MR. BRYAN'S SPEECH.

Whatever may be faulted against Mr. Bryan as, young, unnecessarily severe against the administration whose equal he will not find it easy to prove himself, of appealing to the public passion somewhat after the popular modern style, of threatening to bolt if his demands were not acceded to, his speech of acceptance in Madison Square Garden in New York last Wednesday night was a masterpiece of unaffected oratory.

The speech is easily the ablest defense of the free coinage theory that we have seen. His boldness to grapple with every phase of the subject elicits admiration, and his confidence in his theory goes far toward forcing the admission that he may be right, while some of his logic is so new and startling as to leave the mind in a maze, and we wonder if we know cause and effect. There are those who are great in oratory but not in the execution of grand schemes, but he leads us to have confidence that his powers are still deeper than his words. His utterances inspire the hope that in him we have a grand leader that may mitigate evils if they come, and crown benefits with the highest glory.

We would rather risk free silver under Mr. Bryan's administration than the gold standard under Mr. McKinley's administration.

Probably among all the enthusiasts for free coinage he has not a peer and it is to be hoped that he will gain his goal and that when he yields the white house to another occupant this vexing money question shall have been laid to rest and this terrible agitation will no longer haunt us with evils worse than the existence of either standard of money. A monetary change can hardly be effected without danger, but the American people are in no attitude for delay and few evils could be greater than a fretting, tuning, chafing demand for an experiment that is now so popularly looked upon as a panacea for the ills brought on by some erratic drift of national legislation.

Mr. Bryan has the convictions of right rather than political artifice, he has youthful vigor and strength not ready to yield to apparent calamity, he is not fossilized into incapacity for unforeseen drifts of national phases, he seems untrammelled with official debts and obligations and if he should be happy in the selection of a cabinet and in an harmonious Congress he may do much to relieve the strain now so fearfully threatening the peace of the nation.

Standard Oil Tank.

At the meeting of the board of town commissioners Monday night a privilege was granted the Standard Oil Company to run a pipe from the railroad to their tank, which will be placed on the land of Mr. R A Brown, a safe distance below the depot. Preparations are now being made for placing the tank.

Do You Use It?

It's the best thing for the hair under all circumstances. Just as no man by taking thought can add an inch to his stature, so no preparation can make hair. The utmost that can be done is to promote conditions favorable to growth. This is done by Ayer's Hair Vigor. It removes dandruff, cleanses the scalp, nourishes the soil in which the hair grows, and, just as a desert will blossom under rain, so bald heads grow hair, when the roots are nourished. But the roots must be there. If you wish your hair to retain its normal color, or if you wish to restore the lost tint of gray or faded hair use
Ayer's Hair Vigor.
