CONCORD, N. C., July 11, 1901.

CRIPPLED VILLAINS.

We note from the Charlotte News that four hoboes set upon Mr. J. H. Overcash there on Monday and used him up badly.

Their names, the News says, are J. H. Boyd, no legs; Jno. Perry, one leg; Ed Smith, on crutches; Ed Craig, arm in sling.

His crime was not having 50 cents for them when they demanded it. The man without legs said, "Well, we'll beat your head off," and took off one of his wooden stumps and struck Mr. Overcash on the head. The other three attacked him at once, one biting part of his ear, off. They tried to escape but were captured. The Observer says part of Mr. Overcash's cheek was bitten out and he is permanently mutilated and disfigured.

These are evidently the villains that struck Concord on Saturday. The legless man asked the writer for alms. Our impression of the man on sight was that he was an imposter and a scoundrel and it was easy to say so.

He put up a story about getting his legs cut off in the service of the railroad, which would do nothing for him. That was of course too thin a story. Railroads always give their faithful but unfortunate employees a good job if they will render anything like fair service, and a man losing both legs and coming before a jury always gets a verdict for more than anybody ever thought he was worth.

We have no doubt that these very wretches canvassed Concord last Saturday and gathered in enough to get the liquor that caused them to play the fool as well as the villain in Charlotte.

We hereby lodge our protest against the privilege of begging around being allowed to the maimed and the apparently afflicted any more than the able-bodied tramp. We are of the firm conviction that there is not one of the class in a thousand that is not an imposition, a vicious wretch who has no disposition to merit the kindly help offered in his native country.

An unfortunate cripple is always looked after in the spirit of charity at home and no cripple worthy of assistance need so far to find it. There is room to suspect every one of them when they come around begging and they are as good subjects for "no" as you will find anywhere.

Everybody with a soul pities the afflicted, but when they make these afflictions a means of imposing on the none too broad generosity of the public by which to lead a dissolute and vicious life their practice becomes despicable.

The Burlington Messenger, which suffered a suspension on account of the sudden disappearance of its editor, Mr. A. Campbell McKibbin, resumed on Saturday the 6th under the editorship of Mr. R. G. Foster. We trust the Messenger, being now conducted by a more steady and staid head, ripened by a greater number of years into wisdom's ways, will enjoy an extended period of prosperity.

A BLOW AT INTEGRITY

Geo. P. Roberts was one of a band of independent scouts from Tennessee that fought on the Federal side during the war. A bill was passed in 1870 that allowed pay to such soldiers. He put in his claim and at some time received a check for $1064.23. He said this was more pay than his period of service entitled him to and sent the check back asking for $351.20. An investigation was made and the decision was that he was entitled to but $210.45 which has recently been confirmed. Thus says a Washington dispatch of the 8th. It looks like a painful blow at virtue and it comes as a voice to those of wavering integrity to take all they can get lest they get less than seems to be their honest claim. He's good metal if he does not wish he had the original check in his hands.

We are glad to learn that the city council has employed Mr. J. L. Boger as a policeman again. He has given so much attention to this line of work that he is unusually well suited for the work and seems to have passed that stage in which a new set of aldermen may ask why employ him, but rather why not do so. A faithful public officer grows in efficiency, and the rotation in office disparages all ambition to excel.

Want Them Removed.
A committee of ladies, of the local W. C. T. U., of Greensboro, went before the County Commissioners at their late meeting and asked for the removal of the keepers of the county home as complaints of ill treatment were lodged.

Miss Vivian Sartoris and Mr. Archibald Balfour have agreed to break their engagement, and the invitations to the wedding have been recalled. Miss Sartoris is the daughter of General Grant's daughter, Nellie. The only reason given for breaking off the engagement is that the couple didn't love each other. What a queer reason for postponing a marriage. The New York "Four Hundred" have long ago quit considering love a requisite to matrimony.—Raleigh Times.

Miss Mary Taylor, of Wake Forest, to Wed Prof. C. C. Crittenden.
The engagement of Miss Mary Taylor, of Wake Forest, and Prof. C. C. Crittenden a member of the faculty of Wake Forest College is announced; the wedding is to take place at the home of the bride on the 23rd of July.

Miss Taylor is the daughter of Dr. Chas. E. Taylor, President of Wake Forest College and is a very cultured and intellectual young woman possessing a brilliant mind.
Mr. Crittenden is one of the State's prominent professors and is well known here, having taught in the graded school and the High school. The marriage is one of wide-spread interest on account of the prominence of both the bride and groom.

Those Crippled Hoboes.
It turns out that the man Overcash did much to provoke the difficulty with the crippled hoboes in Charlotte and got the worst of the fight with a one-legged man and is badly done up. The hoboes are tough enough, however, and are all in jail for want of bond. The testimony on the trial makes the case much less provoking than was represented at first.

Goodman Lips.
Dr. A. B. Goodman and Miss Callie Lips, the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lips, were married today (Wednesday) at the home of the bride on No. 11 township by the Rev. H. McNairy. The event has been kept a close secret and is therefore a pleasing surprise to a host of friends and well-wishes. The happy couple will spend the night at his father's, Mr. G. C. Goodman of No. 4, and will go to Crescent Thursday where the doctor is located.

