TOWN AND COUNTY.

"THERE'S A CHIEF AMONG YE TAKIN NOTES AND FAITH HE'LL PRENT THEM."

SHORT LOCALS.

Concord needs a Y. M. C. A. - Why don't somebody get married? - M. J. Freeman's house is nearly completed. - The STANDARD and the Atlanta Constitution for $1.90. - A big lot of cotton from Stanly Wednesday. - A second supply of garden seed is now being bought. The freeze got the first. - Corn is being shipped here. G. W. Patterson received a car load a few days ago. - Even some of the women have tops. The little boy ought to feel proud of his influence. - They say Asheville is so full of Northern visitors, they had to telegraph to others coming to hold up. - Several stores closed during the morning and night services of the Five meetings. Why not all close and take your customers along? - Bishop W. W. Dunnean, of Spartanburg, S. C., will dedicate the new Methodist church at Forest Hill on the 1st Sunday in April. - We learn that Dr. Bingham is making many improvements on the Flannigan place which he recently purchased, and is now living upon. - Yesterday was a good day for bears. There were two in town at the same time. It was amusing to see the dogs. They would hide behind the corner of a house and bark courageously. - Monroe Linker has built a handsome house in No. 10, and is now having it nicely painted. Nothing so helps out the appearance of a community as good houses, nicely painted. It is a good sign of prosperity, too. - Miss Essie Fisher, a graduate of Lutherville, Md., Seminary, closed a six months school at Trinity church in No. 4, on the 4th. In this connection we have some facts about this district furnished us, that we wish to publish at an early day. - As a through freight was going into Pineville Tuesday night, a part of the train broke loose on a long down grade; the foremost part having "slowed up" at the station the hindmost section came thundering in behind, and the result was the wreck of fifteen box cars, with merchandise scattered to the winds. - The time for the weekly drill of Cabarrus Black Boys has been changed from Monday night to Friday night. This is permanent and the monthly inspection will hereafter take place on the first Friday night of each month instead of the first Monday night as heretofore. - W. J. Swink's ad came in too late to be changed this week, but here's what it was about: He has an illustrated history of the Johnstown Flood with price reduced from $2.50 to $1.00. He has a fine lot of $2 flour, and onion sets. He will sell you 5 good cigars for 10 cents, and a pound of smoking tobacco for 25 cents. - Mr. P. B. Fetzler, of this place, has bought the entire stock of clothing and gent's furnishing goods of the firm of Fetzler & Pharr, of Atlanta and will continue the business in that city. The establishment will be under the management of Mr. Thos. J. Fetzler, the retiring firm. We wish Mr. Fetzler much success in his undertaking. - Mrs. Dr. J. E. McEachern died yesterday morning at 2:30 p. m., at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. M. Brown. Mrs. McEachern had been sick for some time, and her death was not a surprise. She was a member of St. John's Lutheran church, and her remains will be buried there today. She was sister of Capt. Jake Fisher, of Rowan. - There is some talk of postponing the great quadri-centennial fair for 1893, as it is said there will not be time to prepare for it. The time will be short, but it would never do to postpone it. If they do, they would better wait for the next centennial. To have it in 1893 would be like celebrating Washington's birthday on the 21st because the 22nd was on Saturday, as the schools did. - A special meeting of the executive committee of the Fair Association is called to meet here tomorrow. They are beginning in time and hope to make the fair this fall surpass all previous exhibitions. We would suggest that they decide and publish as soon as possible several special premiums on crops and vegetables that our farmers may know and make necessary preparations. - The lecture of Clement Ambrose the distinguished temperance lecturer on the "Sham Family," tonight at the court house, promises to be rich, rare and racy. The proceeds of the lecture are to be devoted to the W. C. T. U., and it is due to this faithful band, as well as to lecturer, that Concord turn out well to hear him. The admission will be twenty-five cents. - Messrs J. L. Stafford and A. F. Hileman, after an official visit to the poor house, report every thing in excellent condition and speak in the highest terms of Charlie Sherwood's successful management. There are now 20 inmates, of whom, strange to say, only 4 are negroes. The average cost per month is less than $7 a head, having been gradually reduced from $9 four years ago. The farm is said to be a model one. - Four "coons" were arrested and tried before Esq. J. M. Caldwell, of Poplar Tent, Friday night for stealing bacon from A. M. Fox. One of them turning State's evidence, the others were convicted and bound over to court. Not being able to give bond, they were committed to jail, except one, who managed to escape. Their names were Dick and Henry Morris, Jim Walls and Lacy Campbell. Jim got away.

