ENOUGH OF LIBERIA.

Story of an Escaped Victim of the Colonization Scheme—Would Attempt to Walk a Ten-Inch Plank Across the Atlantic to Escape.

There is in our midst a negro, Presley Cromer, and his son by the same name, a boy of 10 or 12 years. They are returned remnants of a colony of 315 negroes that left Savannah in 1897 for Liberia.

These people have quite enough of the dose and give a gloomy enough version of their experience, while they seem happy as birds out of cage to be back in Dixie.

Flour and meal must be kept sealed in tin. Insects penetrate the staves of a barrel and web the flour in the shortest kind of time.

He has taken farming utensils expecting to plant and cultivate crops, but found insects to destroy most plants, and even corn and rice had to be watched and cleaned daily as we have to do with the potato bugs.

Rice, palm oil and casia roots are the chief diet. The casia seems something like our Indian potato and is served up by beating and cooking, when it has a doughy nature that you can't chew but must gulch in wads and drink the broth.

The natives have no sense of providing for anything more than the present and only take their food when hungry and cook it half and swallow it when and where available.

The insects of which we hear make an impressive part of the story they tell. The boy drew down his stocking and showed the writer a scar about the size of a silver dollar and said it was from a great hole that went to the bone, though in the fleshy part of the lower leg.

TERrible CRIME IN MECKLENBURG.

Two Old Ladies Murdered and Burned for Their Money—No Clue to the Villainous Deed.

Mrs. Violet Coley and her niece, Miss Jane Cathart, the former 80 years old and the latter 65 or 70, living on the Tuckasee road five miles from Charlotte, were foully murdered Tuesday night and the kitchen, in which they probably sat when attacked, was burned down and their bodies were consumed, save the bones, that told the ghastly tale.

Every tribe is an absolute monarchy. One does all the bargaining and directing of service to be rendered and in that tribe all things are held in common. Service is faithful, however.

Even in this low stage of savagery he finds the faith that man is immortal and that we live again, so much so that when one is condemned to death he lays his head down with a smile and sees the cutlass falling that severs his head from the body, and while the frame wriggles in death those about hop around in glee.

Cromer says no more Africa for him and that American negroes he is sure would attempt to cross the ocean on a ten-inch plank-way if such could be found over the waters.

There were a number of strong speeches, chief of which was that by Hon. Holte Smith. The line of procedure contemplated, as we catch it, is to have bereaues of information by which every reader of the news of the day may know the amount of acreage planted, the amount of the crop when gathered, the supply on hand and the probable demand, so that there will be a fair index to the price.

The different States represented will hold their conventions and elect three delegates each and report to Secretary Allison when the president will call a meeting to be held in Atlanta early in the year 1901.

A Milwaukee dispatch of the 21st says the deer hunting season ended on the 20th and it has a record of 12 persons killed and alike number seriously wounded. In the stealthy peering for their game they fired at indistinct objects which proved to be men and not deer.

The Truth-Index says that little 10-year-old Johnnie Blue, of Chestnut Hill, was bitten by a dog about three weeks ago which was supposed to have rabies. The head of the dog was sent to the Pasture Institute in Baltimore. Rabbits were inoculated from the dogs head and they took hydrophobia. Mr. Blue is unable to take the boy for treatment and unless charitable help is extended the boy is in great danger.

The portrait of Abraham Lincoln which has hung in the East room of the White House fell last Sunday night the 18th and it has revived the talk of unsafety in that wing of the building. The clerical force and the accumulating records overhead it is said are making too much weight on it.

United States Marshal James Free, of Asheville, was in the city today and arrested Registrar John A. Murphy, of South Ward, this city, upon an indictment found several weeks ago. Mr. Murphy was bound in a bond of $2,000, which was quickly given, to appear at the Federal court at Statesville the third Monday in April.

THAT-FAIRFUL STORM.

