THE REAL ISSUE.

It is estimated that in the United States there are 20,000,000 laborers, and of this number 1,500,000 are employed in manufactures, mines, &c., that are protected by the present tariff system.

The great Republican party, once admired for its unity of action and the boldness of its leaders, has lost its prestige.

Many Republican voters will read with shame the reports of the great National Convention at Chicago. Personal assaults, vituperation and abuse of one another look more fit for barroom bullies than for the leaders of the party.

The continued increase in population by immigration and otherwise, as a natural result, brings a greater demand for work by bread earners, and this demand is taken advantage of by the employer, who accordingly pockets the per cent. tariff rate—not from foreign consumers—but from those at home, while at the same time he pays American architects, builders, masons and carpenters, the same he does foreign pauper emigrants for building his palatial homes.

The Durham Tobacco Plant is right. It is the Republican party who has drawn the color line. Two thirds of the party at least are of that race and not one of them on the State ticket.

A bill has passed the House of Representatives appropriating $75,000 to erect a public building at Statesville, N. C.

Michigan lumber men increase the price of corn, potatoes, chickens or eggs, or the amount of his day's wages. Does not the demand regulate the price? And in his purchases does not this protection increase the price of his plow shares, trace-chains, nails, lumber, winter clothing, and in fact every protected necessity he uses?

THE REPUBLICAN NOMINEES.

After a week's lobbying, caucusing and balloting, the Republican Convention at Chicago has brought forth a Presidential candidate, General Benjamin Harrison, of Indiana, a lawyer of some note in his own State and once a member of the United States Congress.

"If two American citizens were for instance to contribute $25,000 each for the purpose of establishing here a new industry, the Republican party on this platform would demand that every man or woman in the United States who desired the products of such an industry should pay a tax, in addition to what the foreign product could be purchased for, sufficiently large not only to enable these two manufacturers to establish their enterprise, but to obtain heavy profits from it.

The great Republican party, once admired for its unity of action and the boldness of its leaders, has lost its prestige. The successors of Lincoln, Grant, Morton and Stephens, have failed to handle party affairs with the astuteness and ability of their predecessors.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND Formerly Notified of His Nomination by Acclamation.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 26.—The notification committee appointed to give to President Cleveland a formal notice of his nomination as President of the United States, accompanied by the members of the national committee, called at the executive mansion at 2 o'clock this afternoon and were ushered into the east room.

Chairman Collins, of the notification committee, advanced a few steps forward, and in an earnest speech said: "Mr. Cleveland: We come as a committee, authorized and instructed by the National Democratic convention recently held in St. Louis, to convey a formal notice of its action in naming you for the office of President of the United States during the next four years.

Hon. Mr. Jacob, chairman of the Notification committee, then advanced. His delivery was graceful. He said: "To the Honorable Grover Cleveland, of New York: Sir: The delegates to the National Democratic convention, representing every State and territory of our union have assembled in the City of St. Louis, on June 5th inst., for the purpose of nominating candidates for the offices of President and Vice-President of the United States.

Mr. Thomas Pettit, Secretary of the committee, then handed the President a handsomely engrossed copy of the platform upon which he was nominated. The President bowed his acknowledgments. Standing erect with head thrown back with but few gestures, but with an earnestness that was impressive and an enunciation that was deliberate and clear, he replied.

"I can not but be profoundly impressed when I see about me the messengers of the National Democracy, bearing its summons to duty. The political party to which I owe allegiance, both honors and commands me. It places in my hand its proud standard and bids me bear it high at the front in a battle which it wages bravely, because conscious of right, confidently, because its trust is in the people, and soberly because it comprehends the obligations which success imposes.

to say to you and through you to the democracy of the nation, that I accept the nomination with which they have honored me, and that I will in due time signify such acceptance in the usual formal manner. The members of the committee were then introduced to the President. After a few moments spent in pleasant conversation the committee was invited to lunch in the private dining room, where Mrs. Cleveland presided with becoming grace.

Facts are stubborn. The soberest judgment of the sturdy citizens of North Carolina demand facts in their reasoning. We have neither seen nor read of a people so little inclined to turn away from the argument of facts as the people of our State. Hence in analyzing the work of Democratic rule in the State as to the matter of education some facts appear in the surface which will not be disregarded.