See the ad "Lost!" and get the reward. - For pigs, horses and mules, see what M. J. Corli has to say. - Capt. Noah Blackwelder, of N. 4, is still confined to his bed. - D. B. Coltrane was too sick to come to the bank on Wednesday. - No. 8 township is well up on plowing this season. The Dutch! - See Sheriff Propst' "Last Call" to delinquents. He means business. - D. R. Littles, of Western Cabarrus was married last week to Miss Williams, of Burke county. - A friend from Enochville sends us the following: Mrs. J. N. Plaster is quite ill with consumption. - Patterson, of the large wholesale and retail establishment, gives you a new ad this week. You will find there the best grades of meal, flour, corn, etc. - Several days ago a man hauled as small load of cotton seed to town. He came from Stanly county, just 24 miles from town; his seed realized him $1.90. - We are sorry to learn of the serious illness of Capt. J. M. W. Alexander's son, Kemp, about thirteen years of age. He has pneumonia and whooping cough. - One of the best of Cabarrus's level headed farmers, alluding to the hard times, told us a few days ago that he would have to borrow money this year to run on, and this on a fine plantation upon which he has cleared as high as $1,000 a year. - The Southern Farm, founded by the late H. W. Grady, is brim full of good things for March. Thoughts for the month by Dr. Jones is exactly what is needed. Among other good things in it is a letter from Bill Arp, the Georgia philosopher. - Jno. Pethel, of western Cabarrus, died a few days ago and left five small children under fourteen years of age. His wife died a short time previous. The two older ones being boys will probably be taken by their neighbors. Arrangements are being made to place the other three in the Oxford Orphan Asylum. - Concord was treated to several fine sermons last Sunday. Rev. Mr. Page's sermon on the "Christian Weapon," the Bible, is very highly spoken of, as was also his sermon at night. Rev. Mr. Payne's sermon Sunday morning showing that conscience is not an infallible guide was a fine effort. The argument was direct and conclusive. - H. McNamar lost a half inch of his finger last week. He was holding the drill for some one, while drilling into a rock for gold, and carelessly looked aside and the darke's hammer missed the drill but didn't miss the finger. Mr. McNamar wanted some one to cut off the mangled part, but as no one was willing to do it, he coolly took out his knife and cut it off himself. - J. M. Klutz who has been spending a couple of months visiting his parents and friends in this county, left for his adopted home, Como, Colo., Monday. He says he will not visit nine years before he visits us again. Our town and county grows so rapidly it takes him too long to make our acquaintance again. J. R. Klutz, his cousin, goes with him. - We received this week from B. E. Parish, one of THE STANDARD's subscribers in Washington city, a copy of the Washington Evening Star, from which we learn that the street car line with which he is connected is to be changed from a horse line to a cable line. The cable by which the whole system will be run is an inch and a half in diameter, of steel wire, is seven miles in length and weighs 40 tons, and will be run by a 600 horse power engine. - The Concord STANDARD says Cabarrus has the handsomest Court house in the State. If the editor of the Standard will come to Monroe and take a view of our Courthouse and will not then admit that Union has a much handsomer Courthouse than Cabarrus, we will agree to pay his expenses, comin' and goin'. - Monroe Enquirer & Express. [We do not wish to cause you any financial embarrassment, either, so we will quietly pass your banter by.] - We were shown this week two interesting coins, now in the possession of J. W. Moose, of Forest Hill. One was a silver dollar of 1803 with the face of the figure looking to the right. There were on one side and the rim thirteen stars, thirty-nine in all. On the rim was One Dollar, or Unit, United States. The other was a Spanish dollar of 1791 that had been carried in the pocket with knife and other things for eight years, and was worn quite smooth. - How to GET THE STANDARD Cheap. Recognizing the fact that every intelligent man wants to take his home paper, and most probably one other good paper besides, we have made some good clubbing arrangements with several excellent papers. Do you want a good farm journal? For $1.40 you can get THE STANDARD and the Home and Farm, the price of which is 50 cents. In this way THE STANDARD will cost you only 90 cents. For $1.80 you can get this paper and the Atlanta Constitution, the best and greatest weekly in the South, the price of which is $1.00. You get THE STANDARD then for only 80 cents. Isn't that cheap enough? Are you an Alliance man and do you want the highest weekly authority on questions of political economy, and governmental finance? Send us $1.75 and get THE STANDARD, and the National Economist, the price of which is $1.00. THE STANDARD then will cost you only 75 cents. Could you ask better terms?

