Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 21-It is now 11 o'clock p. m., and as I sit in the Staunton House parlor the scene of two days' crowd upon my mind and call for expression, but words are wanting.

Here we found Lookout Mountain Hotel to be a gigantic affair, thoroughly equipped and ready to care for 600 guests. It was 3 o'clock and we enjoyed keenly our cold lunch, which means all you can eat of a good unpretentious meal.

Chattanooga, viewed from our standpoint, 1,580 feet above, lost all its grandeur. Its towering, massive buildings, its spires that seemed shooting into the regions of the stars, its smoking furnaces and shops, its solid streets and pavements and its bustling bay, people seem as but a little patch where children had been playing in the sand and had made their little roads and play houses.

Here we stood on Point Lookout and admired the Tennessee in its serpentine course as it winds down the great valley. Surely there is none just like it. No boats, however, are on it now, as the water is low.

On a west-side table rock we liggered as the sun dipped down in humid air and sank beneath the mountains. We held our watches and found that it took the mountain crest just two and one-fourth minutes to spread over all the sun's disk. Then we implored the muses to help us word the beauties and tell our triumphant sensations at that sunset. There were tents that we had not observed before and heaven's canopy seemed decorated with new designs. Again we wended our way back to our hotel but passed by to the east and found yet another danger spot where we saw and viewed the feeble sparks as they popped out and lighted the city and her suburbs. Then again we saw that Chattanooga has come to grow, it is but an eagle's nest with wide borders.

LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN. Chattanooga and Surroundings as Viewed by the Standard's Editor. Nashville, Tenn., September 23-We have read of Lookout Mountain and have heard of it but Tuesday morning, as we come out of our hotel to meet the group of press people that came on schedule time, while the morning sky was still sticky, a light breeze upon our view that we were not prepared for. We knew that we had seen but a part of the world's mountain wonders, but we had never conceived of Lookout Mountain as it is. Standing in the heart of Chattanooga you seem to be right at Lookout, save that it is almost over you. You look to the right and Harcoon Mountain seems to shut you in

KILLED FIFTY-ONE.

Frank Ratcliff, a Negro, Beheaded the Chief of Police to Arrest Him and Put Him Away. Wednesday night about 9 o'clock, a well-dressed mulatto country negro was parading the streets of the city looking for Chief of Police Boger, and when the gentleman was found the drunken negro told the officer that he had come to town and sold his cotton, and that he had taken several drinks of whiskey and it made him drunk. He begged the chief to spirit him away and get him off the streets.

He told the chief that his name was Frank Ratcliff, and that he lives on Mr. Ephraim Tucker's place in No. 9 township. Ratcliff was locked up in the county jail until this morning when he was taken out and given his freedom, after paying a small fine. He claimed that he knew nothing of what had taken place the night before. He came to this county from Virginia about four years ago, and said that he had not been drunk in two years.

THE CHINA GROVE SCHOOL. Will Open January 1st-The Plans. Dr. A. J. Crowley, of China Grove, who was in the city yesterday, gave us some of the points about the proposed school building to be erected at the Grove.

One of the best educators in the State will be principal of the school and he will have able assistants-Salisbury Sun. The latest news in railroad circles is furnished by the Salisbury Sun, which says that it is reliably informed that the railroad being surveyed from Mocksville will make a turn at a point three miles this side of Cleveland and run parallel with the Western road to Salisbury. This will give Salisbury direct connection with the Norfolk & Western at Winston, and will cause freight to go direct to that place. The Sun says the road may be extended to Mooreville, but not for some time.

Both Well-Known Here. In the Salisbury letter to the Charlotte Observer, we notice the following: Mr. Sam Wiley and Miss Boush Bernhardt are to be married on the 14th of October. The marriage will be an interesting social event. The ceremony will take place in the Lutheran church. Miss Annie Wiley and Miss Bernhardt, sisters of the contracting parties, are to be maids of honor. The colors of the wedding will be white and red, the bridesmaids wearing white dresses, red ribbons and carrying red roses. Mr. and Mrs. Bernhardt will take a trip North.

Pointed Paragraphs. A bad epigram, like a worn-out pencil, has no point to it. Compliments on a tombstone might be termed epigrammatic. Marriage is an eye salve that restores sight to blind lovers. Conversing with a man who always agrees with you is about as monotonous as talking to an echo. The wise man profits by experience; but he is still wiser who profits by the experience of others. When a man has a reputation for wisdom he can say foolish things and his friends applaud them as sarcasm. Some men are never satisfied to remain at the bottom of the ladder; they always try to get farther down.

A Concord Lady A BRIDE. Miss Millie Swink, of this City, and Mr. Sam F. Harmon were Married Tuesday at White Sulphur Springs. While marriages are in order and of almost daily occurrence, it will no doubt surprise a great many that one of Concord's most estimable young ladies was wedded to a citizen of Asheville.

The parties to whom we have reference, is Miss Mollie Swink, daughter of Mr. George Swink, of this city, and Mr. Samuel F. Harmon, a traveling salesman of Asheville. They were married last Tuesday afternoon at White Sulphur Springs, a suburban resort near that fashionable city on the mountains.

Only a few intimate friends of the contracting parties outside of their immediate families knew that the event would be so soon, although it has been surmised by a number of friends.

Charming Concord Girls. The Wadesboro letter to the Charlotte Observer contained the following personal item: "Misses Kate and Nannie Archibald, two of Concord's most charming young ladies, spent Saturday, Sunday, and Monday with Miss Rena Ingram, and left on the vestibule Tuesday morning for Matthews, whence they return to Concord today."

ROYAL BAKING POWDER Absolutely Pure Celebrated for its great leavening strength and healthfulness. Assures the food against all forms of adulteration common to the cheap brands.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., New York. WILL GET THE CONVICTS. Thirty to Be Brought From the Wadesboro Farm October 1st. Mr. Morrison Caldwell has returned from Raleigh, where he went to a cure from the State authorities the lease of a number of convicts to be worked on the Cabarrus county roads, and his mission was not successful. Arrangements were made by which Cabarrus will be furnished with thirty convicts to be brought from the Wadesboro farm, about the 1st of November.

The convicts were secured under the McDonald act of 1889, by which the county pays transportation, and board and clothe the prisoners until their terms expire. They will be brought through the country from Wadesboro.

In case the lease of the penitentiary convicts is made at the meeting of the State authorities in November, it will in no way interfere with the lease effected by Mr. Caldwell for the ones Cabarrus will get.

Something to Know. It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This is a purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centers in the stomach, gently stimulates the liver and kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood.

After Forbidden Fruit. A young man who went from this city to North Carolina College at Mt. Pleasant was a victim to a huge joke Friday night. He was induced to visit the orchard of Mrs. Gline, who lives some distance from the college, and like old Eve, he plucked the forbidden fruit. But he didn't partake of this tempting fruit like our friend Adam did, although he was driven from the garden.
