POLITICAL INTOLERANCE.

It is to be exceedingly regretted that in our political campaigns there is so much in our stump speeches, our newspapers and even in private discussions that is so unfair as to unbalance many minds and persuade them that everybody holding views opposed their own is necessarily wicked and not entitled to decent treatment.

There are those who can forget the life service of such a man as John G. Carlisle, whose statesmanship and his title to the highest respect has probably never been disputed until this abnormal financial agitation.

Now, because his views do not coincide with the popular storm he is regarded as unfaithful to the cause of his country and was insulted at his own home in Kentucky recently. He was probably the one least excited in the meeting and coolly asked those who did not want to hear him to please leave. He finished his speech of two hours but a howling mob had to be kept at bay while he made his way to his home for the night. Such is a relic of worse days than these of civilization of which we like to boast.

The spirit of intolerance is even manifested among us sometimes. No reasonable speaker can object to occasional outbursts of enthusiasm for favorites, but every one has his following and the public court house is preeminently the place to go and hear them.

Now if we do not want to hear we can stay away, but those citizens who wish to hear are certainly entitled to the privilege as well as we. There should be no purpose to hinder and we wish to advise those who do that they make the sturdy class of adherents to their cause ashamed and sometimes drive them away from the party or so humiliate them as to cool all their enthusiasm.

We can do better than to indulge in such methods and it is to be hoped all good citizens of every political shade will conspire to raise our community above the name of political intolerance.

THE LATE STORM.

We that escaped the furies of that terrible storm gave a few sighs and a few words of pity and passed on in the busy marts of life forgetful of those in the storm's path. But not so with them. After the first stunning shock of what seemed to be Divine chastisement there came a thrill of gratitude that it was no worse. Man's nature is to rise and sink as his thoughts centre on Divine mercies for a time then on his surrounding. Rev. Wm. A. Julian writes from Mason, Fla., that houses, churches, forests and fences were swept to one common destruction. Roads are blocked and much suffering is ensuing for lack of facilities to reach supplies while stock are degrading on crops. Thus, the fruits of years of frugal toil are snatched away and these unfortunate people are left with the most gloom inspiring environments.

They should receive help from favored districts, and we may do well in humility and faithfulness in life to stay our turn which will assuredly come in some form of calamity when we render it needful for our good.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Diamondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at Rives Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results. Trial bottles free at Fetzner's Drug Store. Regular size 50c and $1.00.

She Accepted the Nomination.

An Atchison man recently asked a girl to marry him, and though she had been sitting up nights for him for six months, she replied that she would notify him of her answer by mail. After spending a week in suspense, he received a letter from her, 3,000 words in length. In it she explained her position on the tobacco question, stated what she had always advocated as the best kind of baking powder, told him that it was with a feeling of deep gratification that she accepted the honor he had done her, and hoped that she would always faithfully preserve the traditions of good housekeeping, etc. He was nearly dead from exhaustion when he read the postscript, which read: "You are so full of politics, I thought it might please you to be accepted like the candidates accept their presidential nominations."—Atchison Globe.

Fifty Years Ago.

President Polk in the White House chair. While in Lowell was Doctor Ayer; Both were busy for human weal. One to govern and one to heal. And, as a president's power of will Sometimes depends on a liver-pill. Mr. Polk took Ayer's Pills 1 row For his liver, 50 years ago.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills

were designed to supply a model purgative to people who had so long injured themselves with griping medicines. Being carefully prepared and their ingredients adjusted to the exact necessities of the bowels and liver, their popularity was instantaneous. That this popularity has been maintained is well marked in the medal awarded these pills at the World's Fair 1893.