People You Know. - Jones Yorke was here this week. - Johnnie Erwin was in town Tuesday. - Miss Ada Rogers is visiting in Charlotte. - Mark Morrison has returned from Mecklenburg. - Thomas A. Edison is registered at the St. Cloud. - Mrs. Addie White is visiting in Charlotte. - P. B. Fetzler returned from Atlanta Monday night. - Dr. W. C. Houston, of Monroe, was here this week. - Dr. C. A. Misenheimer, of Charlotte, was in town Wednesday. - Miss Carrie White, of Charlotte, is visiting her sister, Mrs. G. M. Lore. - Mrs. Trice and children, of Lexington are visiting her father, Sheriff Propst. - Mr. B. F. Woodell, of Raleigh, was here Monday in the interest of I. O. O. F. - Judge Montgomery, Dr. H. C. Herring and Horace Freeman were in Charlotte Tuesday. - Mr. and Mrs. Fife arrived Tuesday on the noon train, and are stopping at the St. Cloud. - W. A. Elliott, of Charlotte, passed through Thursday, on a visit to his old home at Mt. Pleasant. - William Downum, of Rock Hill, S. C. was here Wednesday. He was formerly of this county. - J. N. Shew, of Wilmington, Del., is now here in the employ of the Concord Electric Light Company. - Thos. S. Fetzler, of Atlanta, was here this week. He left Wednesday evening in company with Mr. P. B. Fetzler, for New York. - Annie was laid up from Friday to Tuesday. Her attack must have been quite a serious one. It is said that she had a bad case of the grip. Her temperature fell, and she remained deathly cold during the attack. Her pulse was gone, and her breathing could not be heard or distinguished. The disease yielded to skillful treatment and her streets are again enlivened by her genial, rollicking, and somewhat boisterous presence. We learn from little Jerry, Capt. Ed. Hall's little boy (good authority you see) that his father gave her some pills, and that during her illness she slept in the "baggage" coach. - Mr. Woodell's Visit. - Mr. B. H. Woodell, Grand Secretary of I. O. O. F. of North Carolina gave our town a visit this week, looking after the interest of the order. He was very kindly treated and welcomed to our city. He, with a few friends during the short stay that he was with us, succeeded in getting seventeen charter members, three of these are old members and fourteen are new applicants, and there are others who will aid in the establishment of this excellent order. This we look upon as a bright prospect for the future of the order in this place. Mr. Woodell assures us that Mr. J. G. Brown, Grand Master of the State, will be here to organize the Order sometime during the latter part of this month. We will be glad to welcome him to Concord, and wish him success in establishing here an order that is doing so much over the world to elevate and ennoble mankind. - A Curiosity Shop. - A boy's pocket is a veritable curiosity shop. Some gentlemen were talking in front of Dr. Johnston's drug store a few days since, and having seen in a newspaper the contents of a boy's pocket enumerated, concluded to test the matter for themselves. They stopped a little negro, and persuaded him to show them what he had in his pockets. After convincing him they were in good faith and not in search of stolen property, the little nig shelled out, and here is the true inventory as taken down by one of the gentlemen: 1 tobacco bag, 5 top cords, 2 pieces dried beef, 1 rock from a gold mine, 1 top, 1 corn cob, 3 screws, 1 slate pencil, 1 dozen dried blackberries, 2 nails, 1 piece tobacco, 1 cracker, 1 smooth stone, 1 piece of pewter, three nickles, and one money bag; 37 articles in all. - Nussman Items. - Snow on the 2nd. - Heavy frosts on the 3rd and 4th. - The peach blooms are frost "bit". - The school at this place is in a flourishing condition. - Some of our farmers are talking of planting corn in a few days. - The recent rains and cold weather have done a great deal of damage to the flies, lice, and other insects. - On last Thursday, the 27th, Mr. Henry Lentz and Miss Maggie Ary were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. We wish them success and happiness. - We return thanks to our good friend Mr. H. M. Isenhour for the accommodation of going to town and getting a barrel of sugar and dividing it out amongst his neighbors for less than 6 cents per pound.

