Scientific Investigation

It is a Conceded Fact

That the library possessed by the scientist, when it covers only his special line of work and study, is inadequate for his use.

Nature, within whose kingdom lie the fields of all science, has so constituted her domain that no one branch is distinct or independent of another. The scientist who enters some of her fields of study must inform himself upon all.

The botanist must seek his pre-historic plants in the study of geology—the uses of plants in zoology or chemistry.

The chemist finds his materials for work in the study of geology or botany.

The sciences all depend upon the other, and the successful scientist must thoroughly understand each and its relation to his chosen branch.

Further the scientist, must have his

Information Within Easy Reach

It must be exact and concise, for in the midst of an experiment he has no time for searching large libraries or bulky volumes.

He has found a remedy for the inadequacy of his special library; it is the new up-to-date Encyclopædia Britannica—authoritative, concise, accessible, complete. He can turn in a moment to any subject suggested by any feature of the experiment.

But the scientist is not alone in this discovery, for so complete and universal in its bearings is this wonderful reference library that men in every walk of life find in it just what they need. It is

What You Need

It is unnecessary for us to tell you so—you have known it long. But it is ours to remind you that unless you act promptly you must buy it at the regular retail prices, for the introductory offer will last but a short time.

Caught by a Decey Letter.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 18.—It has just been made public that Geo. Morrison, one of the counterfeiters of the two cent postage stamps, was arrested in the Cincinnati post office on Tuesday, on a decey letter. He had sent to the Chicago Tribune an advertisement offering to sell $125 worth of stamps for $100 and directing the answers to be sent to Geo. Morrison.

No Thief Felt the Halter Draw.

The Populists say they are tired of hearing so much about that Fred. Dougless Legislature and of the deviltry of clerks and unprincipled representatives in stealing and sneaking in bills. Doubtless they are tired and are anxious to hear no more of it. A few years ago a man was tried in the Superior Court here for stealing seed cotton. F. I. Osborne was then solicitor and made one of his greatest speeches for the prosecution. After Mr. Osborne closed his argument the prisoner was asked by a friend what he thought of the solicitor's speech. He replied, "Well, to tell you God's truth I never did get so tired of hearing one speech in all my life. That fellow Osborne naturally makes me tired."—Monroe Enquirer.

BOILER EXPLOSION.

Mr. William Morris Badly Scalded—His Condition Not Serious, Fortunately.

Mr. Will Morris, who lives about four miles from town, met with a painful accident this (Friday) morning.

He was running his gin. While working around the engine the boiler exploded, and Mr. Morris was badly scalded. The first report was that he was seriously injured.

The latest information is that he is not seriously, though painfully hurt.

It was impossible to get full particulars of the accident for this issue.

Fusion and Prohibition.

Why, instead of helping the cause of temperance by legislating it into a fair change in the race, the Fusion Legislature did its best it framing the new election law to rub the Prohibition party clerk off North Carolina territory."—Ballot Box.

Ingalls Out and Out for Free Coinage.

Macon, Mo., April 18.—In conversation with a member of the G. A. R., at the state encampment being held here, J. J. Ingalls has declared he was not only in favor of putting a plank into the national platform favoring free and unlimited coinage of silver, but that he is strongly in favor of nominating a candidate who is personally in favor of that principle.

Twenty-one Children to Begin With.

The happiest marriage ever chronicled in this section of the State was, possibly, that which occurred one day last week at Hat Creek, the contracting parties being Mrs. Molley Foster, and Mr. James Harper, both of that vicinity, says the Lynchburg Advance. The marriage took place amid great rejoicing at the home of the bride, and afterward the happy couple removed to the home of the groom, which was not far distant. The bride is the mother of fourteen children, while the groom, who was a widower, has in his family seven youngsters, so that the young couple will begin life with twenty-one children.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

The Billville Banner.

Billville is getting ready for the exposition. We have a number of spring alligators that saved five niggers from being lynched by swallowing them alive.

The fishing season is not full as usual. The jug factory was totally destroyed by fire on Wednesday last, and all we have left now is bait.

During the moonlight picnic we mistook our trunk for a cat, and threw the same out of the window. The sheriff caught it on the fly, and relieved us of three shirts and a certificate of good character.

Billville hopes to take the prize medals at the Atlanta exposition. In fact she has already engaged space and, among other things, will exhibit a congressman who never did anything except to draw his salary and return to his constituents.—Atlanta Constitution.

MURDER IN IREDELL.

A Negro Killed a White Man in a Dispute Over 25 Cents.

Late Saturday afternoon a white man named T. J. Overcash was killed by a negro, Jim Feimster, in Concord township, Iredeell county. Feimster was to have been married Sunday and had gone to Statesville to get his license. He got full up on whiskey and on his way home met Overcash, to whom he owed a balance of 25 cents on a calf purchased, at a branch. The negro had a chicken and Overcash demanded the balance due him or the fowl. Feimster had no money and refused to give up the chicken which he said was for his wedding dinner. After an exchange of words, both men in the meanwhile having obtained a rock, Overcash started to cross the branch. The negro dared him to cross and as he did so threw the rock, striking him on the head and knocking him down, partly in the water. Feimster picked up his chicken and started home, leaving the wounded man on the ground. Two other negroes who witnessed the difficulty carried Overcash to his home. He remained unconscious until about 8 o'clock Sunday morning when he died.
