Gavin Discusses College Plans

Robert Gavin, the Republican gubernatorial nominee, visited the college campus Friday, October 9, at 10:00 A. m.

Mr. Gavin was previously invited for a meeting on September 22. He was unable to come at this time and was invited again for the above date.

The first thing on his agenda Friday morning was a meeting with Miss Cone from 10:00 to 10:30 at which time the two discussed the college and its future. Members of the Young Republican Club also attended the meeting.

After meeting with Miss Cone, Mr. Gavin spoke from 10:30 to 11:30 in room 206-209 in the College Union building, as requested by the Political Science department and the Young Republicans Club.

Three Democratic gubernatorial candidates, Bruce Burleson, Richardson Preyer, and Dan K. Moore came to the campus last spring.

Dr. Friday discusses the need for a fourth UNC campus.

Former librarian Dies

Miss Rosannah G. Blair, a former librarian of Charlotte College, died at her home on the morning of Friday, September 25. She was seventy-six years old and had suffered a long illness.

Her funeral was held Sunday, September 27, at Harry and Bryant Chapel on Providence Road. She was buried in her home town of Carlisle, Pennsylvania.

Miss Blair was graduated from Dickinson College and received a masters from Columbia University. She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church here and of the Cumberland County, Pa., chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Miss Blair served as librarian of Charlotte College from 1946, when she joined the staff while serving as librarian for Central High School, until her retirement in 1957. Under Miss Blair the C. C. library grew from nothing to 2,300 volumes. Dr. Bonnie Cone attributes our library's start to the tremendous job done by this determined librarian.

Collegian Editor

At the end of the spring semester the staff of the Charlotte Collegian elected Bob Andrews, a senior, to the position of Editor. At that time, Bob planned to take only nine hours the first semester in order to have time to adequately work on the newspaper.

This fall Bob learned that two courses that he needed in order to graduate were only being offered first semester and he was forced to take 16 hours first semester. In addition he works 30 hours a week in the language lab. Because of this extra work load Bob felt that he could not do justice to the job of editor of the Collegian therefore he resigned.

When she learned of this development, Susan Weber, last year's editor agreed to return as temporary editor until another person could be found to fill the post.

Bob Andrews will, however, continue on the Collegian staff in the capacity of associate-editor.

Friday Pushes

"The sky's the limit for Charlotte College. I don't believe anyone knowledgeable could deny that it must indeed become a campus of university status. There is informal agreement that this will happen in July, 1965."

Dr. William C. Archie, North Carolina Board of Higher Education director, was speaking to a group of more than 200 educators, legislators, business and civic leaders September 22 at Charlotte College's Library Auditorium in behalf of the school's bid to become UNC's fourth campus.

Other speakers included Charlotte College board chairman Addison H. Reese, and UNC president Dr. William C. Friday.

In support of Dr. Archie's statement, Mr. Reese reasoned that Charlotte College could become the fourth campus of UNC more efficiently and economically than could any other site in the state.

"In this institution, the state has an ideal answer to its needs. Because of our planning, we can become the fourth university campus more economically in terms of money—and that appeals to all of us—more economically in time and effort, and more efficiently in terms of education and service to the state than can any other college or facilities," he said.

Mr. Reese pointed out the College's library as an example of the capacity of Charlotte College to take on university status.

"Our library is planned so it can be expanded to meet university standards. We have the physical plant, the acreage for expansion, and the ideal location to serve the needs of the area."

Dr. Friday admitted the need for a fourth UNC campus but singled out several very important questions which first need affirmative answers.

—Will the General Assembly in 1965 support a fourth university campus?

—Would a campus located in this area contribute more to the social and cultural development of the state than one located somewhere else?

—Would a campus located in Charlotte offer more to the industry, commerce, and agriculture of the state than one located elsewhere?

The general purpose of the assemblage of dignitaries was to gain support for the university bid and explain exactly what must be done to achieve it. The proposal must:

—Receive the recommendations of a special advisory committee and the UNC trustees.

—Receive the approval of the N.C. State Board of Higher Education.

—Receive the approval and provision of necessary funds from the N.C. General Assembly when it opens its 1965 session in July. Dr. Archie pointed out the critical problem North Carolina faces in its huge population increase.

He brought out that an increase in the number of students by 42,000 is expected in the next three years and that accommodations for only about 11,000 of these are indicated in the expansion plans of private North Carolina colleges, leaving 31,000 prospective students without facilities.

"If the state doesn't provide for these 31,000 students, who will," he asked. "Somebody's got to get ready."

Cheerleaders Now Selected

In a toughly competed contest Thursday night, October 7, seven girls were chosen as Charlotte College's new cheerleaders. They are Pam Barrier, Laura Jeane Hinkle, Cheryl House, Georgia Morton, Shelia Jo Bos-tian, Jill Schaeffer, and Linda Twyman.

The girls were elected by the co-captains of the basketball team, Charlie Jacobs, and Butch Gilbert; President and Vice-President of the Student Government Association, John Scott and Gus Psomadakis; the President of the College, the Coach and the Chairman of Athletics. Because the three members of the group were unable to attend Mr. Mark Tinkham, Mr. L. Robert Grogan, and Miss Mildred English substituted for them.

All of the girls except Miss Barrier are members of the freshman class. Eighteen students competed for the title.

The seven new cheerleaders will meet Wednesday, October 7, to become acquainted and make plans for the coming year. They will soon elect the head-cheerleader and co-head-cheerleader.

Puppets To Dance In CC Auditorium

Some prefer to be the most expensive, some the largest, some the greatest! At one time or another, LLOYD'S "INTERNATIONAL", to appear here at Charlotte College on Friday, October 21, has been heralded as all of these. But marionettiste Daniel Llords, in the pioneering spirit of his American ancestors, prefers being the "first". For instance, this is the first American theatre ever to appear in not just one but in two international festivals of Europe and the first and only American marionette theatre successfully to tour in concert around-the-world. Jules Verne wrote the fantasy "Around the World in Eighty Days" Daniel Llords wrote history by traveling around the world on eighty thousand strings!

Llords' "International" is Folies Bergere, Royal Ballet, Radio City Music Hall and "Barnum &

Bailey in ermine and pearls" — puppets for adults!

Llords' "International" is a joyous and colorful art, a marionette ballet of spectacular proportions for the "adult mind and the mature appreciation" either in solo recital to especially edited tape recordings or as soloist with live symphony orchestras. Indeed, here is almost another "first": the reawakened interest of live symphony and marionettes in combined concert has been credited to the "Segovia of the puppet strings".

All of his training and experience has crystalized into an hilarious one-man Concert theatre full of ingenious sound and scenic fury which provides the perfect vehicle for Daniel Llords' many talents as singer, actor, musician, sculptor, engineer, playwright, choreographer, designer and director.
