ABOUT FERNENT.

A BETTER WORD THAN IT GETS CREDIT FOR.

Dr. Caldwell and Phutatorius Hitch on an Abstruse Philological Question of Local and Living Interest.

MR. EDITOR:—The following paragraph from Dr. Caldwell's Charlotte Chronicle appeared in the Standard, yesterday, and I reproduce it here for the purpose of offering a few cursory observations on it:

We deplore having to call the editor of the Concord Standard down, especially so seeing that he is an ex-school teacher, and wears glasses, but his use of the word "fernent" in his paper Saturday cannot be allowed to go unchallenged. He doubtless meant ferninst.

It is always more or less painful to be called down, even when we are capable of staying up as long as it suits us, but it is still more unpleasant to be called down and have to come. In a choice of evils one is supposed to choose the lesser and I can not imagine why, in this instance; you did not take the usual course and stay up, for you were certainly under no obligation to come down even with the timely assistance of the intelligent compositor.

Your use of "fernent" can be attributed to the fact of your German descent, just as Dr. Caldwell's choice of "fermist" can be accounted for on the grounds of his Irish extraction. As neither of the words is English, by nature or practice, it would appear that you have forfeited none of your honors as an ex-school teacher, and there seems to be no reason why you should not continue to wear your glasses without a single compunction of conscience.

Had you followed your grandfather's orthography and written it "verneint" your use of the word would have had the sanction of the best German authorities. The history of the word's degeneration might be briefly written thus: German verneint, English fernent, Irish ferninst. You pay your money and you take your choice.

PHUTATORIUS.

To Subscribers to the Confederate Monument Fund.

Concord, N. C., March 2, 1892.

MR. EDITOR:—Please allow me space in your paper to say to the citizens of Cabarrus county who have subscribed to the soldiers monument that the monument is now completed and ready for shipment and the unveiling will be on the 7th of May. We like about one hundred dollars of having enough money to pay for it when erected. All those who have subscribed for the monument I earnestly request them to pay their subscription at as early date as possible so we will be ready to pay the contractor as soon as erected. Those who have subscribed to Mr. Hamp C Howell, of No. 10; Mr. Wm. G Barringer, of No. 8 and Mr. John Barnhardt, of No. 5, will please pay them their subscriptions so they can pay it over to me. And if there is anyone who have not subscribed to the soldiers monument and feel like they can give something to help perpetuate the memory of those who fell on the battle fields, or died in the hospital or have since crossed the river.

We would be glad if you would send in your contributions as soon as convenient so we will be ready to pay the last amount due on day of unveiling. J F WILLEFORD, Pres. Veteran Association.

J M Odell and wife are at Fort Mills. Mr. Odell will return tonight. They attended the marriage of Miss Tate in Charlotte last night.

Very Romantic.

The Raleigh Observer gives this romantic news: Mr. J B Beddingfield, of the Southern Express company here, went to Richmond a day or two since, and on his return brought Mrs. Beddingfield back with him. He was quietly married here to Miss Laura Taylor, sister of Mrs. Geo. H Glass, of this city, on the 9th of last December, but the romantic marriage was kept a secret till a day or two since. Mrs. Beddingfield has been at her home in Richmond since the marriage. The episode has created a pleasant surprise all around.

Greensboro Crawfished.

The Greensboro people who wanted to get the Colored Agricultural and Mechanical College located there did not comply with the terms of their original agreement. Last October the board met and accepted the proposition, which was to give 25 acres of land and $15,000; of this amount $8,000 being payable in cash January 1, 1892, and $7,000 in June 1893. Monday the executive committee met in Raleigh and Greensboro's representative appeared before it and offered $8,000 in good notes. He also took a new proposition, that Greensboro wished the original amount $15,000, reduced to $10,000. The executive committee did not think it had any right to act on any such proposition, but desired the full board to consider it.

Senator Vance Broke Down.

In the Senate yesterday, while Mr. Pugh was speaking to the majority report in favor of seating Dubois, the chair of Senator Vance, who was seated near him, broke down, letting the North Carolina Senator fall to the floor with some force and much noise. As Mr. Vance picked himself up, apparently unhurt, he said (with a laugh), "I beg your pardon for interrupting you," to which Mr. Pugh rejoined that he had not supposed that his argument would be so over-powered.

Married Through Prison Bars.

Shoals, Ind., March 1.—Susie Currens put her hands through the bars of the jail here to-day, clasped by her fiancé, William Fitch, and thus they were married. The Sheriff then started with Fitch to the Jeffersonville Penitentiary to serve two years for larceny. They had been engaged three years. The girl is nearly heart-broken.

It is rumored that a new schedule will go into effect on Sunday. This will effect the whirling splendor, in which Concord has no confidence and is, as Dr. Caldwell insists, ferninst. It's not such a privilege concern after all: It is not allowed to stop at this town—a town of 4,200 inhabitants.

Rev. H M Blair, pastor of Forest Hill M E church, is preaching some strong and interesting sermons to his people—his preaching is highly complimented. His congregations are large and increasing all the time.

Master Fred Odell, celebrates his eleventh birthday at "Elbeth" to-day, and has invited a number of his young friends to be present this afternoon between four and six o'clock.

The law that prevents the killing of birds does not go into effect until March 15, and not March 1st, as many suppose.

M T Stallings, who has been teaching in No. 7, has returned to his store near Pharr's mill, No. 1.

Mrs. R S Gray and little Miss Lottie, are visiting Mrs. Boshamer.

Ex-Gov. W W Holden Dead.

Raleigh, N. C., March 1.—W W Holden, ex-Governor of North Carolina, died here this afternoon. He was, prior to and during the war, editor of the Standard; was provisional Governor, and later Governor, but was impeached and deposed by the Senate in 1870.

B F Rogers has gone to New York. He will be absent for quite a while.

Judge Montgomery is in the city of Charlotte today.

C M Cook, of Salisbury, is spending the day in town.
