Too Much of the Word.

A writer on educational work combatting certain drill methods that ignore too much the clear conceptions that should be of first and paramount consideration says:

Too much of the word—too much of the book is taught. Facts are memorized without reference to their value. Thought is inactive, and all is vaguery. This mode of teaching reminds me of the story related of the Irishman who wished to get into the body guard of a certain soldier-leader of Germany.
Now, to get into that body guard it was necessary that you should talk German. The Irishman inquired of a German soldier what he should say. The soldier told him he would be asked three questions.
First, "How old are you?" When he should reply, "Dreisig yaara (thirty-years)." "The second question," said the German, "will be,
'How long have you been in the service?' Then you must say 'Drei yaara.'" The Irishman repeated 'Drei yaara.'" Then the old German said, "He will ask you 'Have you been in the naval or in the field service?' and you must say 'Beide (both).'" As the Irishman approached the body guard he kept saying these words over and over, 'Dreisig yaara.'" "Drei yaara," and 'Beide.'" When the Irishman came up to the guard the veteran German changed the order of the questions and asked him, "How long have you been in the service?"
'Dreisig yaara," replied the Irishman. He then asked, "How old are you?" "Drei yaara," was the answer. The soldier looked at him with astonishment, and, with his eyes bulging out with rage, asked, 'Who is a fool, you or I?" To which the Irishman replied with dignity, "Beide (both)."

Tiny is Dead.

Tiny is dead; Sir Archibald Maclaine is in tears, and all London is sad. But it is consoling to think of the grand opportunity which that death affords to Mr.
Alfred Austin, England's poet laureate. He can knock out "La Mort d'Arthur" with "La Mort de Tiny," and make the Queen cry.

But who is Tiny, anyhow? Well, we reply that he was the littlest yellow dog in the world. From the tip of his snout to the root of his tail he measured exactly four inches. He could go to sleep comfortably in the hand of a child. In canine parlance he was a toy terrier. His appetite was always delicate, but at his last dinner he ate too much tripe, and indigestion was the consequence. His physician thought he could pull him through, and nobody expected a catastrophe; but the unexpected arrived. Now he has glass eyes and a skin full of stuffing; and in this condition Sir Archibald has presented him to the London Zoo. It now only remains for us to wait in patience for the coming poem from the pen of the poet laureate on "La Mort de Tiny."—New York Sun.

What stops Neuralgia? Dr. Kille's Pain Pills

Nowadays when women are trying to do everything it is not strange that many things are overdone. It is not strange that there are all kinds of physical and mental disturbances. If the woman who is a doctor, or a lawyer, or a journalist, or in business would not try to be a society woman too it might be different; but the woman who knows when she has done a day's work has yet to be born. Usually a woman's way is to keep doing until she drops.
Working in this way has manifold evils. The most common trouble resulting from overexertion, either mentally or physically, is constipation of the bowels, with all its attendant horrors.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the most effectual remedy in the market. They work upon the system easily, naturally. There is no unpleasant nausea after taking them.
No griping—no pain—no discomfort. They are composed of materials that go through the system gradually, collecting all impurities and, like the good little servants that they are, disposing of them effectually.

Items From Cold Springs.

We are glad to announce that the case of Mr. Mike Lefler is improving.
There is hope for his recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Earnhardt spent Tuesday at Mrs. Earnhardt's father, Mr. D. C. Faggart.

Mrs. Bascum Cox, who has been very sick with typhoid fever, is improving.

Mr. J. Homer Barnhardt, of Cold Springs, has gone to Durham to enter Trinity College.

Mr. H. Sidney Barnhardt picked 270 lbs of cotton one day last week.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers.
No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, indigestion, constipation, dizziness yields to Electric Bitters. 50c and $1.00 per bottle at Fetzer's Drug Store.

Of Interest to the Public.

This is to certify that Mrs. J Ingram Klutz has been a faithful and very successful student in the American Art School, and has won the first honor and gold medal in her class. She is a person of unusual mental capability, of attractive appearance, and pleasing and refined in her manner. I can recommend her with confidence as a teacher and as a good Christian lady who uses her influence to lead others, both by word and good Christian example.

Respectfully,
MISS A. M. HILL,
Principal American Art School.