The Wrights and Wrongs of Labor

Much attention has been attracted to the injunction recently issued in Milwaukee in the case of the striking miners. It is said to be of further reach than any injunction previously issued, and yet it does not appear to violate any principle of right or to embrace any doctrine that must not have suggested itself to any thinking mind. It merely forbids the strikers to gather around the works of the Viller Manufacturing Company or to in any way interfere with the non-striking workmen, forbidding them further to stick up posters that are intended to interfere and to try to prevent tradesmen from selling goods to those that refuse to quit work. This does not seem to be high handed, radical or oppressive. The line between right and wrong in the strike question is a broad one; no reasonable man need be deceived as to where it is. An employe has an unquestionable right to leave the service of his employer for any grievance, either real or imaginary; to contend otherwise would be to imply a condition of slavery—of ownership and serfdom. But with this quitting even, the rights of the striker end. He may decline to work himself, but he has no right to undertake to restrain anybody else from working, or to seek, directly or indirectly, to punish him if he does. This is so manifestly just that it seems strange that there should ever be any controversy over the principle or that the courts should ever have to be called upon to enforce it.—Charlotte Observer.

Rowan Sorely Stricken.
Rowan county is sorely stricken and fortune seems to have turned away from these good citizens for just as Austin, the labor agitator of great notoriety, was placed in a safe resting place Mormon elders made their appearance.

Refused a Pension.
Mr. W. H. Steele, a Confederate veteran of Randolph county, has just returned his pension warrant to this office for cancellation. He gives as his reason for this action that he has some little property, and knows there are "other old soldiers who need the money worse" than he does. Mr. Steele was a member of Company E, 26th Regiment, N. C. Infantry, during the war, and is on the pension list on account of wounds received.—Raleigh Times.

Keeping Up Appearances

The petty smallness of aristocratic papers is painfully illustrated by an English correspondent. When an English aristocrat is poor he is quite hopelessly poor, despite a lineage that may run back to William the Conqueror, and good King Alfred, and Hengist, and Horsa, and all the other famous progenitors. The poor aristocrat can't earn his own living, he can't go into trade, and he can't seek a situation. At no matter what price is self-denial and personal humiliation he must keep up appearances. This is how it happens that a noted man-milliner of London observed at the Ascot races several of his handsomest and most expensive hats adorning the heads of certain noble ladies who had ordered them merely on approval. By a simple little exertion it is thus possible to have a new hat, and a fine one, too, on each day of the races. Of course the hats are returned next day, and of course the milliner has no possible way of getting recompense.

More Insurgents Surrender.
The insurgent leader, Ballarmino, who has been operating in the province of Sorogos, surrendered with 1000 men, 284 guns and 3000 rounds of ammunition last Thursday. He was driven by Col. Wint across the mountains and into retreats that it was thought could not be operated in with cavalry. Col. Wint was equal to the task and bagged his game.

AWFUL DEED OF INSANE MAN

Father kills his three children in Nova Scotia.
Halifax, N. S., July 9.—Three innocent lives were ended by the act of a crazy father this morning, the crime being one of the most pitiable in Nova Scotia for many years. The father was Sydney Locke, a respected citizen, and municipal councillor of Lockport.
Locke rose this morning and after partially dressing himself went to the room where his three children were sleeping. He carried with him a 44 calibre revolver. Without a word he placed the muzzle of the revolver at the head of his oldest child and fired. The next instant he killed Ermine, his favorite child, Howard, who was in a bed by himself, attempted to escape, but his father was on him in a moment and the little fellow, too, went down. He was fatally wounded and died an hour afterward. Sydney Locke was a loving father, but for months past he had been mentally depressed.

NEWS CULLINGS.
Mr. G. W. Newell, Senator from Franklin county in 1898, fell dead in his buggy on the way to Lenoir Monday of heart disease. He was 60 years old.
Prof. W. F. Massey has resigned his professorship in the A. & M. College to become editor of the Practical Farmer, published in Philadelphia. He will retain his place as Horticulturist at the Experiment Station.
Greensboro had two severe storms Monday evening and a man and horse and buggy were washed down Buffalo creek, making a very narrow escape from the man's being drowned. He caught a limb and held till a rope was thrown to him and he was pulled ashore.
The body of Sam Miller a negro illicit whiskey distiller, was found in Eno river near Durham Monday. It is surmised that he was dumped in by others who feared he would expose some whiskey secrets.
Henry Jenkins killed Will Scott in Durham about a year ago and made good his escape. The first news from him is that he died in Brooklyn Sunday.
On account of increased evidence of guilt the bond of J. F. Austin has been increased to $500, which amounts to tightening the jail door in Salisbury.
ONLY A LIGHTED CIGAR.
It Burns Over 15,000 Acres and Consumes 300,000 Bushels of Wheat.
A Great Bend, Kansas, dispatch of the 8th brings the illustration of how great a matter a little fire kindleth. A man dropped a lighted cigar in the stubble of a wheat field and presently there was a fire that could not be stayed until it had burned over 15,000 acres of land and destroyed 300,000 bushels of wheat.

Cat, Rat and Frog Story Without Affairs.
Did you ever hear of a frog outdoing a cat in a rat race? That's what happened out at Mrs. Parker's on the Brushies last Saturday. The cat got after a rat and the rat ran where a frog was resting with his mouth set for flies. The rat knew not the danger and ran in. The frog closed his mouth and the rat was safe. The cat caught the rat's tail about the same time, but after a short tussle the cat left the frog. There were several eye witnesses to the facts.—Wilkesboro Chronicle.