Sixty-Four Killed and 50 Injured—Force Was Resistless—The Sleepers Never Waked—The Cumberland's Rise.

The storm that passed over parts of Southwest was reported so meagerly by the great dailies Wednesday as to attract little attention. Even on Wednesday evening the magnitude of the disaster seems not to have been fully comprehended. The dead are numbered up to 64 and the injured to 50 and the details being probably incomplete the list is likely to be enlarged. The storm occurred Tuesday night coming up from Mississippi and sweeping in a north-easterly direction in Tennessee. The path is about 50 yards wide and lasted only about 20 seconds.

It struck Columbia, where it was most severe; Lagrange, Nolensville and Gallatin, and lost its force against the Cumberland Mountains. At Columbia it left 25 dead and 50 injured. Four fine and 150 cheaper houses were demolished.

It was so severe as not to leave stone and iron fences in its path. Houses furnished little resistance and the wonder is not that so many were killed but that so many survived.

At Nolensville 16 houses were destroyed and two ladies were killed. A Mr. Hampton had $400 in his house, most of which was lost.

A colored baby was found safe and sound 300 yards away with a faithful dog lying by it.

At Lavergne 16 miles south of Nashville 25 houses were torn into kindling wood. The high school and depot were destroyed.

One Mr. George Robertson lived in a log house in its path. He and his child were asleep in bed while Mrs. Robertson was up sewing by lamp. She had no time to even wake the sleepers, who probably never waked but were instantly killed. She escaped.

The rainfall was so heavy that the Cumberland river rose 20 feet.

WERE MARRIED IN MOORESVILLE. Mr. Charles H. Hamilton Leads Miss Cornelia Deaton to the Hymenial Altar.

Gen. Wheeler on the Philippines. Major General Joseph Wheeler arrived at Boston yesterday afternoon and will remain here until Friday as the guest of James Forde Rhodes at the Algonquin Club.

When asked about fighting in the Philippines since he came home, the general said: "There has been no real fighting; only that conducted by guerrilla bands, and the casualties have been few. This warfare will gradually settle down so that the only hostilities will be by bandits. In fact, all the fighting that is done now is by banditti, re-enforced by the fragments of Aguinaldo's army."

"Many of the Filipinos believe that a majority of the American people favor their independence. Aguinaldo is extremely bitter against those who support the position of the United States and if we should withdraw our troops, Aguinaldo would wreak a terrible vengeance upon those people. In one town our officers were received cordially by the leading citizens. After we left the men who met us were all murdered. The effect of the recent national election will lead to a gradual pacification when the news of it permeates the islands."

General Wheeler said, in speaking of the proposed army increase: "I am thoroughly convinced that we must have a large increase of artillery forces."—Boston Dispatch, 21st.

He was taken to the asylum and later discharged, but a few days ago he developed insanity again with homicidal tendencies and attacked his wife. Timely aid from his father saved her, and the unfortunate man was held in safety.

Feared Bovine. Mr. Harry Adams, of Congaree, is the owner of a very profitable cow. Recently this bovine wonder gave birth to twins, which is a rather unusual occurrence, but in this case it is particularly wonderful inasmuch as the cow gave birth to twins last December. DEATH OF J. E. BOOKER.

We are greatly distressed to hear of the death of J. E. Booker, editor of the Suffolk Herald. Y., says: "Our little son, five years old, has always been subject to croup, and so had, when the attacks began that we have feared many times that he would die. We have had the doctor and used many medicines, but Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is now our sole reliance. It seems to dissolve the tough mucus and by giving frequent doses when the croupy symptoms appear we have found that the dreaded croup is cured before it gets settled. There is no danger in giving this remedy for it contains no opium or other injurious drug and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale at Marsh's drug store."

There are 200 cotton seed oil mills in the South which consume $50,000,000 worth of seed annually, which not many years ago was considered useless, save the part that was used for planting.—Morning Star.

"Divorce is granted" said the judge.
