GOV. AYCOCK TALKS TARIFF.

Gov. Aycock, in his speech before the Manufacturers' Club in Charlotte, uttered sentiments that rang like the old Democratic doctrine that we used to hear and like that on which we heard to win presidential victories. We clip the following forcible paragraphs.

"It has been said that with the growth of manufacturing in the South there will be a tendency towards the doctrine of the protective tariff. I do not yield my assent to this proposition. On the contrary I believe that the South will be true to her convictions of principle even in the face of the fact that the manufacturers of the United States are in large measure protectionists. It would be a strange thing if the South should take up with this erroneous doctrine at the very time when the people of the North are beginning to abandon their false position, and their abandoning it can be made no more certain than by the adoption of reciprocity treaties which have for their purpose the admission of goods into this country free or with a tariff, based on the agreement that foreign countries shall treat our goods as we treat theirs."

After treating upon that dodge reciprocity which means discriminating free trade with the president unavoidably influenced by environments he says:

"We cannot trade with foreign countries unless they trade with us, for no country can long stand the drain upon its finances involved in buying all and selling none. The true hope of future progress in this State lies in the doctrine of tariff for revenue only, and those who are asserting a contrary doctrine are looking to the present and not to the future. No permanent prosperity can come to our people which is founded upon favors to the few. If there ever was a time in our history when the many ought to contribute to the support of the few that time has passed, for we have reached an era in which the effectiveness of the American laborer has more than compensated for his higher wages. Indeed, it is capable now of demonstration to a mathematical certainty that the country which pays the highest wages is capable of producing at the least cost. An American shoemaker may get twice the wages of the English shoemaker, but the labor cost in the shoe is less in America by reason of the fact that the American shoemaker makes three times as many shoes as his English cousin and the labor cost in the American shoe is, therefore, only two-thirds of what it is in England. We are a great people, dominating the universe, taking part in all its affairs, and interested in its commerce. We shall probably never live to see the day when we shall dwell apart from the nations of the earth again. Their affairs will always be of interest to us, and their business will in large measure be our business, but in order that we may make that business profitable to us we must be willing to exchange products which we can make at less cost than they for the products which they can make at less cost than we, and in our struggle for commercial supremacy we ought never to forget that the liberty of the individual is essential to commercial prosperity."

Our thanks are tendered Prof. Preston Lewis Gray for a catalogue of the Bingham School near Mebane. The catalogue is a model of artistic beauty. It is profusely illustrated with cuts of attractive points, athletic teams, etc., and represents that school of long and favorable standing in the State with peculiar winningness.

injunction against the striking machinists that forbids them to teach about the works and in any way interfere with the non-striking workmen. It forbids them to stick up posters that are intended to interfere and to try to prevent tradesmen from selling goods to those that refuse to quit work.

It is called a sweeping injunction but it seems to us there's nothing sweeping about it except that of brushing aside some anarchistic highbushness.

For one to quit serving an employer is a right parallel with the right of the employer to cease to employ. For one to quit the service of his employer and try to keep any one else from serving him is bad, just like it is for an employer to discharge a laborer and then try to prevent him from getting employment elsewhere. To try to keep a merchant from selling goods to a man that will not go out on strike is meanness of the degree that an employer would be guilty of if he tried to starve the man he discharged.

There is a notion, and we believe Mr. Bryan is touched with it, that if a man learns a trade through a regular apprenticeship he has a certain kind of inherent right to that job and that his employer has no right to discharge him or get a man in his place, no matter if other services are more desirable. Reverse it and see what kind of a free country we would have if that man were not at liberty to give up his job when he pleased and had to forever stay at the work and with the man where he was taught his trade.

There are some men who claim so many rights that there are none left for anybody else. We do not know what freedom it is if it does not contemplate the right of the employer and the employed to continue their relations while mutually agreeable or profitable. For either party to set about after separation to prevent the other from exercising his right to enter into mutual relations with another or to secure sustenance for himself and family is surely indefensible from any moral standpoint.

We have little exercise of an injunction system more aptly applied than that which restrains strikers from interfering with employers they have abandoned and with their fellow laborers who are disposed to work.

The Salisbury Sun says three little negro boys were convicted there Monday of stealing brass. Mayor Boyden, considering their tender years, let them off with a sound thrashing, which designated officers executed in exhilarating vigor, and the boys were bidden to go and sin no more. Who says that the remedy would not beat modern methods in the prevention of many crimes?

Mr. Olin Hoover has resigned his position in the Standard office to take a position in a cotton mill. While we regret any changes we are impressed that for the cotton manufacturing line gives promise of higher achievement for the industrious, persevering and skillful than most lines of industry. We hope he will reach a high mark in that widening field of honorable wealth production.

