Plant Peas after Oats.

Clarendon Enterprise.]

Oats, one of our best and most important crops, and will be ready to cut now soon, and a great deal of land will be left with nothing upon it. One of the best things to do with this land is to sow it down immediately in peas. Peas are undoubtably one of the greatest crops to all other preparations. It is a expressingly expresses it, "I have unbounded respect for peas."

Nature teaches that when a piece of land has been planted in one crop for several years it will degenerate that will last several generations. in value. Some crops extract more of The New Singer V. S. one substance from land than some other would do, and it is a known fact that oats will do more towards chines in all sections convenient to sapping a piece of land of its fertility in a few years than any other Don't buy until you have seen the crop that could be planted there.

Oats seem to combine more of the Coats seem to coats seem t substances taken from the land than any other crop, and will do more towards making it poor, while on the other hand peas seem to do more towards restoring the qualities taken is vine, and thus returned to the indorse and prescribe it. land is not the only good use to his oats, ought to sow down the land than any other crop that can be M. J planted, and will grow almost anywhere. A piece of land is poor indeed when it will not make a proverbial cow pea, and a piece of land is poor indeed, if after two successive years being planted in the proverbial cow pea, it will not be made a richer piece of land.

Bill Arp says he planted five acres of peas every year, and Bill Arp is a sensible man, or at least he has a big reputation that way. In our opinion peas make a fertilizer that is better dations for drovers. Leave your than guano, and costs about one orders at the stable or with J. L. stance, take two acres of land and on one put four hundred pounds of on one put four hundred pounds of guano, which is a fair manuring, and which will cost not less than seven NOTICE dollars; on the other acre broadcast suitable for that season of the year, and see which will produce the best erop. But this is not all of the advantage. It will be seen that the manuring from the peas-will last longer than the guano, and the crop on the acre fertilized with peas will stand a drought remarkably well, most burning up for want of rain. sons having claims against said We believe every farmer who has We believe every farmer who has had experience in fertilizing his lands with peas will admit this to be so, and if he has had no experience in such fertilizing we advise him to try it at once, as it is one of the try it at once, as it is one of the important things to be learned be- SALE & TOWN LOT fore he is going to do anything much at farming. A large acreage of peas broadcast this spring will on the 11th day of November, 1886, and be a good indication of a better crop next year, and we hope farmers will consider our suggestion enough to try it one time anyhow, and then we are satisfied they will do so again. ----

How to Make Farming Pay.

A. J. Jones, Columbus, Ky. "Does farming pay?" I emphat ically say it does. I was born and raised in a city, learned a useful trade and always commanded the my 24-4w highest wages; can now leave the NOTICE! farm and get steady employment at $3.00 per day, but that does not at $3.00 per day, but that does not pay near so well as the farm. To make farming pay it requires as close attention in every detail of the businessend, dec'd, I do hereby notify all persons holding claims against said attention in every detail of the business as is necessary in any branch of merchandise, and it must be strictly said deceased to present them for payment and all who are indebted to merchandise, and it must be strictly borne in mind that all food ;supplies settle at once.

J. B. FURR, Adm'r. for the family and stock as far as possible must be raised at home, and, too, it must be considered, that it is not what is consumed at home, but the surplus that is sold, and don't be ashamed to sell anything from an egg up, and don't think the amount too small to take care of, and you will soon see that farming pays and have a snug amount of cash in hand.
