THE RUSH OF HUMANITY.

People Who Travel as Seen by Our Reporter.

—Misses Grace Ahrens and Nellie Pool met Mr. Clifton Pool, of Washington City, in Salisbury and accompanied him home. Mr. Pool will be here several days, and will then return to his position in Uncle Sam's employ at the capital.

—Mr. Luther Brown left this morning for Salem, Va., where he goes to school.

—Mr. Alex Long, once a resident of Concord, but now of Spartanburg, S. C., is visiting in Concord, and scenes of his boyhood.

—Mr. C M Cook, of Salisbury, is in the city.

—Mr. W R Odell went to Salisbury this morning on a business trip.

—Mr. J W Ould, of Virginia, spent the day in the city.

—Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Lentz, of Alexander county, are visiting at Mr. J W Mehaffey's.

—Mr. John M Barnhardt, of Pioneer Mills, was in the city.

A Peep Inside.

A Standard reporter stepped into the store of Sims & Alexander, and it was refreshing to see their new goods. They have the handsomest line of French and plain candies of any firm in town. They have just received 5,000 Lombardy cigars; we all know this cigar. Their line of canned goods is excelled by none and groceries are cheap and complete in variety. Their dry goods and shoes will come in next week. For the best of everything go to them for it.

Gov. Carr Will be Here.

Prof. Ludwig, secretary of the Fair Association, informs us that Gov. Carr will speak during the Fair, having accepted the invitation sent him to be here.

Prof. C D McIver, of the Greensboro Normal School will also speak. Everybody come to hear these two prominent men.

Football at Trinity College.

One of the important questions to be decided upon was whether the students should be allowed to play football. The faculty laid the matter before the executive committee of the college, calling attention to the fact that the rules had been greatly improved, eliminating from the game all brutality. The executive committee decided that, under certain improved regulations and management, the game might be allowed. No match games are to be played outside the State; only two days to be taken from their regular work; none but players are to leave the park to engage in a game, and a member of the faculty must accompany those who go away. This action is regarded as a compromise, which the students cheerfully accept. It is further understood as not in any way defying the conferences, which condemned it last year, but is to be in effect until the conferences meet. If the game has been so modified as to eliminate all brutality, and if the students are not allowed to go on tours out of the State, and if they lose no time, and when they go, go under the care of a member of the faculty, we see no more evil to come of it than from any other athletic game which might be expected from college students.—Christian Advocate.

SKELETONS IN A CAVE.

Near Seven Mile Ford, Virginia, a Mysterious Charnel House Was Discovered.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 11.—A Bristol, Tenn., special to the Dispatch says;

Charles Rector, and a boy named Morris, in exploring a cave near Seven Mile Ford, Va., three miles east of this place yesterday discovered two skeletons, 40 feet below the surface. The cave had long been known, but no one had ever entered to explore it because of its great depth. The Morris boy was let down by a rope. When the find was reported, a party of citizens went to the cave to investigate further.

In all ten skeletons were taken out, and were adjudged to be the bones of men. One skeleton was found in a sitting position with the skull reclining on the arms, which were folded across the knees. Thus far there is but one way to account for the charnel house. Old citizens say that many years ago there was an inn kept near this cave by a man named Allen and that occasionally people who stopped there and mysteriously disappeared were never again heard of. The supposition is that they were killed in this inn, robbed of their valuables and then consigned to the cave. Some of the skeletons discovered were partially buried under stones and many of the bones were broken.

Mr. H I Woodhouse is in receipt of a letter from the Rev. W C Alexander, of Mt. Airy, to the effect that the call extended him by the congregation of the First Presbyterian church of this city, will be accepted. Mr. Alexander will take up his duties here as pastor about October 1. The Presbyterians are to be congratulated upon securing the services of this able divine.

About Dr. Payne.

The Washington (N. C.) Gazette, in its recent issue, published the following item, which will interest many of our citizens; "Dr. Payne preached to a large and appreciative audience in the Presbyterian church last Sunday. We had the pleasure of hearing this able divine and he captivated us. His manner was impressive and at times pleasing; his sermon was full of thought nuggets, and his language appropriately chosen. He is an earnest, consecrated Christian worker. Such a man is a blessing in any community."