MOUNT PLEASANT ITEMS.

With the Sick—Kindley Mill Shuts Down for a Few Days—Visitors from Ohio—C. G. Heilig's House Struck—New House that Has a Meaning.

Mt. Pleasant, June 26, 1901.—We are sorry to note that the condition of Mr. Walter H. Calhoun Sr., is not improved.

Mr. Robt. Johnson has had a relapse and his condition, at present, is somewhat critical.

Prof. G. F. McAllister returned from Newberry today.

The W. R. Kindley cotton Mill has been standing for a day or so on account of a break down of the picker.

After spending a few days with Rev. J. A. Linn and family, Mr. Frankman and his sister, Miss Frankman, from Versailles, Ohio, and Miss Florence Miller returned to the home of Miss Miller in Rowan this morning.

Mr. Alonzo Blackweider left us last evening for Orangeburg, S. C., where he takes charge of a roller mill. We are sorry to lose "Lonny", but we wish him much success in his work.

During a rather severe thunder storm Wednesday afternoon the residence of Mr. C. G. Heilig was struck by lightning. No great amount of damage was done, but the four corners of the main part of the house were damaged and the pillars partially wrecked.

Work on the new M. E. church is being pushed now in order that it may be in readiness for the district conference which is to convene here July 18. The church when completed will be the prettiest in town and our people have watched its construction with much pride.

Mr. J. B. McAllister's new residence is being completed as fast as possible and many of our people, especially those living near are somewhat curious to know who will be the first occupant. No one seems to know and John doesn't seem to be able to throw much light on the subject, but the more experienced people of the town will know when they see Shoe, Fisher Co.'s, black stichback and black horse with white harness take a northerly course every fine Sunday morning. DEATH OF THE OXFORD CHILD.

Her Terrible Suffering From Hydrophobia—Fears for the Lives of Adults Whom She Attacked.

Baltimore Special, 23d, to Washington Post.

On May 22, six-year-old Loretta Cheving, of Oxford, N. C., was bitten through the nose by a pet dog with which she was playing. On June 19 she began to exhibit symptoms of hydrophobia, and preparations were at once made to bring her to the Pasteur Institute at the City Hospital here.

The journey had hardly begun on Saturday before the little one became wild with rabies. She fought like one pursued and barked and bit at those around her. In the struggle she tore her mother's flesh with her nails and also scratched her attending physician, Dr. Williams, of Oxford, as well as a strange gentleman who went to their assistance.

If the child's fingers were moistened with any of the saliva, the three adults are also in danger of being attacked with the dread malady. They are still in the city awaiting developments, and are being carefully watched by Prof. Keirie and his assistants at the Pasteur Institute.

At the station the ambulance was in waiting, and, fighting and kicking, the afflicted child was hurried to the hospital. She was immediately put under treatment, but without avail. Her suffering increased as the night advanced, and after midnight she died in terrible agony. Her mother is frantic with grief.

This is probably the first case of its kind in the local Pasteur Institute where a human being afflicted with rabies attacked others so that they also may be afflicted with hydrophobia. The developments are being watched with interest.

Mary Steele was before Squire Pitts this morning for vagrancy. In default of bond she was sent to jail.

Mt. Island Shuts Down.

Mt. Island cotton mill, one of the largest and oldest in the county, closed down Friday night and it is not known when it will start again. For some time there has been trouble brewing between the Hooper and Barber factions of stockholders and the shut down is said to be the result of this misunderstanding of the stock holders and not the recent flood disasters. Mr. Jordan, the manager, and his assistants are in no way responsible for the shut down. Operatives have been advised to seek employment elsewhere. Several families are moving to Gastonia. It is to be regretted that this valuable plant is to stop.—Gastonia News.

State Normal's Good Fortune.

President Charles D. McIver of the State Normal College has secured a gift of $10,000 to that splendid institution from Mr. George Foster Peabody, of New York. $5,000 is to be used to develop an educational park on the college grounds and the other $5,000 to be used for certain other purposes when other sums shall have been raised.

The college has 125 acres of broken land that when beautified and made interesting with monuments of literary men will be intensely charming for the young ladies for recreation.

Look for It.

Every body's eyes are open to the outlook of the approaching convention of the Industrial Union which will convene here July 4th. The nearer the time comes the more enthusiasm and interest are manifested on the part of the people in general.

Quite a number of delegates and visitors are expected to be present, and the affair is hoped to be a grand one among the colored citizens.

It is hoped that the convention will prove an event for good most memorable in the life of every delegate and visitor who may attend.

