THE BOTTOM RAIL.

For years the honest hayseeder has been the butt of ridicule. Town and city people have laughed at him, laughed at his seedy appearance, at his awkward speech and manner, criticized his dress, and even have gone so far as to advise him. The newspapers have done their share. They have told him in one column that he was a fool, and in another they say he is the back-bone of the country. They advised him to "attend the primaries;" told him if he didn't the devil would get charge of politics. Then they told him not to go into politics, for he would ruin himself.

The above is a part of an editorial from the Progressive Farmer. This writer has lived in a town and village for some time; he has mingled among the people pretty generally and has seen country people and town people meet as men.

We have yet to hear, see or know such a thing as above mentioned. To be plain and short, Mr. Ramsay has told a simple NOT SO. There's not a word of truth in it, so far as our observation goes.

The Standard does not intimate anything malicious on the part of Mr. Ramsey, but he's off his base. Like a little man, he should take it all back. He should say that he knows it is not true, and that he regrets having let excitement overcome him.

The above is the meanest thing we ever saw in print—it is mean, because absolutely untrue. How Mr. Ramsey could lose his senses so as to find such slanderous and incendiary statements, we can not for the life of us imagine.

1. Ridiculed the honest farmer,
2. Laughed at him,
3. Laughed at his appearance,
4. Laughed at his speech and manners,
5. Criticized his dress.

The man, who would make such broad and general statements as these five and knowing them to be wrong and untrue, must for the sake of his own veracity correct them.

This writer has entertained quite a fond respect for Mr. Ramsey, but until he corrects these statements he can never again regard him as what he can easily be.

STANDARDISM.

A Japanese has invented a new process of distilling by which a gallon more of whiskey can be made out of a bushel of corn. Now if the same number of gallons will be made as heretofore and the distillers will give the extra corn to the families of liquor lovers, this process will be beneficial.

The Louisiana state election is over. Foster the Democratic nominee is elected by a majority estimated at 30,000.

Mr. Harry Skinner's Card.

Mr. Harry Skinner has published a card in the Greenville Reflector, from which we make the following extract.

And if I may be permitted to make a suggestion (without criticism) to Alliance and non-Alliance Democrats in the interests of harmony, it would be to carry out what I intended at the last meeting of the State Executive Committee, to recommend to the different county conventions with as little variation as possible the State platform of 1890, and relegate all our difference of a national character to the different congressional conventions, as this class of relief must come through the channel of Congress, and they are the political bodies that should be impressed with the importance of relief on the line indicated. In making this suggestion I am not retreating from the Democratic principles involved in the sub-treasury plan. I shall attend the Democratic convention of the First District and do as I did at our last District convention, use my power to have incorporated this plan in the platform, and work for the nomination of a man that will stand flat-footed upon such a platform. If I fail it will not diminish my Democratic ardor but will follow the majority. As a financial reformer I cannot see how engrafting anything unusual in our State platform will advance our cause. I can see how it may divide our people and endanger our local institutions. I give the Alliance credit for too much wisdom and patriotism, even if in the absolute control of the State convention, to act either in naming the ticket or the platform so as to bring defeat upon the work there committed to their charge. My opinion is they will act wisely, conservatively, and on the day after will deserve the applause of patriots.

Damages for Lost Baggage.

Charlotte Observer.

The baggage of Misses Rosa and Emma Freeze, of Mooresville—a trunk and valise—was on the train which went down at Bostian's Bridge, near Statesville, in August last, and was destroyed. The ladies were going to Lenoir and were one train behind their baggage. They brought a claim against the railroad for the loss of the baggage and received in settlement a check for $214.75, which their brother, Mr. J. E. Freeze, had cashed at the Commercial National Bank, of this city, yesterday. This is probably the first claim on account of loss or damage by this wreck that has thus far been paid.

HELP! HELP! THE LADY FAINTS.

"'Tis the twink of an eye,
'Tis the draught of a breath,
From the blossom of health,
To the paleness of death."

When sudden fainting spells come upon a lady, you may always suspect some uterine disturbances or trouble, or some great disorder in the circulation and nerve centers. A remedy that has always proved successful in warding off and removing the tendency to a recurrence of fainting spells—that removes the cause of them, corrects the circulation of blood, and gives to the system that even running nervous energy so essential, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The "Prescription" is guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or money refunded. Nothing else does as much. You only pay for the good you get. Can you ask more?

As a regulator and promoter of functional action, at the critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, "Favorite Prescription" is a perfectly safe remedial agent, and can produce only good results. It is equally efficacious and valuable in its effects when taken for those disorders and derangements incident to that later and most critical period, known as "The change of Life."
