HEAR WITH DISCRETION.

We are glad that so many of our citizens turn out to hear the discussions of the issues now pending. It shows a disposition to treat honest opponents with due deference. Among the speakers there are those who may not be sincere. A close scrutiny will generally detect it. No one likes to admit that he is made of putty that can be compressed into any form of conviction that the speaker desires. There are the fewest number of speeches that do not contain matter to be eschewed and there are few also that have not food for profitable thought. If a man is a man he will be the better able to defend the truth and combat error by hearing every side. There are speeches that tend to array one class against another till they are unfit to be heard by any one not well grounded in his sense of wrong in such folly and wickedness.

We are to be congratulated that most of our speeches this fall have been in a measure free from this evil, especially when compared with other campaigns.

The speakers last night were comparatively free from any thing to irritate the hearers.

The arguments were such as we thought were good Democratic doctrine before the Chicago convention. Since then, in deference to majorities and a very popular demand, we have felt it to be best to unite for the election of the Chicago ticket and we feel the more braced in our course by the fact that we have such men as Hoke Smith, General Gordon and a number of others of prominence with us.

We think one of the speakers dropped into the error of looking upon Mr. Bryan as favoring measures more extreme than he does.

Mr. Vinton's remarks on capital and labor were intended to combat that surprising assertion that the financial issue is an issue of the classes against the masses. We regret most of all that anyone missed that part of his speech. It was kind in spirit, forcible in logic and was well calculated to help to link these two elements in closer compact to the prosperity and the well-being of all concerned. It was noticeable in its effects and we feel sure that its influences will be felt and put to living application.

Our McKinley protection friends seem all the time to plead for the advantage of the producer and forget that the consumer is to receive any consideration whatever. If the consumer is depressed till he is unable to consume much of the produce will lack a market, and all his production will amount to nothing.

Old people who require medicine to regulate their bowels and kidneys will find the true remedy in Electric Bitters. This medicine does not stimulate and contains no whiskey nor other intoxicant, but acts as a tonic and alterative. It acts kindly on the stomach and bowels, aiding through its action to the organs, thereby aiding nature in the performance of the function. Electric Bitters is an excellent expectorant and aids digestion. Old people find it just exactly what they need. Price 50c and 10c per bottle at Fetter's Drug Store.

Prepare for Emergencies.
While some of our citizens and most thoughtful observers realize that we are likely to have a severe winter, it is the wisest and safest course to prepare to prepare for a very decided change in the temperature during the winter months. The utmost precaution should be employed to secure the live stock on the farm from the inclemency of the weather and the sudden declension of the thermometer to zero during the winter months. It is not only humane to the animal, but a saving of pro- vender. The unexpected, it is said, always happens; but if you expect and prepare for an emergency and it does not happen, you are not a loser thereby. The Rev. Irl R. Hicks, the great weather prophet, who has many firm believers in the accuracy of his predictions, has stated that the month of December will be one of the most severe that we have known for years. Winter, he says, will begin early and be a cold one, but the centre of the worst period will begin on December 19th, and continue until December 30th. Forewarned—forearmed. The path of prudence is to fortify ourselves against all possible damage from the inclemency of winter.—Southern Farm.

Housekeeping.

If a woman is in good health there is no more healthful employment than housework. Generally speaking, there is no happier woman in the world. But how different when every breath is pain, every step torture! This state of health, in nine cases out of ten comes from some derangement of the delicate feminine orders of generation. The family doctor inquires first concerning these. He most usually insists upon an "examination." From this the modest woman naturally shrinks. She is right. Except in very unusual cases of "female weakness" examinations are unnecessary. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a simple, natural remedy for these ills. It cures safely, permanently.

Original Observations.

'Tis the early chestnut that catches the worm.

The road to economy is a prudent buy-way.

Legal redress is the court plaster of the feelings.

Sweet-meets—two lovers folded in each other's arms.

A cutaway jacket is the best costume for an elopement.

It is a curious fact that a steam whistle makes a horse fly.

Many Orange men think that a half loaf is better than no vacation.

The girl who loves William never asks her father to foot her bill.

When age is in question women are not of a forgiving disposition.

Soon be time for sausage, the ground hog that never sees its own shadow.

Bring a song a leap year, pocket full of cash, that's the kind of bachelor for merry maids to "mash."

When Eve upon the first of men she apple pressed with specious cant, O, what a thousand pities did she find Adam was not Adamant.

The bugwump comes when the hour is late, to the pane where the light is shining, and the bugwump stands at the yard gate, his arm the girl entwining.

When a Henry was courting Sarah he used to boast that he had a "boss" girl; now that he is married, he finds that he has a "boss" wife—but he never mentions it.—Orange (Va.) Observer.

Beautiful eyes grow dull and dim
As the swift years steal away.
Beautiful, willowy forms so slim
Lose fairness with every day.
But she still is queen and hath charms to

Who wears youth's coronal—beautiful hair.

Preserve Your Hair

and you preserve your youth. "A woman is as old as she looks," says the world. No woman looks as old as she is if her hair has preserved its normal beauty. You can keep hair from falling out, restoring its normal color, or restore the normal color to gray or faded hair, by the use of
