MRS. BONDS KILLED.

DEATH CAME QUICK AND UNEXPECTED.

The Old Lady Taken Unawares in an Unavoidable Accident On the Cannonville Siding—Head Mashed and Body Badly Mangled—A Horrible Scene.

At 12:20 o'clock today (Saturday) a horrible accident occurred on the railroad side track at Cannonville, where the Cannon and Odell siding leaves the main line.

The victim of this horrible accident was a widow lady, Mrs. Lizzie Bonds, 59 years of age, and who lived with Rush Sherrill, just across the track from where the killing occurred. The particulars are about as follows:

Mrs. Bonds was returning to her home from carrying dinner of Mr. Sherrill, who works at the Cannon mills. Her most direct route from the mill home was out Mill street extension, which ends at the place where she met her death, thence down the track. Mrs. Bonds had not been blessed with the best of health for several years and was slightly deaf. She was wearing an old-time sunbonnet and was facing the wind, and quite naturally carrying her head with the face toward the ground.

Capt. Ed Patterson's train was throwing in a car at the bleachery and from necessity detached the three box cars from the engine, which had by the time they reached the bend in the track, gained considerable speed. A brakeman, Jule Hargrave, was on the car next to the woman, but owing to the obstruction to the view by the warehouse between the cars and the victim, Jule did not see the woman until within a few feet of her. He hollered, but of no avail. He could not stop the cars until the poor old woman was mangled beneath the wheels.

Messrs. H J Dix and W A Russell were standing in the door at the bleachery and saw the whole affair. These gentlemen told a STANDARD reporter that the three cars were going down the track at a moderate speed, and just as the woman stepped on to the track the cars were within a few yards of her. She was carrying several pieces of plank, which fell on the outside of the track while she was knocked flat between the rails when the car struck her. There were no brakes on the front end of the car, but on the rear trucks the brakes caught the woman, striking her head first and throwing her body under the wheels. Her head was mashed into crumbs, while her body was terribly mangled. Death was instantaneous.

This marks the first fatality on this siding, and is greatly deplored. The accident, under the circumstances, was an unavoidable one.

Mrs. Bonds was the mother of Mr. Cicero Bonds, a well-to-do farmer, who lives at Poplar Tent.

The remains of the dead woman were taken charge of by relatives and conveyed to the home of Mrs. Matthew Safrit.

Capt. Patterson and his crew were completely overcome by the accident, and lingered around the scene for several hours.

This is a sad ending for an old and feeble woman.

ROWAN HOMICIDE.

Jones Instantly Killed by Esquire Barber—Cursing Insults Brings Re- sultment That Accidentally Turns Into Slaying.

From the Salisbury World we learn that Robert Jones, colored, was shot and instantly killed by Esquire Ed. Barber, near Cleveland, Rowan county, Wednesday night.

The facts connected with the case seem to be about as follows: Jones was a tenant of Mr. Barber's and living on Mr. Barber's land. The house in which he lived was about 200 yards from Mr. Barber's house. A difference arose about some local affairs and Jones was at Mr. Barber's at a corn shucking. Feelings of warmth arose and Jones went off cursing Barber all the way home and there became more violent. Mr. Barber ordered him to desist from his insults and with his shot gun in hand proceeded to enforce the demand when Jones became more fierce instead of becoming quiet. Mr. Barber struck Jones with the muzzle of his gun when, to his horror the gun fired, blowing off the top of Jones' head and killing him instantly. Mr. Barber proceeded to Salisbury and employed Lawyers Overman and Clement and secreted himself till further developments.

A coroner's jury rendered a verdict of accidental homicide.

Mr. Barber is highly esteemed in his neighborhood and much regret is felt for the unfortunate participants in this calamity.

The Show.

We are pleased with the Belford show.

The acrobatic performances are amazing and display the possibilities of the human body when subjected to thorough training, and they tend to heighten our conceptions of man physically, in harmony with man intellectually.

The contortions shake us up in our ideas of man's construction and we wonder that there are not different anatomical classifications of the human body that treat of one kind of joints, tendons and muscles for common people and another kind of joint for such as Mr. Crawford.

"A little nonsense now and then is relished by the best of men" and the clown makes you laugh at him and then laugh at yourself for doing so.

But we have no terms in which to speak our praises for Mr. Burr's band. It is simply superb and we are glad that Concord is being treated to music of such high order. We rarely have an opportunity to listen to such flowing harmony and such pleasing rhythm.

The show as a whole is modest and chaste and needs no menagerie to make it admissible for all who are not religiously opposed to shows.

Second Crop of Cotton.

Mr. N A Blackwelder, who lives in the extreme edge of No. 11 town- ship southeast of this city, says "You may talk about your second crop apples, pears, peaches and strawberries, but if frost doesn't interfere, I will soon have a second crop of cotton. My cotton bolls are turning green and blossoms and bolls are numerous." This is indeed a wonderful climate in which we live, and is strictly up to date.

Cold Weather Coming.

While we are almost sweltering here in our Indian summer the bleak and howling winds with their loads of snow drifts are sweeping the West and Northwest. In North Dakota trains are stuck in the snow with car loads of cattle while the storm shows no sign of abatement. All traffic and business is suspended and much suffering and loss must ensue. In Kentucky, Minnesota, Oregon, Northwest Texas and even Mississippi storms have been raging with more or less severity and fatality. In Oregon the thermometer registered 31 below zero Friday, which is the lowest for 24 years.

The SYMPTOMS of Liver Complaint are a bitter or bad taste in the mouth; Pain in the Back, Sides or Joints, often mistaken for Rheumatism; Sour Stomach; Loss of Appetite; Bowels alternately constive and lax; Headache; Loss of Memory, with a painful sensation of having failed to do something which ought to have been done; Debility; Low Spirits; a thick, yellow appearance of the Skin and Eyes; a dry Cough, often mistaken for Consumption. Sometimes many of these symptoms attend the disease, at others very few; but the LIVER, the largest organ in the body, is generally the seat of the disease, and if not regulated in time, great suffering, wretchedness and DEATH will ensue. The following highly-esteemed persons attest to the virtues of SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR: Gen. W. S. Holt, Pres. Ga. S. W. R. Co.; Rev. J. R. Felder, Perry, Ga.; Col. E. K. Sparks, Albany, Ga.; C.
