CONCORD, MARCH 29 1897.

A GOOD HIT.

That was a corker the Democrats of the House of Representatives put upon the Republicans last Friday in the discussion of the tariff. It was proposed to place on the free list all dutiable goods on which trusts have been formed.

It hit squarely and if it could have been brought to a vote it would have committed the Republicans for or against trusts, but it was ruled out.

Take away the tariff and see how quickly the trusts will go to pieces. Some one answers we must have revenue. So we must. Therefore let us lay a tariff where it will bring revenue and take it off where it proves to foster trusts. Revenue would be better by direct tax than to build up large fortunes with which to corrupt politics and often society.

Remove the tariff where trusts are formed and we will have little use for anti-trust laws and endless litigation to dissolve them, with a whole lot of mean reflections on everybody connected with the responsibility of the prosecution.

The Fashion in Spring Jackets.

"The sleeves of the new jackets," writes Isabel A Mallon in the April Ladies' Home Journal, "are decidedly smaller, the necessary fullness being immediate at the top.

"The revers are not exaggerated, the rather simple masculine coat collar and lapels being fancied, and these are very often faced with velvet.

"There are few ripple effects; instead, the smart jacket—that is, the semi-fitted one—rests smoothly across the back and does not suggest too much fullness.

"Covert cloths are especially favored. The colors in vogue are fawn, tan, light and dark blue reseda, cream white, black, as a matter of course, and all the innumerable grays.

"Braiding especially with sou-tache, obtains very generally, and coats have designs arranged for them, the braiding being done by hand so that a wide effect is given to the shoulders, a narrow to the waist, and a broad to the hips. Short Empire coats entirely covered with braid, put on lengthwise are seen.

"Small buttons of ivory, pearl and gilt are used, the ivory and the pearl being the round bullet shape, while the gold buttons are flat and suggestive of gold dollars. Large buttons, notably those showing the Delft colorings and patterns, continue to be popular, but the newest jackets show the fly closing with no attempt at placing buttons as if they were really used."

A Deception Easily Practised

is the offer of a reward for "any case of catarrh not cured" by certain "cures." Nothing is said regarding the number of bottles required, and therein lies the deception. Ely's Cream Balm is an elegant preparation, agreeable to use, and immediate in its beneficial results. It cures catarrh. You can rely upon the fact that it contains no mercury nor other injurious drug. 50 cents.

Have Learned Economy.

The financial squeeze which this country has passed through will rebound greatly to the benefit of the South. Our people have not been only improvident, but have been wasteful. Our farmers must now have learned the lesson that the pig pen, the chicken yard, the truck patch and the dairy are factors which they must lean upon more heavily than in the past. They must have learned that a wagon is intended to haul more farm product than cotton to the market. If the intelligent white farmer who lived in the past with ease—for nature's handiwork fed and clothed him—has learned this lesson, and will illustrate its wisdom to the negro householder, the country will prosper and will be a beneficiary from the lesson of the past.—Huntsville (Ala.) Tribune.

Coloring Easter Eggs.

Easter eggs can be colored with aniline dyes. It should be diluted to the proper shade and the eggs boiled in it. Green, the color of hope and resurrection, is particularly appropriate, but a variety is pleasing—red, pink, blue, pale yellow and purple. Eggs can be boiled hard, and painted in water-colors with a single spring flower, as a primrose, or a butterfly, also a symbol of the resurrection. They should be arranged in nests of moss. German children believe that the Easter eggs are laid by hares, so representations of this little animal are often placed on them, or near them. Painted butterflies, mounted on wire, can be made to hover over the nest.—April Ladies' Home Journal.

The Mississippi Floods.

The floods are subsiding along the upper Mississippi and its tributaries but are fearfully high along the lower parts near the mouth.

Heroic efforts are being made to hold in the flood which even about New Orleans is lapping the very tops of the levees. In the towns along the danger points merchants are closing their business and with their force are on the levees with bags of sand and other means holding the waters which are expected to rise still higher.

Great fears prevail, with some hope that the heroic efforts put forth may save the threatened breaking of levees and the destruction of life and property.

Honesty of purpose and conscientious performance of duty, carry one much farther, in the long run, than flashes of genius even, unaccompanied by sincere motives. It is the plodding man of rugged honesty that sticks and stays and succeeds the most grandly.—Scotland Neck Commonwealth.

The present duty on cotton corduroy, which is principally used in making cheap clothing for poor men, is 47 1/2 per cent. The Dingley bill makes it about 130 per cent. But the fellows who got up that bill don't care whether poor men have clothes or not.—Wilmington Star.

Fifty Years Ago.

Who could imagine that this should be the place where, in eighteen ninety-three That white world-wonder of arch and dome Should shadow the nations, polychrome... Here at the Fair was the prize conferred On Ayer's Pills, by the world preferred. Chicago-like, they a record show, Since they started—50 years ago.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills

have, from the time of their preparation, been a continuous success with the public. And that means that Ayer's Pills accomplish what is promised for them; they cure where others fail. It was fitting, therefore, that the world-wide popularity of these pills should be recognized by the World's Fair medal of 1893—a fact which emphasizes the record:
