THAT DEMONSTRATION.

Did our colored fellow citizens and astute politicians have assurance that they were . be joined on yesterday by those who voted with them on the 3rd? If so there must have been a measure of disappointment, for they had it all to them- flying machine ready to greet the selves. It seems that the colored incoming of the twentieth century. population think that the election Will it have wings like a dove, that of McKinley was a special fayor the newspaper man may fly away to them and they see in every one who voted as they did a positive source of kindness to them. Taking that view of it it is all right for ganers are going to leave their gold them to manifest their gratitude standard mother State and settle in toward all who helped them on Western North Carolina. Well, we election day to free themselves from welcome them and hope that it is the consequences of Democratic rule reality, but they would do well to which was such a calaminty to remember that the cat jumps with them from '76 to '94. We like to the fusion monkey in the Tar Heel see marks of gratitude and fraternal | State. recognition but we wonder if they did not misconstrue the action of those who voted without reference to the brethren in that particular procession but from beliefs involving their own well being.

The fact that the McKinley and Russell supporters of both races did not mix in their jubilations might have been evidence to the brother in black that his political services were no longer needed and any special marks of familiarity was not now in good taste.

we don't like to have to take into close fellowship all who happened to vote as we did. We are that it is necessary to have on elecbygones be bygones, for we probably all vote as we see our general welto make us wish we could beat in the next election without those who would persist in extending the relations too far.

men will now address themselves to trated. the work of investing their capital and their energies in the way they think most promising of reward.

Four years is too long a time to bewail defeat or glory over success, bat it is too short a time for the party in power to rest on its oars regardless of the uprising that is destined to occur in 1900 if there be nothing to paliate the public evils. It will not do to say there is no room for discontent. There is una-defeat does not mean that no relief was needed but it meant that the measures offered did not command the confidence of very many that did not approve of McKinleyism, but still felt that in Bryanism there was danger of precipitation that would not do to hazard.

We now have four years to effect international bi-metallism, which would relieve all danger in free coinage, or if the party in power can effect reform, contrary to the former results of McKinley methods, and show to us that financial reform does not mean free coinage, then issues may be less divergent and the evils of another presidential campaign may be less paralysing to bus-

But if the McKinley administration prove as much a failure as the Harrison administration did we may expect Mr. Bryan to rally around him a force that will defy opposition and sweep the land as a cyclone.

We want the greatest good to the greatest number with evils to no one, and we welcome any party, regardless of name or former history, to the glory of its accomplishment.

Mr. Furman as a Prophet.

State Auditor R M Furman is now priding himself on his gifts as a prophet. Three days after Bryan's nomination, July 11th, he predicted McKinley's election. The prediction was made in a discussion with a friend, and purely, as a matter of curiosity, was written out by States, certain ones in the Bryan column and the other ones credited to Mc-Kinley. This was sealed up and marked "To be opened November nimity enough in the public mind 3rd," and put away in the Audithat reform is needed and our late tor's safe. Saturday the envelope was opened, and it was found that the prediction had come true in every particular except as to Kansas, which was given to McKinley instead of being put in the Bryan column, where it belongs. Mr. Furman strongly favored Bryan's election, but he feared that Hanna's money would carry the country a d it did
