A Pen Pacture of the man by one of the Papers of His own city. How about Daniel L Russell? side from the fact that he is th representative of a party whic never harbored a friendly though for the South, but always regarded her as a legitimate subject for abuse plunder and oppression, he hasn't one single qualification for such an salted and responsible position.
Without the least $d \in s i r e ~ t o ~ u n d e r ~$ ate his mental power or to belittle commendable ambition ; withont he slightest prejudice or the faintest inge of mblice, our caudid upinion is that of all the names presenter or suggested the conventin which nominated him, whether it was onestly or dishonestly done, chose he man who 1810 every way least fitted for such a responsible trust. He is an intense partisan, without he liberality that a broad-minded partisan should have.
He gaages the merits of his party ssocia+es not by their devotion to principle or to party, but by their devotion and subservice to him, and hence he has been a faction and not a party leader.
He is ambitious, not for his country or his party, but for himself and bence it is charged by Republi. cans that they never knew where to find him unless he had an "ase grind" on the party's grindstone.
Dictatorial by nature, he chafe under restraint or opposition, and hence he has created antagonism amonn his fellows, who disputed th dictatorship and refused to recog nize the "one man po"er.
A man of principle he is not, for he bas been a greenbarker, wes free silver man, now believes that believes in the gold standard, and ronounces free silyer 'a hnmbug A candid and sincere man be not, for be is now making diecredit able able appeals to placate and secur the votes of negroes, whom he ha th it ves by instinct.
Bitter, violent, resentful, arrogant dictatorial, imperione, impulsiye, lacks the mastery over himself tha every man should have to fit him in govern others, directly or indirectly whether the others bs a few or great and progressive State, with ber more than a million and a hal of :pecple, with ber nomerous and diyersified industries. The prosperi ty and happliess of all these people the growth or the strangling of al these industiies, may depend and will depend mach pon the party which cotrols North Carolinar the next four gears, and on for who directs that party.
The man who is chosen to that higb post of honor and duty should go to it with a brain full of liberality, and a heart full of benevo lence; he should be both willing and able to throw off his selfish individuality, to merge the partisan in the patriot, and the self-seeking man in the people-serving Governor.
"The Ethiopian cannot change the color of his skin nor the leopard difficult, and it would be about dificult for Daniel L Russell to perament.
Regardless of politics, no greater calamity conla befall North Oarolina than the election of such a man to the governorship, for it wonld be of which no man conld foresee. If of which no man could foresee. If the people of North Carolina be rue to themselves and to her they Will ree that Oyrus B Watson and not Daniel L Rassell will direct the four yearas.-Wilmingtom Star. reate commotion, it is when some ne is running down a criminal. Wednesday evening while Mr. K L raven and family were at tea, Will Ialone, a mulatto hailing from ynchburg, Va., stepped into the all of Mr. Orayen's house on West Depot street and lifted a hat from the rack. From where Mr. Oraven at at his dining table his attention was attracted in the direction of the front door and when he looked around he saw the negroe's band reaching out for plunder. Mr Craven started at once for the negro, who dropped the hat on the pavement just outside the gate, and gaye him a lively chase, capturing him on West Corbin stree in the yard of Mr. Plott The negro will likely spend Christmas in jail, having been sent up to await the January court.

It would te well if the people generally would keep their front doors closed. There are numerous doors closed. mitted frequently.

It has been helu that consumpticn is hereditary, and the fact that one person of a family had died with coneuraption was considered a sure sign that other 8 of that family conid not escape it. This is partiy true weak lungs is likely to transmit that weakness to hie children. But there is su reabon in the world why weak ness should be allowed to develop, Keep the lungs full of rich, red, wholesome blood and the weakness will disappear.