KORNER WRITES.

Although Korner was not appointed delegate to the County Convention held Saturday, he took it upon himself to be there and see just how things went on. It was gratifying to me, indeed, to see such harmony in the Democratic ranks. I am glad I am a Democrat, and when my children are ready for the poll, I will see personally that they get the proper training, Democratically speaking, as not to affiliate with such an unregenerate set at those fusionists. They are really the most presumptuous set of cranks that have ever come to light as a political party since I have been in this country, and I have lived here all my days. Why, the man in No. 4 township, just because he jumped the Democra's and joined the fusionists expects his corn to yield two thirds more this year than any previous year, just because he belongs to the People's party. But it is a glorious thing for us Democrats to know that Jarvis will be our Senator in the next United States Senate and Mr. H S Puryear, Cabarrus's representative in the General Assembly of the State. The county ticket is just the ticket that the whole people want, and the election of the nominees will be the ultimate result.

Korner is not a prowler nor an agitator, but it seems to me that the city government should take some steps, if they haven't already a law, to see if it would not be beneficial to the morality and common decency of the town to put a stop to the dirty, sloven wenchers strolling our streets and blockading them on Saturday nights after the hour of 9 or 9:30 o'clock. I was on the street one night not long since and the sights that met my eyes would be a great help to the moralists and would awaken the interest of the public general in the purity of civilization and betterment of this class of our citizens. Along this line it would be well to say that if the young lads, who are fast becoming night hawks and demoralized, were kept at home at night the rising generation might have a better conception of what is propriety and good rearing.

Concord has been blessed in the way of no fires for sometime, but every "dog has its day," and if necessary precaution is not taken in time the fire traps in the neighborhood of the city hall will illuminate the city some of these melancholy, mosquito biting nights. There is a building along there with a piazza at its front that has a tarsbarrel full of tar that endangers all that row along Main street. Suppose some one, accidentally or otherwise, should drop a match or cigar there? How about it, eh? Don't you think it would be good-bye cotton platform. Of course we, that is a number of citizens, would be glad to see those old buildings "go yonder," but it might not stop at that.

Well, if those Englishmen want to learn the facts about Judge

Lynch in the South, I agree with Ben Tillman, when he says that he can't help them investigate while they are in New York. They must "come down."

The board of commissioners for the town of Concord is a daisy set, it is. In their August monthly meeting they passed an ordinance prohibiting bicycle riding on any of the sidewalks. There is no doubt but it made a majority of our citizens feel as if the board did think a good deal of our welfare and protection, but such is not the case now. At their meeting Tuesday, this bicycle ordinance was repealed, and now the wheelmen can ride on any of the sidewalks within the city limits, provided they have a lantern and a bell. They are to ring the bell within fifteen feet of women and children and are not allowed to go at a speed faster than a man can walk. The wheelmen have a "pull" somewhere, but there will be a time and a change next May. Then we will have laws passed that will stand.

Korner is going to attend the Democratic club meeting Saturday night, and he wants to see all other good Democrats there. The meeting will elect delegates to the State Democratic club convention that will convene at Raleigh. I urge all young men to go and get some of the enthusiasm in their bones.

The hilarious "coons" that so handsomely decorated the curbstone and the rock in the bank building have made themselves somewhat seldom since cotton has opened.

Korner is going on a trip soon and rest up for a while, but before he takes his departure I will come again, and will say more about the improvements and growth of our little city. Goodbye, KORNER.

Special Notice.
New York, Sept. 10, 1894.
I will be home in a few days and will have a larger opening than ever before. I can promise my friends and customers a more varied line of millinery at lower prices than ever before, the importers having waited the passing of the Tariff Bill before withdrawing their goods from the custom house. I am assured that by prolonging my stay I can have newer goods at more popular prices. Trusting to be favored by your continued valued patronage, I remain,
Very Respectfully,
MISS MARY BRACHEN.

Matthew Whaley, a professional informer, was shot and killed at his house in Randolph county, Ala., last Friday night by distillery men.