Poplar Tent's Choice. - POPULAR TENT, Feb. 28, '90. EDITORS STANDARD:—Knowing that you are even willing and anxious to bring about an improved state of affairs, I ask that you give space in your valuable paper to the name of Syd B. Alexander, as Poplar Tent's choice for our Representative in the next Congress. "There is something rotten in the State of Denmark" and we want Capt. Alexander to help our Vance to put some disinfectant on it. I see it stated that the National Banks, with a capital of $612,000,000 cleared last year $282,000,000, a little over 40 per cent, and the farmers paid it. Every system that enables a set of men to live in idleness is vicious. Our financial system is the greatest invention of the devil for compelling workmen to feed a class of lazy aristocrats through usury. The Farmer's Alliance and Industrial Union has furnished a platform for us. Let us stick square to the issue. With such men as Syd Alexander in our Legislative halls we can get a fair showing. KENO. - Proceedings of the County Commissioners. - At the meeting of the Commissioners Monday, a full board was present, though the presence of the late H. A. Blackwelder was sadly missed. The following is the more important business transacted: - A. F. Hileman and J. L. Stafford were appointed a committee to visit the poor house, and report on the condition of the same. - It was ordered that Miss Elizabeth Freeman be sent to the poor house as a pauper. - Several persons were allowed to make returns and pay single tax. - It was ordered that appropriate resolutions of respect to the memory of the late H. A. Blackwelder be prepared, and that a page in the minutes be inscribed to his memory. - The following jurors were summoned for the spring term of the Superior Court to be convened April 28th. - L. McKee Morrison, D. M. Cress, W. B. Dewese, G. K. Troutman, Luther M. Barringer, Geo. W. Gorman, J. L. Stafford, Wm. S. White, J. F. Goodson, C. M. Alexander, H. M. Goodman, J. R. L. Hill, Luther M. Best, Geo. W. Brown, M. L. Furr, N. T. Blackwelder, Jas. McEachern, A. J. Blackwelder, Robert Rose, W. L. Bell, T. L. Best, D. H. Ridenhour, Jos. P. Biggers, Jno. W. Day-vault, W. R. Kindley, Elam King, K. L. Craven, Wm. G. Barringer, G. G. Riemmond, A. H. Propst, K. Will Johnston, D. F. Barrier, A. M. Freeze, Jno. M. Hendrix, Jno. M. Eagle. - About Rev. Campbell's Discourse. - The synopsis of Rev. Campbell's sermon, being rather long for the crowded condition of our columns, a STANDARD reporter interviewed him concerning the sermon preached in the Lutheran church on Feb. 23rd, on the subject of Hell. - In answer to the question, "I suppose you know that your sermon on Hell has occasioned a great deal of discussion?" Mr. Campbell said, "Yes, and it is very gratifying to me to see so good a result accomplished. There is nothing so helpful to a right understanding of any subject as a free interchange of ideas. All that truth asks is a fair hearing and a free investigation. The only enemies she fears are silence and darkness. This is as true of Scripture as any other. The Bible challenges investigation of everything that claims belief. 'Prove all things, hold fast that which is good,' is its motto." - "I suppose you are also aware that it has been the subject of adverse criticism, as well as of favorable comment?" "That was expected. No sensible man expects to have everybody understand him, even in the plainest and simplest statements, much less in matters that require the exercise of thought for their right comprehension. Neither does he expect all who understand him to agree with him. Allowances have to be made for the effect of previous teaching, for prejudices and biases of many kinds, and for the time it takes old ideas to yield to new truths. The popular idea of hell is so erroneous that no minister can expect to preach what the leaders of modern Christian thought believe on that subject without saying a great many things that are new and startling to many of his hearers. The question is not, what is generally believed on any subject, but, what is the Truth? that is the question every minister tries to answer to himself and his people. But, so far as my experience goes, my views on the subject of hell are in accord with those held by the great majority of ministers in all churches and by all laymen that have taken the trouble to inform themselves about it." - "Do the people, generally, believe in the existence of a hell of fire and brimstone?" - "They can hardly be said to have any beliefs upon the subject. We have beliefs only on subjects upon which we have thought and which we have investigated. On all others we have merely opinions. I suppose there is a large number holding the opinion you mention, and