SADLER

FLO MORROW

Don't sound the trumpet now, but we have seven potential queens right here on the Charlotte College campus. And one of the seven will be crowned queen of the Christmas dance Saturday night, Dec. 16.

The seven candidates for the crown are: Barbara Blythe, Carol Holden, Brenda Long, Connie Marley, Linda Mayhew, Flo Morrow, and Mary Sadler.

They were chosen in a student body election on Dec. 4 and 5. The Social Committee will select from the seven candidates a queen.

The Christmas Dance, an annual event, will be held this year at Veteran's Center at 1019 E. Morehead St. from 9 p.m. until midnight.

Emcee Kapp Smith will introduce each of the seven candidates. They will form a semi-circle in front of the throne. Smith will then announce the Queen of the Christmas Dance. A bouquet of roses will be presented to her, and she will be escorted to the throne to be crowned. The queen will reign over the festivities of the evening with her six attendants.

The queen and attendants will be escorted to the stage by several "tall, handsome" boys. After the queen's coronation, the escorts will dance with their partners.

Music for the Christmas Dance will be provided by Neil Griffin and the Music Makers. Entertainment in honor of the queen will be provided by several Charlotte College students.

Refreshments will be served during intermission. There will be no admission charge. The dance is one of the items covered by the Student Activities Fee.

The Christmas Dance is being planned by the Social Committee, of which Flo Morrow is chairman. The committee has pointed out that no alcoholic beverages will be permitted at the dance.