DISTRICT SECRETARY.

Meteor Shakes Up Mexico.

A Denver, Colorado, special of the 21st to the Morning Star says:

"The largest meteor ever seen in this part of the country fell between the pueblos of Los Molinos and Altar, in Sonora, Mexico, on June 11th at 10 o'clock in the morning. The meteor was seen by parties in Tucson as it shot toward the southwest. Although the sun was high, the meteor illumined the sky and seemed to have burst at the horizon.

"El Progreso, a Spanish paper, received in Tucson, contains an article describing the shock at Altar and the terror of the people when the meteor fell. It struck the earth about twenty miles from Altar, but the shock was terrific and the people thought it was an earthquake. An exploring party will go out from Altar to try and find the place where the meteor fell.

Not Much in the Contention.

After all the flurry about the non-indigent insane in our State Hospitals who, according to a recent decision of the Supreme court, are required to pay for their own maintenance, the board of directors of the State Hospital at Morganton are unable to find but four non-indigents at that institution out of nearly 700 patients. Therefore, the talk about non-indigents paying for their keep and saving the State great sums of money has "much ado about nothing." The board of directors have wisely decided that only those are non-indigents who have a surplus after their living is provided for. Under this decision there are few non-indigents and the State has to pay for nearly all of them, as it should do.—Statesville Landmark.

Not the Printer's Fault.

There has been some complaint at the delay in the printing of the public laws in some of our exchanges, and The Post unwittingly referred to the matter a few days ago in a manner to justify the belief that the fault was with the printers. This is unjust. The first copy of the acts was delivered to the printers on the 15th day of April, one month after the adjournment of the Assembly, this delay no doubt arising from the delay in entering upon a contract for the public printing. After the contract was made, copy for the Journals as well as laws and other public documents were delivered, in addition to the printing required by the impeachment proceedings and by all the departments. The printers are required, we think, to have the laws printed and delivered within sixty days from the adjournment of the Assembly. In the present case, however, they did not receive a page of the copy until just one month to a day, we believe, after adjournment. They are entitled to the sixty days, which will not expire until the middle of next month, but we are informed the 8,000 volumes will be ready for delivery before that time.

Horse and Rider Killed.

An Anderson special of the 22nd to the Greenville News says:

During the heavy thunderstorm that was raging yesterday afternoon, Mr. John Hall, Jr., while returning on horseback to his home, was struck and instantly killed by lightning. Both horse and rider were killed. Mr. Hall was 25 years of age and a member of a prominent family in the Flat Rock neighborhood of this county. He leaves a wife and two little children.

Miners Want to be Employed.

The striking miners about Huntington, West Virginia, refused to have an injunction served on them on Monday and fired in to a posse of United States Marshalls who found it good policy to retreat. It is not said that there was any casualties.

To produce the best results in fruit, vegetable or grain, the fertilizer used must contain enough Potash. For particulars see our pamphlets. We send them free.

GERMAN KALI WORKS, 61 Nassau St., New York.

Greates' Exposition Yet.

Word and Works says: "The great World's Fair at St. Louis in 1903 is now fully decided. The people of this city have voted for it, the money has been raised, the committees have been appointed and the architects are at work on the plans. The company, which has charge of the work, is assured of $20,000,000 in funds to back the undertaking. It is fully believed that this will be the greatest exhibition of progress in science and art that the world has ever seen. The progress in science since the exhibition in Chicago in 1893 has been remarkable and an exhibition is possible now that would not have been possible then."

It is Not That Alcohol.

"Synthol" is a chemically pure substitute for absolute alcohol. It may be used for every purpose for which alcohol is used except for internal consumption. Being chemically pure it does not have as much odor as absolute alcohol from grain or wood. It is perfectly free from color, is non-irritant to eyes or skin and has ten to fifteen per cent more solvent power than ordinary alcohol. As a killing, fixing or hardening agent it is in every respect equal to best absolute alcohol and can be used as a substitute for it in the preparation of stains, reagents, etc. As a preservative it is superior to any alcohol as alcohol becomes tinged with color on exposure to light. While synthol retains its absolute colorlessness under all conditions.—Word and Works.

Burned to Death.

The 11-year-old daughter of Mr. John Boyles, whose home is four miles out, in Davidson county, while lifting a cooking utensil from a stove Saturday morning had her apron to catch fire and before assistance came was so badly burned that she died that night from the effects. The accident is deplorable and the family have the sympathy of all in their sad affliction.—High Point Enterprise.

The London Lancet urges matrimony as a remedy for dyspepsia. But Uncle Si remarks that would be like drinking kerosene oil to take away the odor of onions.—Ex.