the reason is obvious. The scripture language descriptive of hell literally interpreted would prove the existence of such a place beyond the possibility of a doubt. It is because of an inability to see the truth signified under the forceful language of the Bible that they fail to understand the awful significance of hell." - "You hold, then, that there is something in the hereafter that corresponds to the figurative language of the Bible on this subject?" - "Undoubtedly. There is a hell. God testifies to its existence, not only in the Bible but on every page of nature. No man who knows any of the first principles of natural law doubts for a moment the existence of a hell that exceeds the description as far as heaven surpasses the pictures given in Revelation of it. I do not believe in a place prepared for the torture of the wicked or a hell for the satisfaction of divine vengeance. On the contrary I believe that every point in infinite space is hell to a bad man, just as I believe that the whole universe of God is heaven to the man who loves him. What a man sows he reaps. This is natural law, here and hereafter. If he sows to the flesh he reaps corruption. If he sows to the spirit he reaps life everlasting. Heaven and hell are as legitimate consequences as health and disease." - "Why do people cling so tenaciously to the popular idea?" - "It is perfectly natural they should. They were taught in that way in childhood when they could understand only in pictured language, and they have never taken the trouble to inquire what the picture means, now that they have become men." - "Will these views become current among the people?" - "Certainly. The progress of truth is irresistible. In ten years you will find the people informed upon all the live questions of the day. You have seen progress in your experience, and it is going on at a rate which rejoices the hearts of those who love their fellow men and wish to see them free. The great Saviour of men says: "Ye shall know the Truth and the Truth shall make you free." It is for those who see the truth to be patient and forbearing, to exercise toleration even to the intolerant, and to let charity rule in their judgment of their fellowmen." - Let Them Come. - For two months there has been amongst us a gentleman, Mr. B. F. Scott, of Monongahela City, Penn., spying out a good plantation and at the same time with an eye to gold mining. Mr. Scott is from the coal and oil regions of Pennsylvania, and is a man of means to do what he undertakes. He has visited several sections of our county and is much pleased with both people and land, and has leased 200 acres of that most desirable and valuable tract of land in this county, known as the Wm. S. Harris land, lying on the east side of Rocky River, in township No. 2, two miles west of Poplar Tent church. This tract of land is valuable for tillage and on it is a rich gold vein, which Mr. Scott expects to open and develop. No farm is situated in a better section of our county, a section settled by the Scotch-Irish people, who are intelligent and industrious, and attend to their own business. No better people are to be found in North Carolina. We welcome such men as Mr. B. F. Scott among us, and hope he may realize his expectations as to a rich gold mine. Rocky River is a never failing stream, with water power enough to run a limited amount of machinery, while there are other streams near this tract of land to make it desirable property, both as a farm and a gold mine. Cabarrus county, North Carolina is in one of the richest gold belts of the State, a vein running under the main streets of Concord, and now being profitably worked on both sides of the street on the outskirts of town. The noted Phenix mine, seven miles from town has a shaft 400 feet deep and is paying well. No persons of intelligence living here doubt that our land is underlaid with the precious metal. We will be glad to welcome all such men as Mr. B. F. Scott, of Pennsylvania among us. J. W. M.

last week by a negro which weighed 740 dwts. The darkey received one half of the proceeds. - La grippe has seized our town with a vengeance. Some barely escaped death. Some three or four lingering cases yet. - Mining interests of this county are waking up. Mr. Jones, proprietor of the Hearne and Hatcock mine near here, with his son, were in the village a few days ago. He will place new machinery there in a few days. Mr. J. Hardesty, the superintendent of same has shown extra fine specimens and reports the find to be good. - W. H. Marks is fast placing down his machinery for a grist mill in connection with his saw, cotton gin, etc. B. - Hotel Arrivals. - The following are the arrivals at the St. Cloud Hotel for the week ending March 7th, 1890.
