S. L. GRAHAM ARRESTED.

Mr. J. L. Graham, chief clerk of C. M. Mcbane, Superintendent of public instruction, was arrested in Raleigh Saturday morning charged with burning the house in which he lived in Newton last year. Mr. Graham gives a very satisfactory sounding statement, and may be innocent and we hope he is, but he certainly gives himself away to grave suspicions when he attributes his arrest to political persecution from Democrats.

It is very unfortunate for Mr. Graham that such suspicions are not altogether a surprise and his charging his arrest to such causes weakens his case.

JUDGE NORWOOD ON THE BENCH.

Judge Norwood is to hold court this week in Monroe.

We are glad that impeachment proceedings are made unnecessary by his resignation now placed to be considered effectual at his first break-down.

There is little hope that he will sustain himself, but getting rid of him will be easy and when he is down and out of the office that no man of his besetting weakness should aspire to, the full measure of sympathy may be and will probably be bestowed upon him.

The old story of Prometheus is a parable. Prometheus was on terms of intimacy with the gods. From them he stole fire, and gave it to men. For this sin he was bound to the rocks of Mount Caucasus, and vultures were set upon him. They only ate his liver. This grew again as fast as it was pecked away. Are his sufferings to be imagined? Take a modern interpretation of the parable. There is no cooking without fire. In cooking and eating the mischief lies. The stomach is overtasked, the bowels become clogged, they cannot dispose of the food that is given them. The impurities back up on the liver. Then come the vultures—the torments of a diseased liver. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is more than equal to the vultures of dyspepsia and its kindred diseases. There is no more need of suffering from dyspepsia than there is of hanging one's self. Sold by all medicine dealers the world over.

Bullet that Killed Jackson.

An article lately published in the New York Herald says that the bullet which killed General Stonewall Jackson is in the possession of I. B. Wheeler, of Highland Falls, N. Y., who has documents which establish the authenticity of his claim. Wheeler claims that his cousin was General Jackson's staff, and the article after describing Jackson's brilliant flank movement at Chancellorsville, and how Sickle's column went to pieces under the onslaught of twenty five thousand grey coats tells how Jackson was wounded by his own men. In the amputation of the great leader's arm Wheeler says the surgeon threw the bullet against the wall in a fit of anger and his cousin picked it up. In going through the letters effects Wheeler found the bullet about which the article was written.—Durham Sun.

To Be Buried Alive.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Feb. 6.—Charles Brown, a young Atlanta man, has just gone through the experience of sleeping two days while under hypnotic influence. His next feat is to remain buried 72 hours.

This will not be the first time that the young man has been buried alive. The experiment was tried before and was not successful. In time Brown will get to be a professional grave-yard man and an habitual sleeper, if this sort of thing keeps up.

Brown is to be buried like any other man, but with one exception. A grave ten feet deep is to be dug, and in this the young man is to be placed. A two inch tube will lead down to the coffin from above, thus giving him the necessary air. The coffin is to be an ordinary casket, and the stowing away of the young man will look very natural indeed. The interment will take place in Jacksonville, Fla.

An Unmitigated Misfortune.

The McDuffie (Ga.) Journal describes in the following words an occurrence that will sometimes happen in a print shop:

"Every printer knows that next to a burn-out, a 'pied' form is the most namitigated misfortune that can possibly befall a printing office. After we had made ready to print our paper last week, in placing the forms on the press, the aggravating type suddenly dropped into chaos and mixed themselves up in about one bushel of the most disgusting 'pie' that ever demoralized a virtuous and innocent printery. The contemptible little metal fiends acted like they were drunk or crazy. The long primer jumped in among the bourgeois, the nonpareil swung corners with the brevier, and the head letter crawled over into the disgusting wreck of advertisements. The quads and spaces turned themselves loose in a wild, idiotic spree, and sneaked and pranced in and through the whole mournful, sickening mess. Even the usually sober and sedate column rules acted in a most hateful and indecent manner. They stood on their heads, and grinned and snickered and waved defiance over the scene of the disaster."
